Pact Nations Urged To Pick Defense Chief

"Urgency" Noted By Military Men

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Military chiefs of the 12 North Atlantic treaty nations recommended with "urgency" tonight that a supreme commander to direct the common defense of Western Europe be set up without delay.

The announcement came a few hours after the White House disclosed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, often mentioned as a likely choice for the supreme command post, will probably confer with President Truman this weekend.

An American spokesman declined to say just what country had been suggested as the possible source of the supreme commander. Should it be an American, his selection would be up to President Truman.

In Indianapolis yesterday, Eisenhower told newsmen he was coming to Washington within a few days to confer with Defense Department officials.

Eisenhower "Pleased"

The General said he did not know what the department wanted, but he commented:

"I am happy and pleased, of course, that the people of Europe have suggested me to head their defense army."

At their session today, the North Atlantic military men also agreed to set up a new agency designed to make standardization of arms easier among the treaty nations in their combined defense against Communist aggression.

The group made it clear it wants no delay in appointing a supreme commander. It took the position this step should not wait for the organization of a powerful new multination army. There had been suggestions previously that the pact army should be organized first before an overall commander was chosen.

"Sense Of Urgency"

The American spokesman commented:

"There was a sense of urgency behind the whole matter."

He did not elaborate on any immediate reason for urgency, nor was there any sign of developments pointing to a new crisis in the troubled international picture.

Just a few hours earlier, President Truman had told his news conference that he does not expect trouble in Western Europe this year.

Mr. Truman made the comment when asked if he thought there was danger of trouble from the Russians in that area in the next few months.

Recommendations for quick action to cope with any emergency were implicit, however, in the sessions of the North Atlantic defense leaders.

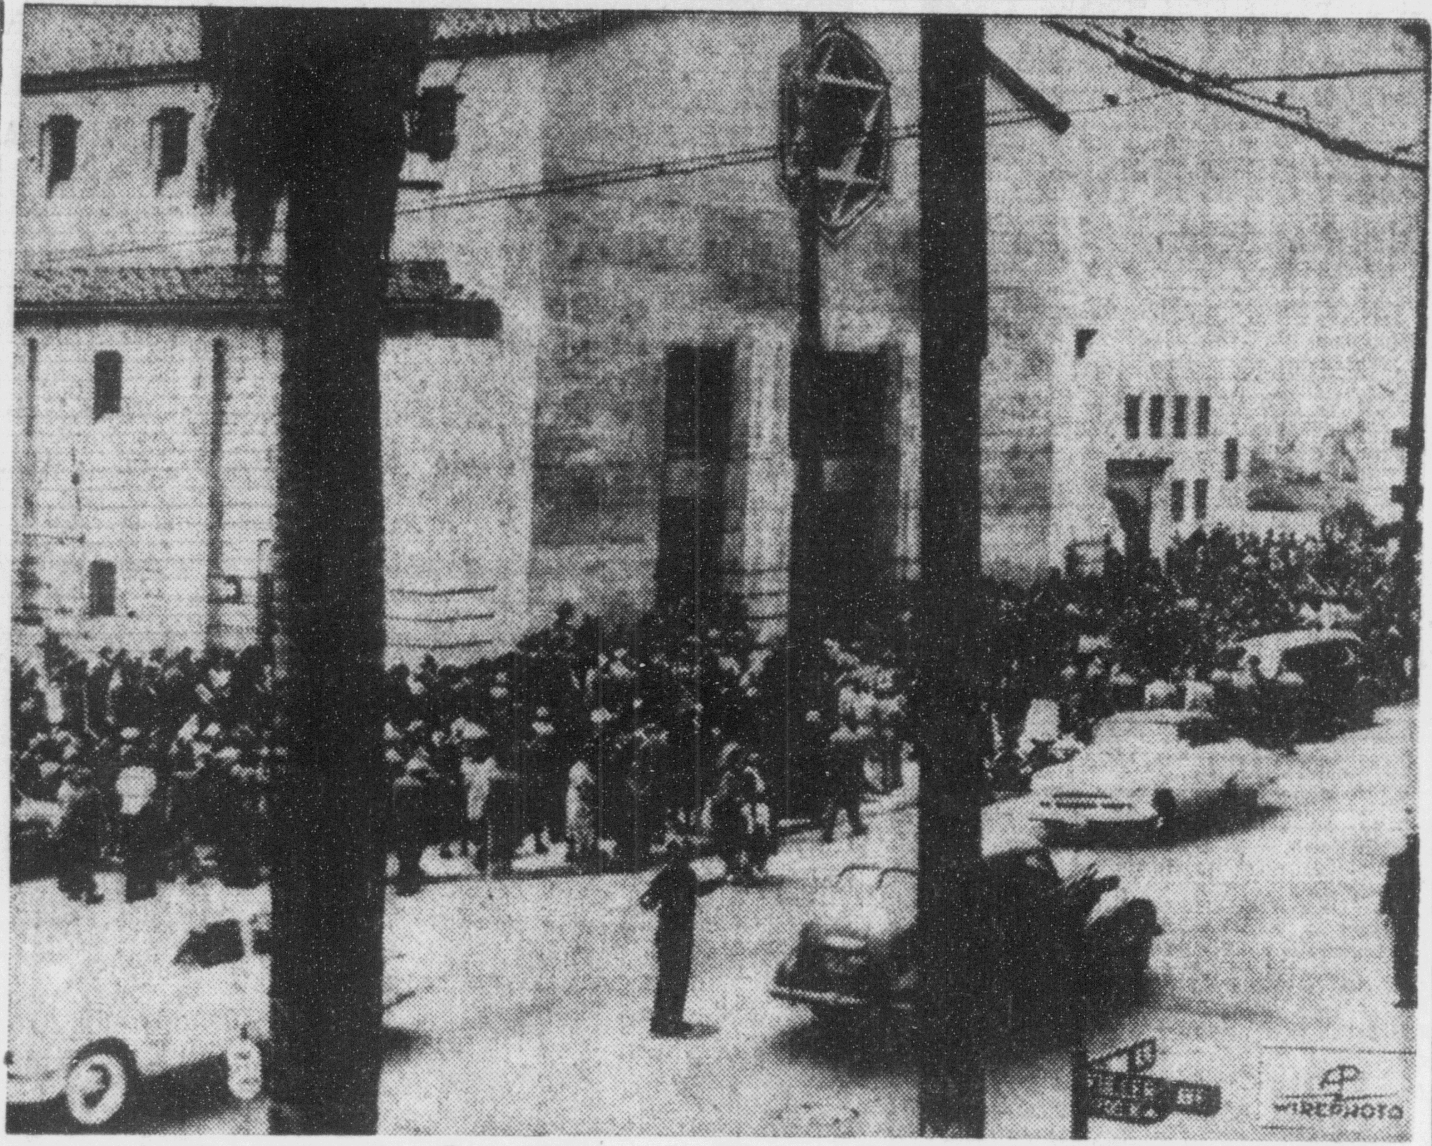
Belief was expressed that the nucleus of the combined force will be in existence by January.

Longer Work Week Is Urged

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (INS) — C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corporation, called today for a longer work week to step up the nation's military preparedness program.

Wilson, speaking at a meeting of the American Society of Metals in Chicago, declared that military weapons are not designed, as are consumer goods for mass production. He explained:

"For this reason, we must work somewhat longer hours ... temporarily, we should increase the average work week to as much as 45 hours."



Crowd Gathers For Jolson Rites

An estimated 20,000 persons, part of whom are pictured above, gathered outside Temple Israel in Hollywood yesterday for funeral services for Al Jolson, victim of a heart attack in San Francisco Monday. The clamoring crowd almost rioted when the temple doors were closed but calmed down after attendants allowed some 600 to enter. (Story at bottom of page).

Army May Send Some Reserves Home Next Year

USAF Halts Call-Up Of Enlisted Reserves

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Secretary Pace said today the Army hopes to start releasing mobilized National Guardsmen and reservists next summer in a program which may be completed before early 1952.

Pace indicated that more American troops may begin to flow to Europe soon, but he said the Army does not now plan to send any National Guard units overseas.

In another military manpower development, the Air Force said it will halt immediately the call-up of enlisted reserves.

These facts came out as the four services set up new procedures covering the recall and the discharge of reservists.

The Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force issued separate instructions to carry out Defense Secretary Marshall's directive of Monday outlining an "orderly" policy for mobilization of reserve units and individuals.

Marshall said that reservists must be kept on active duty involuntarily only until the increased manpower requirements of the services can be met, and reservists or units so recalled have reached a state of maximum training.

The Marshall directive replaced the policy of calling reservists for an indefinite period to hurriedly expand the armed forces. It resulted from complaints of widely varying methods used by the different services in summoning reservists to duty.

The Marshall directive called upon the services to bring their reserve lists up to date and give all reservists 30 days to report after they are called. The services were told to set up manpower requirements for reservists each six months, and to let men know when they are not on the current list.

Safety Man's Face Red

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 26 (AP)—Keith P. Hankins, chairman of a recently organized Rockford safety council for traffic improvement, was a little embarrassed today.

Hankins received a ticket alleging he ran through a stop sign.

"I was caught with my safety measures down," Hankins told newsmen.

Ex-NLRB Counsel "Convinced" Reds In Organization

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Robert N. Denham, former general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, said today he is "convinced" there is Communist influence in the agency but can't prove it.

Denham addressed a meeting of the American Veterans Committee. He said "there is definitely some semblance of Communism" in the NLRB organization, but he excluded the five board members themselves.

Denham added:

"I could not put my finger on the people and I couldn't prove the charge if I tried."

Denham, as NLRB general counsel, differed with the board members over interpretations of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act. President Truman asked for Denham's resignation on Sept. 19.

Foremen Firing Upheld By NLRB

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner ruled today that the foreman's responsibility to his employer sometimes comes before his own private interests. In that case, he may be fired for joining a strike of plant workers.

Examiner Horace A. Ruckel said that was the situation at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation's coke plant at Joliet, Ill., when 50 supervisory workers were fired in the steel strike of January-February 1946.

Ruckel refused to recommend the reinstatement of 22 foremen and 28 guards who charged the company fired them illegally because they walked out for their own mutual aid and protection as well as for the aid and protection of the rank and file members of the striking CIO steelworkers.

Although the complaint arose four years ago, hearings were started only last spring. A companion case, involving Carnegie-Illinois' Gary, Ind., plant, was processed through the board's machinery first. At Gary, the supply of gas for the community was threatened by the walkout of the foremen as well as production and maintenance workers, a board spokesman said.

Ruckel ruled that the foreman's responsibility to his employer varies with the circumstances, and at times, as in the Gary and Joliet cases, "may be paramount to his own interests."

Early Congress Call Considered, President Says

Would Push Work On Controls, Taxes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — President Truman said today he's thinking of calling Congress back into session before Nov. 27 to deal with rent control, an excess profits tax and other legislation including statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

He wouldn't say, however, whether the call may be issued before election day. Congress itself has set the Nov. 27 date for reassembling. Some Republicans say the President would be playing politics if he set the date ahead and made the announcement before the Nov. 7 election.

Mr. Truman confirmed at his weekly news conference that a call for the lawmakers to come back earlier is under consideration.

He also said that:

1—He doesn't expect trouble with the Russians in Western Europe this winter.

2—He hasn't heard of any Soviet atomic explosions since the one he announced 13 months ago.

3—He understands that Korea's whole northern frontier will be occupied by South Korean troops only—in other words, that U. S. troops won't be stationed on the border of Communist territory.

4—He may make a campaign speech or two on behalf of Democratic candidates for the Senate and House. If he does, he probably will speak by radio from Washington.

Relaxed and affable, Mr. Truman also pooh-poohed a prediction by Harold E. Stassen that the administration "is getting ready to embrace the Chinese Communist dictator, Mao Tze-Tung."

The President said Stassen didn't get that information from him. He said it must have come from Guy Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman. Stassen, a contender for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948, made the statement in Philadelphia last night.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—Directors of Bethlehem Steel Corp, today ordered a $2 dividend on common shares paid Dec. 1, bringing total payments for the year to $4.10 against $2.40 in 1949.

NPA Outlaws Amusement Construction

Cut In Use Of Some Metals Considered

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — By a sweeping ban on all amusement construction, the government moved anew today to flatten the building boom and save materials for rearmament.

The National Production Authority forbade, as of midnight tonight, the start of new theaters, night clubs, race tracks, exhibitions, golf courses, ball parks, summer camps and ski lodges, pool halls and football stadiums.

Forty-four types of construction were expressly outlawed. But the ban applies generally to any structure designed for "amusement, recreational or entertainment purposes."

NPA was busy on other segments of the home front.

Metal Cut Considered

A possible 20 to 30 per cent cut is being studied in the use of aluminum, copper and nickel in civilian goods such as radios, television sets, refrigerators, washing machines and vacuum cleaners, the agency announced.

Officials divulged these "tentative plans" to the makers of radio and video sets and to the consumers durable goods industry at two meetings, but said no final decision has been made.

At the same time, NPA issued a compulsory allocation order requiring the steel industry to ship 310,000 tons of steel monthly to car builders to provide upwards of 10,000 new freight cars a month.

Federal, state and city recreation projects, as well as private buildings, were barred. Violators face fines or imprisonment, or both.

A warning of further toughness to come was issued by NPA Administrator William H. Harrison. In a statement he said:

"It will be the policy of NPA to further limit or prohibit construction of additional types of projects which do not further the defense effort or increase the nation's productive capacity."

Protests Expected

This will be done, Harrison said, whenever national defense needs or materials shortages require it. Persons who start non-essential buildings — even types not yet barred — may be forced to halt the work by federal edict.

The ban was expected to bring a rush of protests from the building industry. Construction and realty leaders protested strongly when NPA Administrator William H. Harrison proposed it last week.

Harrison's blunt language emphasized NPA's declared policy: To set up as complete as possible a pattern of industrial controls now, when military demands are still a comparative trickle, to brace the economy against the flood of munitions orders expected later.

Rabid Mule Knocks Down, Bites Woman

SELMA, Ala., Oct. 26 (AP) — A rabid mule believed to have been bitten by a rabid fox knocked down and bit Mrs. Lottie Jenkins.

The middle-aged farm woman is taking anti-rabies treatment and is expected to recover.

She was attacked Saturday when she unhitched the mule and attempted to lead it. A relative heard her screams and rescued her.

The mule was destroyed.

Austin Says Russian Peace Ideas Full Of Hidden Peril And Urges Their Rejection

India Proposes International Peace Fund

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 26 (AP)—American Delegate Warren R. Austin today urged the U. N. Political Committee to reject Russia's proposals for a Big Five peace pact and a one-third cut in the armed forces of the five powers. He tagged the proposals an "iceberg" plan full of hidden peril.

Austin told the committee the Russians have shown "no evidence of a basic change of heart" that would commit them to help stop aggression. He said a vote for Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's proposals would be a vote against those things the U. N. has done in the "greatest trial of its life."

Nationalist China also turned down Vishinsky's ideas. Its delegate, T. F. Tsiang, said the "Communist regime in China today is as subject to Soviet aggression as my government was."

The other two members of the Big Five, Britain and France, declared opposition to the Vishinsky proposals. The committee will continue its debate tomorrow, with Vishinsky shaping up an answer to criticism of his project.

Sir B. N. Rau, India, tossed in a proposal for an international peace fund to be made up partly from money saved by a general disarmament program on the part of all nations. He called the U. N. members to specify by next March how much and on what basis they were willing to reduce their armaments and contribute to this fund. He said this fund could be used to fight hunger and disease and raise the standard of living in under-developed areas.

Rau's plan apparently was an outgrowth of President Truman's speech Tuesday in which he called for greater efforts to help underdeveloped countries and set up a fool-proof disarmament scheme.

The Soviet Union, meanwhile, ended its nine-month boycott of the five-nation Military Staff Committee. This group, made up of representatives of the chiefs of staff of the United States, the Soviet Union, France, China and Britain, met in New York City in secret. For the first time since last January, Maj. Gen. Ivan A. Skliarov led his delegation into the room just as if he had attended every meeting of the committee. The disagreement on how to set up a U. N. police force under the Charter continued despite the Soviet Union.

Chinese Reds In Tibet, Indian Dispatches Say

Troops Reported 100 Miles Beyond Border

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 26 (AP)—A Communist Chinese "liberation" army has crossed a disputed frontier zone and knifed into Tibet, dispatches from Calcutta and various Communist capitals declared today.

(It was announced in Peiping Tuesday that such an invasion had been ordered "to free the 3,000,000 inhabitants" of Tibet, a primitive, priest-ruled land isolated by the Himalayas, and to "strengthen the national western frontiers of China." The assignment was reported given the Second Chinese Field Army.)

Skepticism Expressed

Though some military authorities have expressed skepticism about a Chinese invasion of Tibet at this time because of wintry conditions across the Tibetan highlands, the Calcutta newspaper Statesman said a Chinese vanguard was reliably reported well inside Tibet, only a day's march from Neiwutsi (Riwoche) and about 350 airline miles northwest of Lhasa, the capital.

The details, contained in a dispatch from the Statesman's correspondent at the northern Indian city of Kalimpong, indicated the vanguard was perhaps 100 miles west of the ill-defined border between China's Sikang province and Tibet.

India Is Bellwether

The government of India, a bellwether in many moves intended to restore peace to Asia, telegraphed its ambassador in Peiping for full information—and in the meantime sat tight.

"We cannot act on mere newspaper reports," an Indian Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

A Tibetan delegation left New Delhi only Wednesday for Peiping for negotiations after weeks of talks here with Chinese authorities on Red aims in Tibet, which has been nominally free from China for 36 years.

The Chinese Embassy told the Indian government today it had heard nothing from Peiping of the reported invasion, but had received official confirmation of "Chinese troop movements and concentrations."

Truman 'Scared,' Gabrielson Says

[By The Associated Press]

Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson charged yesterday that fear of a GOP victory at the polls next month caused President Truman to consider calling Congress back into session before Nov. 27.

Gabrielson issued his statement a few hours after Mr. Truman said he might call the lawmakers back in advance of the November date they had set for themselves.

"He hopes to jam through as much of his socialist program as possible before the new 82nd Congress convenes," the Republican chairman said.

Mr. Truman said that if he does decide to call the lawmakers back it will be to give them more time, before the new Congress convenes, to act on such matters as rent control and an excess profits tax.

Harold E. Stassen, who tried for but didn't get the Republican presidential nomination two years ago, said yesterday he may not try again.

"There is a greater likelihood that I will be supporting someone else," Stassen told an interviewer in Rochester, N. Y. He declined to say who the "someone else" might be.

Halt Retreat, Attack North Of Pyongyang

ROK Troops Reach Manchuria Border

SEOUL, Friday, Oct. 27 (AP) — North Koreans stopped retreating and counterattacked Thursday on the left flank of a sector where South Korean troops have reached the Manchurian border.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman acknowledged today that the attacks were well directed.

The Reds, whose resistance had waned since the loss of Pyongyang last week, turned on the South Koreans in Northwestern Korea at points 50 to 70 miles north of their fallen capital.

Red resistance also picked up in Northeast Korea in defense of two reservoirs. A powerful force of 50,000 men, including an American Marine and infantry division, poured ashore at Wonsan to bolster the republic's soldiers in the northeast sector.

As reports of new-found bitter Red resistance came from widespread areas, authorities gave differing answers to these questions:

1. Will American and British commonwealth troops push all the way to the border in support of the Korean republican forces at the risk of dangerous international incidents?

Are China Reds In War

2. Have Chinese Red troops gone to the aid of the disorganized North Korean Communist fighting force?

The Seventh Regiment of the South Korean Sixth Division reached the border town of Chosan at 5:50 p. m. Thursday (3:50 a. m. Thursday EST) and sent patrols three miles north to the boundary-marking Yalu river.

This Korean republican force had marched 20 miles in a single day without opposition.

Repeated reports that U. S. and British commonwealth troops would stop 20 miles or 40 miles or 50 miles short of the border drew these official comments:

Col. Noble J. Wiley, Jr., U. S. Eighth Army public information officer, said: "United Nations forces, including U. S. troops, have authority to operate anywhere in Korea that the tactical situation dictates. While the Eighth Army will not comment on future plans or movements, it will confirm within security limitations the location of ground U. N. forces under Eighth Army control."

President Truman told a news conference in Washington a few minutes later that it was his understanding that only South Korean forces would occupy the northern frontier region.

A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, from which come all the Allied orders in this war, commented only: "The mission of United Nations forces is to clear Korea."

"Bomb Line" Moved Up

The U. S. Far East Air Force gave a further clue, announcing it had moved its "bomb line" in Northwest Korea up to the Manchurian border from the former line 12 miles south.

Where the bomb line has reached the border, there will be no bombing, since the purpose of the line is to avoid hitting areas into which friendly ground troops are advancing.

Whether American troops drive to the border or stop short, a 50,000-man Allied amphibious force which began going ashore at Wonsan on the east coast Thursday, was assembling for a punch northward in support of border-driving Korean republican infantrymen.

While the border question remained in the air, the U. S. Eighth Army spokesman made a qualified denial of South Korean reports of Chinese Communists participation in the Korean fighting.

The spokesman said "there is no evidence of overt or open support of North Korea by Chinese Communist forces."

Near Riot

20,000 Surround Temple At Last Rites For Jolson

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26 (AP) — "When he cried 'Mammy' it was in appreciation, not in lament. Jolson is the happiest portrait that can ever be painted about an American of the Jewish faith."

Thus did George Jessel pay emotional tribute today to Al Jolson, a king among showmen. Outside the temple, a traffic-stopping throng nearly rioted trying to get in.

Seven hundred of the singer's friends sat silently in massive Temple Israel on Hollywood Boulevard. In the street, police estimated, were some 20,000 of his admirers.

As services were about to start the crowd, many of them middle-aged women, pushed toward the entrance and shouted "let us in!" Police and attendants were unable to control them and closed the doors. Two women fainted and many were sobbing.

After a few minutes an official quieted the crowd and announced: "If we get some cooperation, we'll let several hundred people in. If you start pushing again, we'll close the doors."

With the permission of Jolson's young widow, the former Erle Galbraith, the service was delayed 25 minutes while several hundred fans filed into the balcony.

"Al would have wanted a full house," a friend said.

Classified Documents Left In Cab Recovered

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP) — French police said today an American Air Force colonel left a briefcase with classified documents in a taxicab last week and that they were not recovered until 24 hours later.

The police said the incident occurred last Friday as the colonel was leaving Paris for Wiesbaden. He was reported to have taken his bags out of the cab, paid the driver and gone off in search of a porter. Shortly thereafter he noticed that the briefcase was missing.

American security officers and French police were alerted.

The taxi driver turned in the briefcase Saturday, saying he had not had time to return it earlier.

Nurse Admits Falsely Reporting Foster Daughter Had Leukemia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — A 50-year-old practical nurse testified in Municipal Court today that she had falsely reported her 16-year-old foster daughter had leukemia because she said, "I wanted to get started in business."

"I don't know why I did it," she added.

The girl, Gladys Marie Neeley, was convinced herself of her illness, much publicized last June when classmates carried her into an auditorium for her graduation from Stuart Junior high school.

The nurse, Mrs. Doris M. Neeley, was held for grand jury action on a charge of false pretense in accepting a check for $160 from a "good samaritan."

The deception, the court was told, came to light when Gladys went to visit a foster uncle and told him Mrs. Neeley said she had the virtually incurable blood disease. The uncle took her to a hospital which found nothing wrong.

Mrs. Hester E. Beck, Silver Spring, Md., who gave Mrs. Neeley the check for $160 for rent on a better home for Gladys, testified she had signed statement from Mrs. Neeley admitting that the child was given injections to cause her illness. Mrs. Neeley said that she had repaid $100 of the rent advance.

Judge George D. Neilson, in ordering Mrs. Neeley held for grand jury action, lectured her sharply for "undermining the health of this little girl — almost to the point of killing her."

FDR Halted Removal Of Reds From Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—A retired rear admiral, Adolphus Staton, said today that during World War II, when the United States and Russia were allies, the removal of suspected Communist radio operators from merchant ships was halted on orders from the late President Roosevelt.

He said the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told naval officers at a meeting in his office on May 19, 1942, that the order must be obeyed. Staton added that efforts to have it put in writing were futile.

The purported minutes of the 1942 meeting were made public at a news conference arranged in a downtown hotel by Hamilton A. Long of New York City, who described himself as a lecturer, writer and veteran of both world wars.

Heard "Voices"

Ex-Mental Patient Admits Dynamiting "Voice" Tower

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 26 (AP)—A former mental patient was arrested today in connection with the dynamiting of a Voice of America radio tower in Ohio.

Herman Floyd Kinner, a stocky 39-year-old carpenter and ex-soldier from Wilmington, O., was charged with setting off the blast at Mason, O., September 17.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said he readily admitted causing the explosion but gave no motive except that he head "voices all talking at the same time." There is no evidence to link Kinner with any sabotage plot or subversive group, a spokesman said.

An antenna tower of the government's Bethany transmitter was wrecked. It is operated at Mason for the Voice of America by Crosley Broadcasting Corp, of Cincinnati. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

FBI agents told of tracing bits of safety fuse wrappers in their investigation, linking them to a Yellow Springs, O., purchase by Kinner, and tracking him from Wilmington to Houston, Tex., thence to El Paso.

They said Kinner likewise admitted throwing open a Pennsylvania Railroad main line switch Oct. 1 at Wilberforce, O. It was discovered before any trains were endangered. Kinner was charged in that connection at Dayton, O., with violating the federal train wreck statute.

NPA Outlaws Amusement Construction

Cut In Use Of Some Metals Considered

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — By a sweeping ban on all amusement construction, the government moved anew today to flatten the building boom and save materials for rearmament.

The National Production Authority forbade, as of midnight tonight, the start of new theaters, night clubs, race tracks, exhibitions, golf courses, ball parks, summer camps and ski lodges, pool halls and football stadiums.

Forty-four types of construction were expressly outlawed. But the ban applies generally to any structure designed for "amusement, recreational or entertainment purposes."

NPA was busy on other segments of the home front.

Metal Cut Considered

A possible 20 to 30 per cent cut is being studied in the use of aluminum, copper and nickel in civilian goods such as radios, television sets, refrigerators, washing machines and vacuum cleaners, the agency announced.

Officials divulged these "tentative plans" to the makers of radio and video sets and to the consumers durable goods industry at two meetings, but said no final decision has been made.

At the same time, NPA issued a compulsory allocation order requiring the steel industry to ship 310,000 tons of steel monthly to car builders to provide upwards of 10,000 new freight cars a month.

Federal, state and city recreation projects, as well as private buildings, were barred. Violators face fines or imprisonment, or both.

A warning of further toughness to come was issued by NPA Administrator William H. Harrison. In a statement he said:

"It will be the policy of NPA to further limit or prohibit construction of additional types of projects which do not further the defense effort or increase the nation's productive capacity."

Protests Expected

This will be done, Harrison said, whenever national defense needs or materials shortages require it. Persons who start non-essential buildings — even types not yet barred — may be forced to halt the work by federal edict.

The ban was expected to bring a rush of protests from the building industry. Construction and realty leaders protested strongly when NPA Administrator William H. Harrison proposed it last week.

Harrison's blunt language emphasized NPA's declared policy: To set up as complete as possible a pattern of industrial controls now, when military demands are still a comparative trickle, to brace the economy against the flood of munitions orders expected later.

Rabid Mule Knocks Down, Bites Woman

SELMA, Ala., Oct. 26 (AP) — A rabid mule believed to have been bitten by a rabid fox knocked down and bit Mrs. Lottie Jenkins.

The middle-aged farm woman is taking anti-rabies treatment and is expected to recover.

She was attacked Saturday when she unhitched the mule and attempted to lead it. A relative heard her screams and rescued her.

The mule was destroyed.

India Proposes International Peace Fund

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 26 (AP)—American Delegate Warren R. Austin today urged the U. N. Political Committee to reject Russia's proposals for a Big Five peace pact and a one-third cut in the armed forces of the five powers. He tagged the proposals an "iceberg" plan full of hidden peril.

Austin told the committee the Russians have shown "no evidence of a basic change of heart" that would commit them to help stop aggression. He said a vote for Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's proposals would be a vote against those things the U. N. has done in the "greatest trial of its life."

Nationalist China also turned down Vishinsky's ideas. Its delegate, T. F. Tsiang, said the "Communist regime in China today is as subject to Soviet aggression as my government was."

The other two members of the Big Five, Britain and France, declared opposition to the Vishinsky proposals. The committee will continue its debate tomorrow, with Vishinsky shaping up an answer to criticism of his project.

Sir B. N. Rau, India, tossed in a proposal for an international peace fund to be made up partly from money saved by a general disarmament program on the part of all nations. He called the U. N. members to specify by next March how much and on what basis they were willing to reduce their armaments and contribute to this fund. He said this fund could be used to fight hunger and disease and raise the standard of living in under-developed areas.

Rau's plan apparently was an outgrowth of President Truman's speech Tuesday in which he called for greater efforts to help under-developed countries and set up a fool-proof disarmament scheme.

The Soviet Union, meanwhile, ended its nine-month boycott of the five-nation Military Staff Committee. This group, made up of representatives of the chiefs of staff of the United States, the Soviet Union, France, China and Britain, met in New York City in secret. For the first time since last January, Maj. Gen. Ivan A. Skliarov led his delegation into the room just as if he had attended every meeting of the committee. The disagreement on how to set up a U. N. police force under the Charter continued despite the Soviet Union.

Chinese Reds In Tibet, Indian Dispatches Say

Troops Reported 100 Miles Beyond Border

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 26 (AP)—A Communist Chinese "liberation" army has crossed a disputed frontier zone and knifed into Tibet, dispatches from Calcutta and various Communist capitals declared today.

(It was announced in Peiping Tuesday that such an invasion had been ordered "to free the 3,000,000 inhabitants" of Tibet, a primitive, priest-ruled land isolated by the Himalayas, and to "strengthen the national western frontiers of China." The assignment was reported given the Second Chinese Field Army.)

Skepticism Expressed

Though some military authorities have expressed skepticism about a Chinese invasion of Tibet at this time because of wintry conditions across the Tibetan highlands, the Calcutta newspaper Statesman said a Chinese vanguard was reliably reported well inside Tibet, only a day's march from Neiwutsi (Riwoche) and about 350 airline miles northwest of Lhasa, the capital.

The details, contained in a dispatch from the Statesman's correspondent at the northern Indian city of Kalimpong, indicated the vanguard was perhaps 100 miles west of the ill-defined border between China's Sikang province and Tibet.

India Is Bellwether

The government of India, a bellwether in many moves intended to restore peace to Asia, telegraphed its ambassador in Peiping for full information—and in the meantime sat tight.

"We cannot act on mere newspaper reports," an Indian Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

A Tibetan delegation left New Delhi only Wednesday for Peiping for negotiations after weeks of talks here with Chinese authorities on Red aims in Tibet, which has been nominally free from China for 36 years.

The Chinese Embassy told the Indian government today it had heard nothing from Peiping of the reported invasion, but had received official confirmation of "Chinese troop movements and concentrations."

Truman 'Scared,' Gabrielson Says

[By The Associated Press]

Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson charged yesterday that fear of a GOP victory at the polls next month caused President Truman to consider calling Congress back into session before Nov. 27.

Gabrielson issued his statement a few hours after Mr. Truman said he might call the lawmakers back in advance of the November date they had set for themselves.

"He hopes to jam through as much of his socialist program as possible before the new 82nd Congress convenes," the Republican chairman said.

Mr. Truman said that if he does decide to call the lawmakers back it will be to give them more time, before the new Congress convenes, to act on such matters as rent control and an excess profits tax.

Harold E. Stassen, who tried for but didn't get the Republican presidential nomination two years ago, said yesterday he may not try again.

"There is a greater likelihood that I will be supporting someone else," Stassen told an interviewer in Rochester, N. Y. He declined to say who the "someone else" might be.

Halt Retreat, Attack North Of Pyongyang

ROK Troops Reach Manchuria Border

SEOUL, Friday, Oct. 27 (AP) — North Koreans stopped retreating and counterattacked Thursday on the left flank of a sector where South Korean troops have reached the Manchurian border.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman acknowledged today that the attacks were well directed.

The Reds, whose resistance had waned since the loss of Pyongyang last week, turned on the South Koreans in Northwestern Korea at points 50 to 70 miles north of their fallen capital.

Red resistance also picked up in Northeast Korea in defense of two reservoirs. A powerful force of 50,000 men, including an American Marine and infantry division, poured ashore at Wonsan to bolster the republic's soldiers in the northeast sector.

As reports of new-found bitter Red resistance came from widespread areas, authorities gave differing answers to these questions:

1. Will American and British commonwealth troops push all the way to the border in support of the Korean republican forces at the risk of dangerous international incidents?

Are China Reds In War

2. Have Chinese Red troops gone to the aid of the disorganized North Korean Communist fighting force?

The Seventh Regiment of the South Korean Sixth Division reached the border town of Chosan at 5:50 p. m. Thursday (3:50 a. m. Thursday EST) and sent patrols three miles north to the boundary-marking Yalu river.

This Korean republican force had marched 20 miles in a single day without opposition.

Repeated reports that U. S. and British commonwealth troops would stop 20 miles or 40 miles or 50 miles short of the border drew these official comments:

Col. Noble J. Wiley, Jr., U. S. Eighth Army public information officer, said: "United Nations forces, including U. S. troops, have authority to operate anywhere in Korea that the tactical situation dictates. While the Eighth Army will not comment on future plans or movements, it will confirm within security limitations the location of ground U. N. forces under Eighth Army control."

President Truman told a news conference in Washington a few minutes later that it was his understanding that only South Korean forces would occupy the northern frontier region.

A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, from which come all the Allied orders in this war, commented only: "The mission of United Nations forces is to clear Korea."

"Bomb Line" Moved Up

The U. S. Far East Air Force gave a further clue, announcing it had moved its "bomb line" in Northwest Korea up to the Manchurian border from the former line 12 miles south.

Where the bomb line has reached the border, there will be no bombing, since the purpose of the line is to avoid hitting areas into which friendly ground troops are advancing.

Whether American troops drive to the border or stop short, a 50,000-man Allied amphibious force which began going ashore at Wonsan on the east coast Thursday, was assembling for a punch northward in support of border-driving Korean republican infantrymen.

While the border question remained in the air, the U. S. Eighth Army spokesman made a qualified denial of South Korean reports of Chinese Communists participation in the Korean fighting.

The spokesman said "there is no evidence of overt or open support of North Korea by Chinese Communist forces."

Near Riot

20,000 Surround Temple At Last Rites For Jolson

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26 (AP) — "When he cried 'Mammy' it was in appreciation, not in lament. Jolson is the happiest portrait that can ever be painted about an American of the Jewish faith."

Thus did George Jessel pay emotional tribute today to Al Jolson, a king among showmen. Outside the temple, a traffic-stopping throng nearly rioted trying to get in.

Seven hundred of the singer's friends sat silently in massive Temple Israel on Hollywood Boulevard. In the street, police estimated, were some 20,000 of his admirers.

As services were about to start the crowd, many of them middle-aged women, pushed toward the entrance and shouted "let us in!" Police and attendants were unable to control them and closed the doors. Two women fainted and many were sobbing.

After a few minutes an official quieted the crowd and announced: "If we get some cooperation, we'll let several hundred people in. If you start pushing again, we'll close the doors."

With the permission of Jolson's young widow, the former Erle Galbraith, the service was delayed 25 minutes while several hundred fans filed into the balcony.

"Al would have wanted a full house," a friend said.

Classified Documents Left In Cab Recovered

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP) — French police said today an American Air Force colonel left a briefcase with classified documents in a taxicab last week and that they were not recovered until 24 hours later.

The police said the incident occurred last Friday as the colonel was leaving Paris for Wiesbaden. He was reported to have taken his bags out of the cab, paid the driver and gone off in search of a porter. Shortly thereafter he noticed that the briefcase was missing.

American security officers and French police were alerted.

The taxi driver turned in the briefcase Saturday, saying he had not had time to return it earlier.

Nurse Admits Falsely Reporting Foster Daughter Had Leukemia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — A 50-year-old practical nurse testified in Municipal Court today that she had falsely reported her 16-year-old foster daughter had leukemia because she said, "I wanted to get started in business."

"I don't know why I did it," she added.

The girl, Gladys Marie Neeley, was convinced herself of her illness, much publicized last June when classmates carried her into an auditorium for her graduation from Stuart Junior high school.

The nurse, Mrs. Doris M. Neeley, was held for grand jury action on a charge of false pretense in accepting a check for $160 from a "good samaritan."

The deception, the court was told, came to light when Gladys went to visit a foster uncle and told him Mrs. Neeley said she had the virtually incurable blood disease. The uncle took her to a hospital which found nothing wrong.

Mrs. Hester E. Beck, Silver Spring, Md., who gave Mrs. Neeley the check for $160 for rent on a better home for Gladys, testified she had signed statement from Mrs. Neeley admitting that the child was given injections to cause her illness. Mrs. Neeley said that she had repaid $100 of the rent advance.

Judge George D. Neilson, in ordering Mrs. Neeley held for grand jury action, lectured her sharply for "undermining the health of this little girl — almost to the point of killing her."

FDR Halted Removal Of Reds From Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—A retired rear admiral, Adolphus Staton, said today that during World War II, when the United States and Russia were allies, the removal of suspected Communist radio operators from merchant ships was halted on orders from the late President Roosevelt.

He said the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told naval officers at a meeting in his office on May 19, 1942, that the order must be obeyed. Staton added that efforts to have it put in writing were futile.

The purported minutes of the 1942 meeting were made public at a news conference arranged in a downtown hotel by Hamilton A. Long of New York City, who described himself as a lecturer, writer and veteran of both world wars.

Heard "Voices"

Ex-Mental Patient Admits Dynamiting "Voice" Tower

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 26 (AP)—A former mental patient was arrested today in connection with the dynamiting of a Voice of America radio tower in Ohio.

Herman Floyd Kinner, a stocky 39-year-old carpenter and ex-soldier from Wilmington, O., was charged with setting off the blast at Mason, O., September 17.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said he readily admitted causing the explosion but gave no motive except that he head "voices all talking at the same time." There is no evidence to link Kinner with any sabotage plot or subversive group, a spokesman said.

An antenna tower of the government's Bethany transmitter was wrecked. It is operated at Mason for the Voice of America by Crosley Broadcasting Corp., of Cincinnati. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

FBI agents told of tracing bits of safety fuse wrappers in their investigation, linking them to a Yellow Springs, O., purchase by Kinner, and tracking him from Wilmington to Houston, Tex., thence to El Paso.

They said Kinner likewise admitted throwing open a Pennsylvania Railroad main line switch Oct. 1 at Wilberforce, O. It was discovered before any trains were endangered. Kinner was charged in that connection at Dayton, O., with violating the federal train wreck statute.

U.S., Canada Sign Economic Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Canada and the United States renewed a World War II military partnership today with a six-point agreement to pool economic resources in building up their defenses.

Secretary of State Acheson and Ambassador Hume Wrong signed an exchange of notes which put into effect a "statement of principles" aimed at tightening the present close cooperation between the neighbor nations.

Acheson said the statement "reaffirms and re-invigorates" the principles of the 1941 Hyde Park agreement which meshed U. S. and Canadian industry in wartime. The 1941 pact was signed by the late President Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The new agreement pledges that skills, raw materials and finished products will be shared in expanding American and North Atlantic defenses against the threat of aggression.

C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, who took part in the signing ceremony at the State Department, told reporters that if the U. S. cuts back automobile or other production, Canada will follow suit.

Howe said Canada will match today's American action barring the use of essential materials for amusement facilities or other construction deemed likely to conflict with the arms build-up demands.

Check Of China Cargo Is Asked

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(INS)—Sen. O'Conor (D) Md., announced today he has asked the Treasury Department to recheck a cargo of petroleum products, scrap auto tires, and galvanized pipes which he said is about to leave for China.

O'Conor said the cargo is being or shortly will be loaded at Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

He said he has offered detailed information on the cargo to customs officials.

The Maryland Democrat said a preliminary study by his subcommittee on shipping revealed that three million gallons of lubricating oil and 700,000 gallons of lubricating greases were sent to China from the United States during the last fiscal year.

In addition, he said, one million dollars worth of kerosene wax totaling 1.5 million pounds went to the Chinese mainland.

Unwanted Man Goes Back To Prison To Die

ATLANTA, Oct. 26 (AP)—Ill and unwanted by his family, a 67-year-old man went back to the Reidsville state prison today to die.

He didn't have to go. He was paroled two years ago after serving 21 years for murder. He got a job and worked until old age and sickness made him useless.

Then he asked the pardon and parole board to send him back to the penitentiary.

"I know my family doesn't want me," he explained.

Board members told him he could enter a home for the aged or poor. But no. He waved that aside and insisted on the penitentiary.

The board, in one of the strangest cases in its history, found a technical parole violation and granted his wish.

Two Mayo Clinic Doctors Share 1950 Nobel Prize

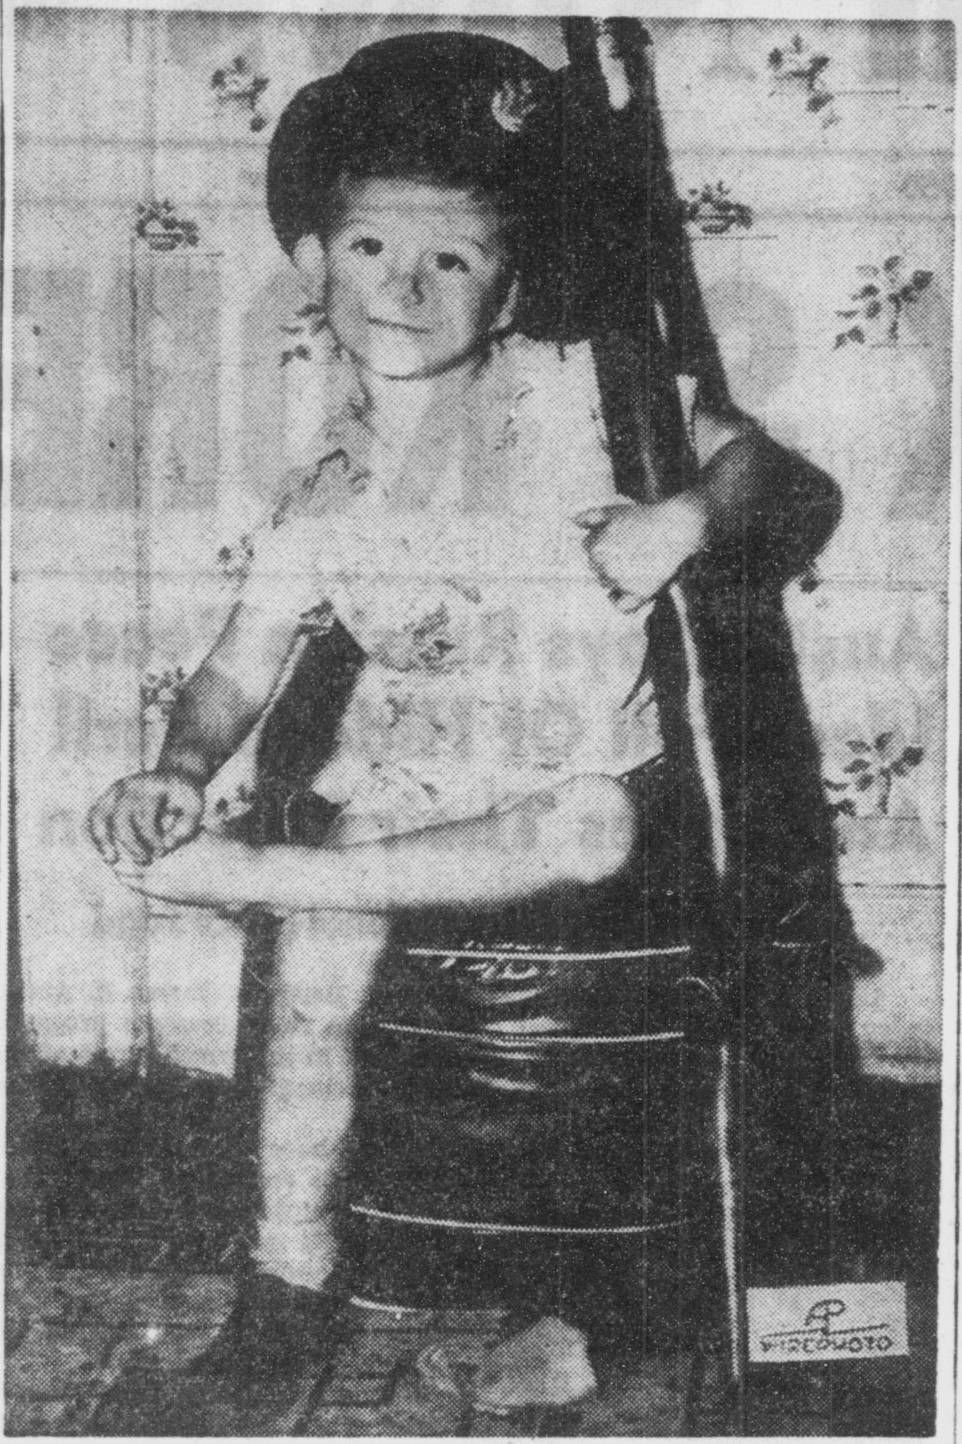
STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 26 (AP)—The 1950 Nobel Prize in medicine was awarded jointly tonight to two Mayo Clinic doctors and a Swiss professor for their work on two hormones that relieve rheumatoid arthritis and open a new field of research on other diseases.

The winners are Dr. Edward C. Kendall, 64, chief of the biochemistry laboratory of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Philip S. Hench, 54, head of the Mayo Clinic medical section; and Dr. Tadeusz Reichstein, 53, professor of chemistry at the University of Basel. They will divide prize money of 164,303 crowns ($31,715).

The official citation said the prize was awarded "for their discoveries regarding the hormones of the adrenal cortex, their structure and biological effects."

Cortisone and acth are the hormones—cell secretions that stimulate the activity of cells elsewhere in the body—on which the three have specialized.

In addition to work at the clinic, Dr. Hench and Dr. Kendall are both professors in the Mayo Foundation, which is part of the graduate school of the University of Minnesota's medical department. Part of their cortisone research was carried on with university funds. Dr. Reichstein has worked independently in Basel.



YOUTHFUL VETERAN—William D. Maloney, Jr., Green Island, N. Y., won't be four years old until December, but he is a war veteran on the draft board records. Billy received a 4-A classification card. That's the category reserved for those with previous military service. His dad, who served in World War II, got a 4-A card several months ago.

Truman Gave A-Bomb Order To MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — President Truman said today he gave the order to Gen. Douglas MacArthur to drop the atomic bomb on Japan during World War II.

Mr. Truman made the statement to his news conference when asked to comment on an assertion by Writer John Gunther that MacArthur knew nothing whatever about the plan to A-bomb Japanese cities.

The President said there wasn't any truth in that report.

Anti-Red Ordinance Enforcement Halted

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26 (AP) — A federal district judge today issued a temporary restraining order against enforcement of an Erie, Pa., city ordinance which requires registration of Communists and subversives.

The order was issued on behalf of the International Workers Order on grounds the ordinance is ruining the organizations' insurance business.

The Industrial Insurance Company, which appears on the attorney general's list of subversive organizations, petitioned the court for the preliminary injunction.

Judge J. Alger Fee stated in his opinion:

"The Erie ordinance places an unreasonable burden on the transaction of interstate business."

Red China Charges New Border Violation

HONGKONG, Friday, Oct. 27 (AP) —Red China's foreign minister charged Thursday that four United States planes flew 25 miles inside Manchuria the day before and strafed the town of Kuantien, wounding a boy and a cow.

The Communist New China news agency said the foreign minister, Chou En-Lai, cabled his fifth [illegible] in two weeks to the United Nations.

"Frogmen" Are Unsung Heroes

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 26 (AP) — Daredevil American "frogmen" braved death in the most dangerous minefield in history to pave the way for Thursday's Wonsan "invasion."

Clad in weird green rubber suits with big webbed flippers on their feet, they swam for hours in Wonsan bay's chilly waters hunting mine control cables.

In the landmine peppered shallows, underwater demolition team No. 3 daredevils — many of them former California and Honolulu beach boys — made soundings which enabled the invasion fleet to avoid a treacherous moving sandbar.

Earlier, when mines blew up the American minesweepers Pledge and Pirate, the frogmen saved scores of lives. They worked nude or in their underwear because there was no time to climb into "frog" suits,

"I brought three men out," said Demolition Specialist Robert H. Larkin, Weedville, Pa. "A lot of the fellows did better. We were lucky — the wreckage went down seven seconds after we left it."

When invasion minesweepers found there was no gap in the Wonsan minefield — Gunner's Mate 1-c William Giannotti, San Jose, volunteered to swim underwater, tie explosive charges to the mooring cable of two mines, and blast a path into the field.

Quart Of Whisky Fatal

WATERLOO, Ala., Oct. 27 (AP)—A four-year-old boy died after drinking almost a quart of whisky, Coroner William Chisholm reported today.

The coroner said the child, Billy Wayne Brown, apparently found the bottle on the back porch of his home while the family was eating breakfast yesterday.

He was discovered in the back yard.

Six Girls Injured In Unusual Crash

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26 (AP) — A station wagon carrying eight school girls was wrecked in a train-truck-auto smashup today, and six of the girls were taken to a hospital.

Attendants at Union Memorial Hospital said none of the girls apparently was hurt badly. Three of them were dismissed after treatment, the other three held for observation.

State police said the station wagon, from Garrison Forest school was passing a tractor-trailer truck at an owings Mills crossing. They said a switching engine struck the truck and pushed it into the side of the station wagon.

Story Of Mail Truck Holdup Attempt Hoax

DENVER, Oct. 26 (AP) — Eugene Coatney, 25, Montrose, has admitted making up a story that gunmen tried to rob the mail truck he was driving, Chief Postal Inspector R. B. Dunbar said today.

Dunbar said Coatney admitted firing pistol shots into the truck and fabricating a story of how gunmen tried to stop him on Monarch Pass near Salida last night.

The driver of the private contract mail carrier told authorities that three men in a Cadillac threatened him at gunpoint and ordered him to stop his truck. Coatney claimed two shots were fired at him and said he returned the fire with an automatic pistol before the men drove away.

Sheriff Emmit Shewalter said at Salida Coatney told him his gun, laid on the seat, was discharged accidentally. The bullet went through the truck and Coatney said he feared there would be trouble with the owner, C. J. Helmericks, Montrose. He said he fired another bullet into the truck and one through a mail bag to back up his story.

He didn't have to go. He was paroled two years ago after serving 21 years for murder. He got a job and worked until old age and sickness made him useless.

Then he asked the pardon and parole board to send him back to the penitentiary.

"I know my family doesn't want me," he explained.

Board members told him he could enter a home for the aged or poor. But no. He waved that aside and insisted on the penitentiary.

The board, in one of the strangest cases in its history, found a technical parole violation and granted his wish.

YOUTHFUL VETERAN—William D. Maloney, Jr., Green Island, N. Y., won't be four years old until December, but he is a war veteran on the draft board records. Billy received a 4-A classification card. That's the category reserved for those with previous military service. His dad, who served in World War II, got a 4-A card several months ago.

Truman Gave A-Bomb Order To MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — President Truman said today he gave the order to Gen. Douglas MacArthur to drop the atomic bomb on Japan during World War II.

Mr. Truman made the statement to his news conference when asked to comment on an assertion by Writer John Gunther that MacArthur knew nothing whatever about the plan to A-bomb Japanese cities.

The President said there wasn't any truth in that report.

Anti-Red Ordinance Enforcement Halted

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26 (AP) — A federal district judge today issued a temporary restraining order against enforcement of an Erie, Pa., city ordinance which requires registration of Communists and subversives.

The order was issued on behalf of the International Workers Order on grounds the ordinance is ruining the organizations' insurance business.

The Industrial Insurance Company, which appears on the attorney general's list of subversive organizations, petitioned the court for the preliminary injunction.

Judge J. Alger Fee stated in his opinion:

Red China Charges New Border Violation

HONGKONG, Friday, Oct. 27 (AP)—Red China's foreign minister charged Thursday that four United States planes flew 25 miles inside Manchuria the day before and strafed the town of Kuantien, wounding a boy and a cow.

The Communist New China news agency said the foreign minister, Chou En-Lai, cabled his fifth pro-[illegible] in two weeks to the United Nations.

Two Mayo Clinic Doctors Share 1950 Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 26 (AP)—The 1950 Nobel Prize in medicine was awarded jointly tonight to two Mayo Clinic doctors and a Swiss professor for their work on two hormones that relieve rheumatoid arthritis and open a new field of research on other diseases.

The winners are Dr. Edward C. Kendall, 64, chief of the biochemistry laboratory of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Philip S. Hench, 54, head of the Mayo Clinic medical section; and Dr. Tadeusz Reichstein, 53, professor of chemistry at the University of Basel. They will divide prize money of 164,303 crowns ($31,715).

The official citation said the prize was awarded "for their discoveries regarding the hormones of the adrenal cortex, their structure and biological effects."

Cortisone and acth are the hormones—cell secretions that stimulate the activity of cells elsewhere in the body—on which the three have specialized.

In addition to work at the clinic, Dr. Hench and Dr. Kendall are both professors in the Mayo Foundation, which is part of the graduate school of the University of Minnesota's medical department. Part of their cortisone research was carried on with university funds. Dr. Reichstein has worked independently in Basel.

"Frogmen" Are Unsung Heroes

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 26 (AP) — Daredevil American "frogmen" braved death in the most dangerous minefield in history to pave the way for Thursday's Wonsan "invasion."

Clad in weird green rubber suits with big webbed flippers on their feet, they swam for hours in Wonsan bay's chilly waters hunting mine control cables.

In the landmine peppered shallows, underwater demolition team No. 3 daredevils — many of them former California and Honolulu beach boys — made soundings which enabled the invasion fleet to avoid a treacherous moving sandbar.

Earlier, when mines blew up the American minesweepers Pledge and Pirate, the frogmen saved scores of lives. They worked nude or in their underwear because there was no time to climb into "frog" suits,

"I brought three men out," said Demolition Specialist Robert H. Larkin, Weedville, Pa. "A lot of the fellows did better. We were lucky — the wreckage went down seven seconds after we left it."

When invasion minesweepers found there was no gap in the Wonsan minefield — Gunner's Mate 1-c William Giannotti, San Jose, volunteered to swim underwater, tie explosive charges to the mooring cable of two mines, and blast a path into the field.

Quart Of Whisky Fatal

WATERLOO, Ala., Oct. 27 (AP)—A four-year-old boy died after drinking almost a quart of whisky, Coroner William Chisholm reported today.

The coroner said the child, Billy Wayne Brown, apparently found the bottle on the back porch of his home while the family was eating breakfast yesterday.

He was discovered in the back yard.

Six Girls Injured In Unusual Crash

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26 (AP) — A station wagon carrying eight school girls was wrecked in a train-truck-auto smashup today, and six of the girls were taken to a hospital.

Attendants at Union Memorial Hospital said none of the girls apparently was hurt badly. Three of them were dismissed after treatment, the other three held for observation.

State police said the station wagon, from Garrison Forest school was passing a tractor-trailer truck at an owings Mills crossing. They said a switching engine struck the truck and pushed it into the side of the station wagon.

Story Of Mail Truck Holdup Attempt Hoax

DENVER, Oct. 26 (AP)—Eugene Coatney, 25, Montrose, has admitted making up a story that gunmen tried to rob the mail truck he was driving, Chief Postal Inspector R. B. Dunbar said today.

Dunbar said Coatney admitted firing pistol shots into the truck and fabricating a story of how gunmen tried to stop him on Monarch Pass near Salida last night.

The driver of the private contract mail carrier told authorities that three men in a Cadillac threatened him at gunpoint and ordered him to stop his truck. Coatney claimed two shots were fired at him and said he returned the fire with an automatic pistol before the men drove away.

Sheriff Emmit Shewalter said at Salida Coatney told him his gun, laid on the seat, was discharged accidentally. The bullet went through the truck and Coatney said he feared there would be trouble with the owner, C. J. Helmericks, Montrose. He said he fired another bullet into the truck and one through a mail bag to back up his story.

Truman Tries Again

After his miraculous success as an election forecaster in 1948, President Truman might well rest on his laurels. Of course, it might be pointed out that in 1948 Truman didn't really think he had a Chinaman's chance of being elected. His "forecasts" were merely an act he was putting on, and none of his cabinet thought he would be back in. With one or two exceptions, he has kicked out all the men who were in his cabinet then because they refused to campagin for him.

As the Literary Digest and the "scientific" pollsters discovered, the way to lose a reputation for infallibility is to make one prediction too many. But Mr. Truman has now issued a prediction for 1950, and once again he is going against all the dope.

In 1948 the public opinion polls disagreed with Mr. Truman by a wide margin. So did most Democrats as well as nearly all Republicans. So did a consensus of veteran political reporters, whose past record was better than that of the polls. Mr. Truman was obviously whistling in the dark, trying to convince himself that he stood a chance.

The other day he tried again. He told a press conference there would be a Democratic landslide next month, one that would surprise as many people as his 1948 victory. Could he be accidentally right again?

One may venture to doubt it. Off-year elections, when no presidential candidates are running, have almost invariably cost the party in power some congressional seats. There is no handwriting on the wall to indicate that things are likely to be different in 1950. If the Democrats should actually gain seats, the results would be like a miracle.

Mr. Truman did produce a similar miracle in 1948, certainly, but it looks as if he is pressing his luck this year. One miracle should be enough for anybody.

There is enough nitrogen in the atmosphere to last 930,000,000 years, scientist say. At least there is something we can breathe easy about.

American Novels

One of the finest collections of American novels has been received by the University of Virginia library, the gift of Mrs. Robert Coleman Taylor of New York City. It comprises examples of all important and many unimportant pieces of fiction from the beginnings to the present day. Included are many first edtions, among which those of "Huckleberry Finn," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter" and "Ben Hur" would gladden any collector. The gift has been roughly appraised at $25,000. While this may be an accurate figure now, it will rise later on; for as complete a collection as this could be reassembled, if at all, only at higher prices.

Curiously enough, there is no American fiction earlier than the Revolution, though other fields of literature were copiously represented. Would-be novel writers may have been discouraged by the stiff competition from England, for such great masters as Fielding, Smollett, Sterne and Richardson were found in every book-owning household. "The Power of Sympathy," whose authorship is uncertain, is the first American novel; it was published in 1789, and is a thin story of illicit love, sugar-coated with moral reflections. The first good novel, which has been reprinted in recent years, did not appear until 1815. This was "Modern Chivalry" by Hugh H. Brackenridge. It is an account of the adventures of Capt. Farrago and his servant Teague O'Regan as they journey over the United States.

The students who trace our fiction from these modest beginnings to the abundant output of today will have a most enjoyable time of it, and will gain a new light on the United States.

Once Americans fought against taxation without representation. But there is little opposition to compensation without perspiration.

Overriding The Veto

Will the United Nations in the end be wrecked by the big-power veto? That has been a question overhanging every development of the international body since the free-swinging use of the veto was begun by Russia. The swift action which has been taken to nullify the veto in dealing with aggression may point to the answer. The UN may already have become a sufficiently well established institution, with a mind and character of its own, to refuse to be wrecked.

The plan which has been approved by the Political Committee provides machinery by which the General Assembly can take over at once any problem of international aggression in which Security Council action is blocked by a veto. The Assembly is a bigger and more unwieldy body. But if the temper of its members in dealing with a future aggression is as clear and overwhelming as it has been in the matter of Korea, then it will be able to take prompt and effective action if necessary.

The net effect is the voiding of the veto in one field of UN action. A precedent is set for the nullification of the veto in any other field whenever the overwhelming majority of the member nations conclude that the use of the veto is tying the hands of their international body. In this significant action the United Nations shows, more clearly than ever before, the promise that it may become a body capable of neutralizing the strength of any major power which refuses to co-operate with it.

Blood More Complicated Than Water

WHEN I WENT to school the matter of blood grouping was relatively simple. There were four types: I, II, III, and IV. Several years latter the numerals gave way to the letters A, B, AB, and O and this classification is more descriptive of certain constituents that are responsible for the differences in our blood.

Each group has specific substances that we will call blood factors, as a matter of convenience. Some of us have factor A or B or a combination of A and B. The remainder have none and are called group O. The reason why the blood of different groups cannot be mixed is because the cells clump and stop functioning when they are incompatible. The exception is the most common group, O or IV, that will mix with every other group because it does not contain specific blood factors that are the trouble makers. When a series of 100 individuals is typed, only five will belong to the rarest blood group, AB or I; 40 to A or II; 40 to A or II; 10 to group B or III, and the remainder to O or IV.

These are the main blood types. In Chicago, where typing is being recommended for everyone, they expect to tattoo the results on the outer aspect of the left side of the chest. This would supplant the dog tags that could be blown off with the extremities in a bomb attack. The plan has merit because the blood type never changes and, in case of emergency, precious minutes or hours are saved if the blood type is known immediately. It might well be that in the future the American will be singled out because of his vaccination and tattoo marks.

There is nothing particularly difficult about blood grouping but the subject becomes much more confusing when the Rh factor is taken into consideration. The Rh factor is like factors A and B in that it is present in some and not in others; 85 per cent of the population is Rh positive and 15 per cent, Rh negative. Furthermore, the Rh factor has been subdivided into RhO, Rh1, Rh2, rh' rh", hr', hr" and many others. There also is an M and N classification.

With all these subdivisions there are at present no less than 864 possible combinations of blood types. Since blood groups are hereditary, studies along this line often are made by anthropologists. In fact, some of these authorities suggest that we classify races on the basis of blood types rather than geografy, skin color, or the shape of the head or eyelids.

In cases of disputed paternity, blood tests are common. Samples are removed from the mother and child, and from the man who is being questioned. The results that follow must be analyzed carefully. They can prove that the man is not the father and therein lies their value. Beyond this, they show that the man could be the father but whether he actually is remains a matter for the court to decide.

TOMORROW: Infectious mononucleosis must wear itself out.

SHINGLES

Mrs. J. P. writes: Is singles contagious?

REPLY

This is a moot question but many authorities believe that the condition is mildly so. There is presumptive evidence that the causative virus is related to the chicken pox organism. This was suggested when a number of cases of shingles developed in adults in households where a child was ill with chicken pox, and vice versa.

•—•—•

SKIN MANIFESTATIONS

Mrs. P. M. writes: What can cause swelling along each side of the nose, on my face, and up to my eyes which are puffy each day? Sores also break out in these areas.

REPLY

There are numerous possibilities, including a condition known as lupus erythematosus. In this disease, the pattern created by the lesions across the bridge of the nose resembles a butterfly.

•—•—•

EYELID TUMOR

J. M. T. writes: Is there a medicine to dissolve a chalazion on the eyelid or is surgery necessary?

REPLY

These cystlike swellings of the eyelid are caused by obstruction of one of the oil secreting glands near the roots of the eyelashes. Occasionally the application of ammoniated mercury ointment combined with heat and massage will cause small lesions to disappear; but with larger ones it is impossible to force out the contents and there is no drug to dissolve the material. Surgery works best and usually is necessary when the cyst is large.

•—•—•

CANCER

H. J. writes: If a person has been cured of cancer in one area, can it develop in that spot again?

REPLY

Yes, but this would be the exception rather than the rule.

Imagination Staggered By Thoughts Of What Scientific Rain-Making Could Do To Nation's Economy; Korean War Exposes Flaw In Army's Medical Service

Says DREW PEARSON

SEATTLE—What artificial rain-making can do to the Far West staggers the imagination. It can make this area bloom like a Garden of Eden. It can throw Secretary of Agriculture Brannan's crop program out of balance. Or it could take rain away from other areas and make them deserts.

A brief sample of what rain-making can do occurred at Prosser, Wash., where Leo Horrigan, a big wheat rancher, hired Dr. Irving Frick, of the Water Resources Development Board of Pasadena, Calif., to seed the clouds at the time his wheat needed it most.

As a result, Horrigan's crop, previously estimated at 8 to 10 bushels per acre, shot up to 20 bushels per acre. His total yield was increased by half a million bushels.

Scientific seeding of the clouds might make unnecessary expensive irrigation projects, might raise the water level in the dry central valley of California, might settle the bitter water feud between California and Arizona over the Colorado river. On the other hand nobody knows yet whether tapping the clouds over one area will take rain away from another. That's why farsighted Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico proposes legislation to control rain-making.

Battle-Experienced Doctors Needed

The Korean war has exposed a glaring weakness in the Army Medical Service—namely, that tragically few of its doctors were trained for front-line hospital work. As a result, wounded G.I.'s suffered needless agony, even death, on the Korean front because Army doctors didn't always know how to set up tents, improvise beds or stretchers, and organize field operating rooms.

Most of the young doctors, placed in command of field hospital units, had never served outside big, modern hospitals. They had little experience under battle conditions, often weren't even taught the fundamentals of field hospital work.

Most people don't know it, but the army operates only one small field medical training center at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, under the command of a veteran field surgeon, Maj. Gen. Joseph I. Martin. However, only a fraction of army doctors have been able to take this training.

Even the surgeon-general, Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, has no background as a field surgeon but was selected on the basis of his record for operating large army hospitals. Like most of his predecessors, Bliss has had excellent hospital training but little experience near the front. Most military branches won't appoint a chief who hasn't been a field commander, but not in the medical corps.

Though battle-experienced doctors have pleaded for better field training, the armchair hospital brass have ignored their warnings. Meanwhile, the doctors in Korea are saying privately:

"For God's sake, give us a surgeon-general who knows what the battlefield is, and we'll teach young doctors how and what to do in the field."

Brotherhood At Work

Loyola University in Los Angeles cancelled its scheduled football game with Texas Western at El Paso the other day because Loyola had a Negro halfback whom Texas Western would not allow to play.

When Stanley Meyers of Universal Pictures congratulated Loyola fathers for their stand against race discrimination, one of them remarked: "Unfortunately, it cost us $8,000. That was the guarantee we were to give Texas Western, and we felt morally bound to pay them when we cancelled. We don't know where we're going to get the $8,000, but it was worth the money."

"Never mind, Father," replied Meyers, "the Lord has ways to take care of those things."

So Meyers, giving the Lord an assist, went to Noah Dietrich, head of the Hughes Tool Company of Houston and the man whose telephone as well as that of Howard Hughes was tapped in Washington by Senator Brewster of Maine on behalf of Pan American Airways.

"Noah," said Meyers, "you recently joined the church. Also you're from Texas, a state whose attitude on the color question has just cost Loyola $8,000."

Meyers went on to suggest that Dietrich make up the money which Loyola College had lost. Next day the Loyola fathers were surprised to receive a check for $8,000.

More On Dewey-Hanley

Here is more inside on the bitter New York battle raging over the heads of Gov. Tom Dewey and his lieutenant governor, Joe Hanley.

Dewey, it now develops, heard of the existence of the Hanley "sell-out" letter, and on Oct. 11 asked his lieutenant governor for a copy. Hanley refused. Hanley had written the letter to Kingsland Macy in September and sent a copy to James Leary, a Saratoga Springs lawyer, who showed it to various friends. However, Dewey was not able to get a copy.

So he instructed Congressman William Pfeiffer of Brooklyn to scour the state for the letter. On Oct. 13 the Congressman came up with a copy and it was two days later—Sunday, Oct. 15—that Dewey abruptly announced his support of General Eisenhower.

Significantly, the Macy-Gannett group, which put up the money for Joe Hanley, have also been the backstage backers of Eisenhower. But in politics, it doesn't pay to have your neck out too early and, the best thing Dewey could have done to help Ike was to say nothing.

NOTE—It wasn't merely because of a bank failure that Joe Hanley needed money. Joe is a great hand at the horse races.

Is Taft A Good Conservative?

COLUMBUS, OHIO

WHAT is happening here in Ohio gives a precise, clear, and orderly picture of something that has gone wrong with the American political system. Consider the nature of the contest between Sen. Robert A. Taft and his Democratic rival, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson.

On the one hand you have the leading conservative politician in the United States—a man whose ability is almost universally acknowledged, entirely upright, highly intelligent. He is running for reelection at a time when the country desperately needs intelligent conservative leadership. Here is a man, it seems, who might supply this kind of leadership, never welcoming change, but always accepting inevitable change, making certain that change takes place without twisting the social fabric out of shape.

Running against him, is a man who is immensely likable and immensely unqualified to represent the State of Ohio in the United States Senate. He is also entirely upright, and an examplar of all the minor virtues. But as a representative of the long American liberal—radical tradition he is a joke. He is—and he really pretends to be no more—than a goodhearted minor politician, carefully repeating the opinions ground out for him by anonymous speech-writers, avoiding like death the risk of debate with his opponent, substituting the glittering generality and the hearty handshake for any original political thinking of his own.

Favors Taft Re-Election

Aside from this contrast in personalities, every other conceivable circumstance seems to favor the triumphant re-election of Robert A. Taft by a very large majority. It is not only that every major organ or opinion in Ohio favors Taft; that many regular Democrats view the Ferguson candidacy with a distaste they make no attempt to conceal; and that this is an off-year election. More than all this is the fact that this should logically be a time for conservatives, if there is ever to be such a time. For the country is richer than ever—and presumably people become conservative when they have something to conserve.

In brief, Taft should be a sure thing. Yet he is not a sure thing at all. Take, for example, the registration figures in Ohio, which are remarkably interesting. Registration has averaged as much as 20 per cent over 1948, in those counties where registration is required. This is most surprising, for this is an off-year election, when voter apathy is taken for granted.

There are, of course, two ways of interpreting the abnormally high off-year vote which is apparently in prospect. The Taft camp says that the Ohio Republicans are thoroughly aroused, in sharp contrast to the Republican complacency of 1948.

There is obviously something in this. But there seems to be at least as much, and perhaps more, in the interpretation of the labor men and Democratic professionals. Both Democratic Chairman Gene Hanhart and Labor League Co-Chairman Philip Hanna estimate that about 70 per cent of the increased registration is anti-Taft. The fact that registration is generally only required in counties with big city populations seems to support this view. And at any rate, Taft's supporters would be delighted by a Taft majority of 100,000. This is less than a thirtieth of the total vote, and surely a very small margin for a man like Taft, running against a man like Ferguson.

Administration's Record Poor

This in turn suggests a rather obvious conclusion—that Taft's brand of conservatism simply does not measure up to the times in which we live. On domestic policy—housing, health, and education, and Taft's proposed amendments to his own labor bill—Taft has often seemed to move in the time-honored conservative tradition of giving an inch to avoid giving a ruinous all. But the men identified with him in the conservative wing of the Republican Party, men like Wherry and Kem and Jenner and Bricker, have conspicuously refused to give even the inch. And Taft himself has given his inch with such obvious reluctance that what is really a perfectly reasonable conservative program has come to be labelled in many voters' minds as the blackest reaction.

But this is by no means all. Taft is fond of accusing the Administration of a "strange sympathy for Communism," and certainly the Administration's foreign policy record is far from perfect. But Taft's enemies can reply—and do reply—that the Wherry—Kem—Jenner Republicans with whom Taft is identified have voted with almost perfect consistency on foreign policy issues with New York's party-lining Vito Marcantonio; and that Taft himself has voted with Marcantonio on these issues a good deal more than half the time.

The fact that Taft's brand of conservatism is so intensely vulnerable has a two-fold result. In the first place, Taft is driven to political devices which are not really worthy of his unquestioned integrity, like his implied defense of McCarthyism, or his charge that Truman's veto of that legislative monstrosity, the McCarran bill, reveals pro-Communist leanings. In the second place, because the conservative challenge is inadequate, the Democratic Party is tending more and more to the sort of genially meaningless mediocrity which, for all his virtues, is perfectly symbolized in the person of State Auditor Joseph Ferguson.

Propaganda Is At Work Against Syngman Rhee

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—There's an insidious propaganda at work here to attempt to discredit Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea. On the surface, it resembles the propaganda which started five years ago against Chiang Kai-Shek and ultimately resulted in the enforced collapse of the Nationalist regime in China.

One high American official who is well aware that the propaganda exists and resents it said today:

"Is the United States going to to get the reputation in Asia of helping a government to fight victoriously against its external enemies only to drop it like poison thereafter?"

American aid, military and economic, went to Chiang Kai-Shek when he was helping to keep at bay the Japanese armies on the Continent of Asia. But as soon as Japan surrendered in 1945, the effort to break down the Nationalist government began. From this the Communists derived great satisfaction. Indeed, it is not yet established how much Communist influence did infiltrate Washington and produce this weakening of American support for Chiang Kai-Shek.

Will Perpetuate Fiction

Today President Rhee stands as the constitutionally elected executive of his republic. His government has been formally recognized by the United States and by the United Nations as the legitimately established government of Korea. It has, moreover, been asserted officially by the United States that the 38th Parallel was not a boundary of the republic and that U. N. recognized the entire area of Korea as within the jurisdiction of the government of Korea.

But now skeptics are spreading the word that Dr. Rhee is recognized only for South Korea, thus endeavoring to perpetuate the very fiction that the Soviets sought to implant with their cry that the outbreak in Korea was just a "civil war." Under the constitution of Korea, Dr. Rhee's term doesn't expire until 1952. He is president of all Korea by virtue of an election that the U. N. approved. He is not just president of the southern area. His troops are in the north exercising military control over the northern region.

It is true that U. N. forces are assisting the South Korean army but this in no wise subtracts from the sovereignity of the Korean republic. It is natural for the U. N. which supervised the first elections, to see to it that supplementary elections are held in certain districts so that the people in North Korea who have been coerced by the Communists now can choose freely the men they want to represent them in the Korean legislative body.

But this program of electing members to vacancies in the Korean congress has nothing to do with the legitimacy of the present Korean government despite the strange efforts of opponents of Dr. Rhee in America to try to give the impression that a new election must be ordered.

Used Against Chiang

The innuendos refer to Dr. Rhee as a "reactionary" and as opposed to "agrarian reforms" — the very same words that, curiously enough, cropped up so frequently when the Department of State was being slowly but surely persuaded to abandon Chiang Kai-Shek a few years ago.

The Department of State has managed to prove to many fair-minded people that whatever mistakes it made in handling Chiang Kai-Shek were conscientiously made and without Communist inspiration, directly or indirectly. If Dr. Rhee, however, now meets the same fate at the hands of the Department of State that Chiang Kai-Shek did, the charges will certainly be renewed. If, despite the sacrifices made by the American troops to fight Communist aggression in Korea, the Communists nevertheless win their point in weakening Dr. Rhee and getting help in that effort from various persons inside the American government, it will be a sad day for American diplomacy. Dr. Rhee needs stanch and uniquivocal support. His prestige in his own country is at stake as word reaches there that certain U. N. members and perhaps the State Department are cool in their attitude.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Thomas Of Utah

ONE of the characters of the United States Senate is Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, who is up for re-election this year. Mr. Thomas is a scholar, especially in Japanese, and has been an instructor in Latin and Greek. He is an author, an authority on labor problems and altogether quite a man.

In the Senate, he has pursued a curious and unexplainable course. The confession of Lee Pressman as a Communist cooperator and the self-implication of John Abt and Charles Kramer make the story of Senator Elbert D. Thomas on the LaFollette Committee increasingly interesting.

This committee was organized by members of the Harold Ware Communist cell in Washington as an instrument for the smearing of American industry. Robert La Follette and Elbert Thomas managed the La Follette committee. The actual operators of the committee were John Abt and Charles Kramer (Krivitsky). Senator Thomas needs to explain why he tolererated that.

I think that it can be established on the record that no other United States Senator has had so many dealings with Communists and with front organizations as Senator Elbert Thomas. I am not saying that he is a Marxist—I know nothing of what motives caused him to adopt his curious course. But why would Senator Thomas say this:

"Some day, when the Russian children at Stalingrad and the Jewish children at Birobidjan have grown up into strong and splendid men and women, fully equipped to enjoy the equality of opportunity their country offers them . . ."

What equality of opportunity is possible under the Communist system? What Marxist believes in equality of opportunity? A learned man of Senator Thomas's quality would know about that. Whom was he trying to fool—the 20,000,000 slaves in Russia?

Senator Thomas was a sponsor of the American committee for protection of foreign born, a subversive organization. A man of the calibre of Senator Thomas would know the character of this organization, for it was founded as far back as January 2, 1924, by the third national convention of the Communist Party (then known as the Workers Party of America).

This Senator was a member of the committee for the first amendment, set up to protect the Hollywood ten. Now, the Senator might say that he never was a member, but the "Daily People's World," on October 29, 1947, announced his membership, and there is no record of objection. Yet, the "Hollywood Ten" have been held in contempt of a Congress of which Senator Thomas is a member.

I could go on with this record, which is very long. But how does the Senator explain these words, which he wrote for a Communist magazine, "The New Masses":

". . . In Russia the worth of an individual from an economic standpoint has never been discounted. This, we have always thought to be impossible under any kind of socialistic regime. Therefore, there must be in the Russian scheme an appreciation of the individual or else that individual could never have amounted to as much as he or she has under socialistic guidance. Does this not mean that leadership in Russia, while giving lip service to another type of political theory, has by action recognized the basic strength of democracy? Personally, I believe that that is the case . . ."

When Elbert Thomas wrote that in 1943, it was false.

Senator LaFollette once wrote a magazine article explaining how the Communists jobbed him on the committee. But not Senator Thomas.

I want to ask Senator Thomas a few questions:

1. Did he know that when Harold Ware was killed in an automobile accident that John Abt took over Ware's job as the head of the cell in Washington and married Jessica Smith, Ware's widow, who edits the most anti-American magazine in this country, "Soviet Russia Today"?

2. If he discovered that fact, did he re-examine the work of the La Follette Committee to discover what John Abt and his associates did to America?

3. Did he ever read these words:

"Mr. Stripling. Mr. Abt, are you a member of the Communist Party?

"Mr. Abt. Mr. Stripling, on the grounds of objection stated by my counsel and, in addition, in the exercise of the privilege extended to me under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution against self-incrimination, I decline to answer that question."

The Senator might say that the LaFollette Committee once smeared me outrageously and that I am getting even with him. Senator, does that excuse you?

Truman Tries Again

After his miraculous success as an election forecaster in 1948, President Truman might well rest on his laurels. Of course, it might be pointed out that in 1948 Truman didn't really think he had a Chinaman's chance of being elected. His "forecasts" were merely an act he was putting on, and none of his cabinet thought he would be back in. With one or two exceptions, he has kicked out all the men who were in his cabinet then because they refused to campagin for him.

As the Literary Digest and the "scientific" pollsters discovered, the way to lose a reputation for infallibility is to make one prediction too many. But Mr. Truman has now issued a prediction for 1950, and once again he is going against all the dope.

In 1948 the public opinion polls disagreed with Mr. Truman by a wide margin. So did most Democrats as well as nearly all Republicans. So did a consensus of veteran political reporters, whose past record was better than that of the polls. Mr. Truman was obviously whistling in the dark, trying to convince himself that he stood a chance.

The other day he tried again. He told a press conference there would be a Democratic landslide next month, one that would surprise as many people as his 1948 victory. Could he be accidentally right again?

One may venture to doubt it. Off-year elections, when no presidential candidates are running, have almost invariably cost the party in power some congressional seats. There is no handwriting on the wall to indicate that things are likely to be different in 1950. If the Democrats should actually gain seats, the results would be like a miracle.

Mr. Truman did produce a similar miracle in 1948, certainly, but it looks as if he is pressing his luck this year. One miracle should be enough for anybody.

There is enough nitrogen in the atmosphere to last 930,000,000 years, scientist say. At least there is something we can breathe easy about.

American Novels

One of the finest collections of American novels has been received by the University of Virginia library, the gift of Mrs. Robert Coleman Taylor of New York City. It comprises examples of all important and many unimportant pieces of fiction from the beginnings to the present day. Included are many first edtions, among which those of "Huckleberry Finn," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter" and "Ben Hur" would gladden any collector. The gift has been roughly appraised at $25,000. While this may be an accurate figure now, it will rise later on; for as complete a collection as this could be reassembled, if at all, only at higher prices.

Curiously enough, there is no American fiction earlier than the Revolution, though other fields of literature were copiously represented. Would-be novel writers may have been discouraged by the stiff competition from England, for such great masters as Fielding, Smollett, Sterne and Richardson were found in every book-owning household. "The Power of Sympathy," whose authorship is uncertain, is the first American novel; it was published in 1789, and is a thin story of illicit love, sugar-coated with moral reflections. The first good novel, which has been reprinted in recent years, did not appear until 1815. This was "Modern Chivalry" by Hugh H. Brackenridge. It is an account of the adventures of Capt. Farrago and his servant Teague O'Regan as they journey over the United States.

The students who trace our fiction from these modest beginnings to the abundant output of today will have a most enjoyable time of it, and will gain a new light on the United States.

Once Americans fought against taxation without representation. But there is little opposition to compensation without perspiration.

Overriding The Veto

Will the United Nations in the end be wrecked by the big-power veto? That has been a question overhanging every development of the international body since the free-swinging use of the veto was begun by Russia. The swift action which has been taken to nullify the veto in dealing with aggression may point to the answer. The UN may already have become a sufficiently well established institution, with a mind and character of its own, to refuse to be wrecked.

The plan which has been approved by the Political Committee provides machinery by which the General Assembly can take over at once any problem of international aggression in which Security Council action is blocked by a veto. The Assembly is a bigger and more unwieldy body. But if the temper of its members in dealing with a future aggression is as clear and overwhelming as it has been in the matter of Korea, then it will be able to take prompt and effective action if necessary.

The net effect is the voiding of the veto in one field of UN action. A precedent is set for the nullification of the veto in any other field whenever the overwhelming majority of the member nations conclude that the use of the veto is tying the hands of their international body. In this significant action the United Nations shows, more clearly than ever before, the promise that it may become a body capable of neutralizing the strength of any major power which refuses to co-operate with it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Blood More Complicated Than Water

WHEN I WENT to school the matter of blood grouping was relatively simple. There were four types: I, II, III, and IV. Several years latter the numerals gave way to the letters A, B, AB, and O and this classification is more descriptive of certain constituents that are responsible for the differences in our blood.

Each group has specific substances that we will call blood factors, as a matter of convenience. Some of us have factor A or B or a combination of A and B. The remainder have none and are called group O. The reason why the blood of different groups cannot be mixed is because the cells clump and stop functioning when they are incompatible. The exception is the most common group, O or IV, that will mix with every other group because it does not contain specific blood factors that are the trouble makers. When a series of 100 individuals is typed, only five will belong to the rarest blood group, AB or I; 40 to A or II; 40 to A or II; 10 to group B or III, and the remainder to O or IV.

These are the main blood types. In Chicago, where typing is being recommended for everyone, they expect to tattoo the results on the outer aspect of the left side of the chest. This would supplant the dog tags that could be blown off with the extremities in a bomb attack. The plan has merit because the blood type never changes and, in case of emergency, precious minutes or hours are saved if the blood type is known immediately. It might well be that in the future the American will be singled out because of his vaccination and tattoo marks.

There is nothing particularly difficult about blood grouping but the subject becomes much more confusing when the Rh factor is taken into consideration. The Rh factor is like factors A and B in that it is present in some and not in others; 85 per cent of the population is Rh positive and 15 per cent, Rh negative. Furthermore, the Rh factor has been subdivided into RhO, Rh1, Rh2, rh' rh", hr', hr" and many others. There also is an M and N classification.

With all these subdivisions there are at present no less than 864 possible combinations of blood types. Since blood groups are hereditary, studies along this line often are made by anthropologists. In fact, some of these authorities suggest that we classify races on the basis of blood types rather than geografy, skin color, or the shape of the head or eyelids.

In cases of disputed paternity, blood tests are common. Samples are removed from the mother and child, and from the man who is being questioned. The results that follow must be analyzed carefully. They can prove that the man is not the father and therein lies their value. Beyond this, they show that the man could be the father but whether he actually is remains a matter for the court to decide.

TOMORROW: Infectious mononucleosis must wear itself out.

SHINGLES

Mrs. J. P. writes: Is singles contagious?

REPLY

This is a moot question but many authorities believe that the condition is mildly so. There is presumptive evidence that the causative virus is related to the chicken pox organism. This was suggested when a number of cases of shingles developed in adults in households where a child was ill with chicken pox, and vice versa.

SKIN MANIFESTATIONS

Mrs. P. M. writes: What can cause swelling along each side of the nose, on my face, and up to my eyes which are puffy each day? Sores also break out in these areas.

REPLY

There are numerous possibilities, including a condition known as lupus erythematosus. In this disease, the pattern created by the lesions across the bridge of the nose resembles a butterfly.

EYELID TUMOR

J. M. T. writes: Is there a medicine to dissolve a chalazion on the eyelid or is surgery necessary?

REPLY

These cystlike swellings of the eyelid are caused by obstruction of one of the oil secreting glands near the roots of the eyelashes. Occasionally the application of ammoniated mercury ointment combined with heat and massage will cause small lesions to disappear; but with larger ones it is impossible to force out the contents and there is no drug to dissolve the material. Surgery works best and usually is necessary when the cyst is large.

Imagination Staggered By Thoughts Of What Scientific Rain-Making Could Do To Nation's Economy; Korean War Exposes Flaw In Army's Medical Service

Says DREW PEARSON

SEATTLE—What artificial rainmaking can do to the Far West staggers the imagination. It can make this area bloom like a Garden of Eden. It can throw Secretary of Agriculture Brannan's crop program out of balance. Or it could take rain away from other areas and make them deserts.

A brief sample of what rainmaking can do occurred at Prosser, Wash., where Leo Horrigan, a big wheat rancher, hired Dr. Irving Frick, of the Water Resources Development Board of Pasadena, Calif., to seed the clouds at the time his wheat needed it most.

As a result, Horrigan's crop, previously estimated at 8 to 10 bushels per acre, shot up to 20 bushels per acre. His total yield was increased by half a million bushels.

Scientific seeding of the clouds might make unnecessary expensive irrigation projects, might raise the water level in the dry central valley of California, might settle the bitter water feud between California and Arizona over the Colorado river. On the other hand nobody knows yet whether tapping the clouds over one area will take rain away from another. That's why farsighted Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico proposes legislation to control rainmaking.

Battle-Experienced Doctors Needed

The Korean war has exposed a glaring weakness in the Army Medical Service—namely, that tragically few of its doctors were trained for front-line hospital work. As a result, wounded G.I.'s suffered needless agony, even death, on the Korean front because Army doctors didn't always know how to set up tents, improvise beds or stretchers, and organize field operating rooms.

Most of the young doctors, placed in command of field hospital units, had never served outside big, modern hospitals. They had little experience under battle conditions, often weren't even taught the fundamentals of field hospital work.

Most people don't know it, but the army operates only one small field medical training center at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, under the command of a veteran field surgeon, Maj. Gen. Joseph I. Martin. However, only a fraction of army doctors have been able to take this training.

Even the surgeon-general, Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, has no background as a field surgeon but was selected on the basis of his record for operating large army hospitals. Like most of his predecessors, Bliss has had excellent hospital training but little experience near the front. Most military branches won't appoint a chief who hasn't been a field commander, but not in the medical corps.

Though battle-experienced doctors have pleaded for better field training, the armchair hospital brass have ignored their warnings. Meanwhile, the doctors in Korea are saying privately:

"For God's sake, give us a surgeon-general who knows what the battlefield is, and we'll teach young doctors how and what to do in the field."

Brotherhood At Work

Loyola University in Los Angeles cancelled its scheduled football game with Texas Western at El Paso the other day because Loyola had a Negro halfback whom Texas Western would not allow to play.

When Stanley Meyers of Universal Pictures congratulated Loyola fathers for their stand against race discrimination, one of them remarked: "Unfortunately, it cost us $8,000. That was the guarantee we were to give Texas Western, and we felt morally bound to pay them when we cancelled. We don't know where we're going to get the $8,000, but it was worth the money."

"Never mind, Father," replied Meyers, "the Lord has ways to take care of those things."

So Meyers, giving the Lord an assist, went to Noah Dietrich, head of the Hughes Tool Company of Houston and the man whose telephone as well as that of Howard Hughes was tapped in Washington by Senator Brewster of Maine on behalf of Pan American Airways.

"Noah," said Meyers, "you recently joined the church. Also you're from Texas, a state whose attitude on the color question has just cost Loyola $8,000."

Meyers went on to suggest that Dietrich make up the money which Loyola College had lost. Next day the Loyola fathers were surprised to receive a check for $8,000.

More On Dewey-Hanley

Here is more inside on the bitter New York battle raging over the heads of Gov. Tom Dewey and his lieutenant governor, Joe Hanley.

Dewey, it now develops, heard of the existence of the Hanley "sellout" letter, and on Oct. 11 asked his lieutenant governor for a copy. Hanley refused. Hanley had written the letter to Kingsland Macy in September and sent a copy to James Leary, a Saratoga Springs lawyer, who showed it to various friends. However, Dewey was not able to get a copy.

So he instructed Congressman William Pfeiffer of Brooklyn to scour the state for the letter. On Oct. 13 the Congressman came up with a copy and it was two days later—Sunday, Oct. 15—that Dewey abruptly announced his support of General Eisenhower.

Significantly, the Macy-Gannett group, which put up the money for Joe Hanley, have also been the backstage backers of Eisenhower. But in politics, it doesn't pay to have your neck out too early and, the best thing Dewey could have done to help Ike was to say nothing.

NOTE—It wasn't merely because of a bank failure that Joe Hanley needed money. Joe is a great hand at the horse races.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Is Taft A Good Conservative?

COLUMBUS, OHIO

WHAT is happening here in Ohio gives a precise, clear, and orderly picture of something that has gone wrong with the American political system. Consider the nature of the contest between Sen. Robert A. Taft and his Democratic rival, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson.

On the one hand you have the leading conservative politician in the United States—a man whose ability is almost universally acknowledged, entirely upright, highly intelligent. He is running for reelection at a time when the country desperately needs intelligent conservative leadership. Here is a man, it seems, who might supply this kind of leadership, never welcoming change, but always accepting inevitable change, making certain that change takes place without twisting the social fabric out of shape.

Running against him, is a man who is immensely likable and immensely unqualified to represent the State of Ohio in the United States Senate. He is also entirely upright, and an examplar of all the minor virtues. But as a representative of the long American liberal—radical tradition he is a joke. He is—and he really pretends to be no more—than a goodhearted minor politician, carefully repeating the opinions ground out for him by anonymous speech-writers, avoiding like death the risk of debate with his opponent, substituting the glittering generality and the hearty handshake for any original political thinking of his own.

Favors Taft Re-Election

Aside from this contrast in personalities, every other conceivable circumstance seems to favor the triumphant re-election of Robert A. Taft by a very large majority. It is not only that every major organ or opinion in Ohio favors Taft; that many regular Democrats view the Ferguson candidacy with a distaste they make no attempt to conceal; and that this is an off-year election. More than all this is the fact that this should logically be a time for conservatives, if there is ever to be such a time. For the country is richer than ever—and presumably people become conservative when they have something to conserve.

In brief, Taft should be a sure thing. Yet he is not a sure thing at all. Take, for example, the registration figures in Ohio, which are remarkably interesting. Registration has averaged as much as 20 per cent over 1948, in those counties where registration is required. This is most surprising, for this is an off-year election, when voter apathy is taken for granted.

There are, of course, two ways of interpreting the abnormally high off-year vote which is apparently in prospect. The Taft camp says that the Ohio Republicans are thoroughly aroused, in sharp contrast to the Republican complacency of 1948.

There is obviously something in this. But there seems to be at least as much, and perhaps more, in the interpretation of the labor men and Democratic professionals. Both Democratic Chairman Gene Hanhart and Labor League Co-Chairman Philip Hanna estimate that about 70 per cent of the increased registration is anti-Taft. The fact that registration is generally only required in counties with big city populations seems to support this view. And at any rate, Taft's supporters would be delighted by a Taft majority of 100,000. This is less than a thirtieth of the total vote, and surely a very small margin for a man like Taft, running against a man like Ferguson.

Administration's Record Poor

This in turn suggests a rather obvious conclusion—that Taft's brand of conservatism simply does not measure up to the times in which we live. On domestic policy—housing, health, and education, and Taft's proposed amendments to his own labor bill—Taft has often seemed to move in the time-honored conservative tradition of giving an inch to avoid giving a ruinous all. But the men identified with him in the conservative wing of the Republican Party, men like Wherry and Kem and Jenner and Bricker, have conspicuously refused to give even the inch. And Taft himself has given his inch with such obvious reluctance that what is really a perfectly reasonable conservative program has come to be labelled in many voters' minds as the blackest reaction.

But this is by no means all. Taft is fond of accusing the Administration of a "strange sympathy for Communism," and certainly the Administration's foreign policy record is far from perfect. But Taft's enemies can reply—and do reply—that the Wherry—Kem—Jenner Republicans with whom Taft is identified have voted with almost perfect consistency on foreign policy issues with New York's party-lining Vito Marcantonio; and that Taft himself has voted with Marcantonio on these issues a good deal more than half the time.

The fact that Taft's brand of conservatism is so intensely vulnerable has a two-fold result. In the first place, Taft is driven to political devices which are not really worthy of his unquestioned integrity, like his implied defense of McCarthyism, or his charge that Truman's veto of that legislative monstrosity, the McCarran bill, reveals pro-Communist leanings. In the second place, because the conservative challenge is inadequate, the Democratic Party is tending more and more to the sort of genially meaningless mediocrity which, for all his virtues, is perfectly symbolized in the person of State Auditor Joseph Ferguson.

Propaganda Is At Work Against Syngman Rhee

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—There's an insidious propaganda at work here to attempt to discredit Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea. On the surface, it resembles the propaganda which started fiye years ago against Chiang Kai-Shek and ultimately resulted in the enforced collapse of the Nationalist regime in China.

One high American official who is well aware that the propaganda exists and resents it said today:

"Is the United States going to to get the reputation in Asia of helping a government to fight victoriously against its external enemies only to drop it like poison thereafter?"

American aid, military and economic, went to Chiang Kai-Shek when he was helping to keep at bay the Japanese armies on the Continent of Asia. But as soon as Japan surrendered in 1945, the effort to break down the Nationalist government began. From this the Communists derived great satisfaction. Indeed, it is not yet established how much Communist influence did infiltrate Washington and produce this weakening of American support for Chiang Kai-Shek.

Will Perpetuate Fiction

Today President Rhee stands as the constitutionally elected executive of his republic. His government has been formally recognized by the United States and by the United Nations as the legitimately established government of Korea. It has, moreover, been asserted officially by the United States that the 38th Parallel was not a boundary of the republic and that U. N. recognized the entire area of Korea as within the jurisdiction of the government of Korea.

But now skeptics are spreading the word that Dr. Rhee is recognized only for South Korea, thus endeavoring to perpetuate the very fiction that the Soviets sought to implant with their cry that the outbreak in Korea was just a "civil war." Under the constitution of Korea, Dr. Rhee's term doesn't expire until 1952. He is president of all Korea by virtue of an election that the U. N. approved. He is not just president of the southern area. His troops are in the north exercising military control over the northern region.

It is true that U. N. forces are assisting the South Korean army but this in no wise subtracts from the sovereignity of the Korean republic. It is natural for the U. N. which supervised the first elections, to see to it that supplementary elections are held in certain districts so that the people in North Korea who have been coerced by the Communists now can choose freely the men they want to represent them in the Korean legislative body.

But this program of electing members to vacancies in the Korean congress has nothing to do with the legitimacy of the present Korean government despite the strange efforts of opponents of Dr. Rhee in America to try to give the impression that a new election must be ordered.

Used Against Chiang

The innuendos refer to Dr. Rhee as a "reactionary" and as opposed to "agrarian reforms" — the very same words that, curiously enough, cropped up so frequently when the Department of State was being slowly but surely persuaded to abandon Chiang Kai-Shek a few years ago.

The Department of State has managed to prove to many fair-minded people that whatever mistakes it made in handling Chiang Kai-Shek were conscientiously made and without Communist inspiration, directly or indirectly. If Dr. Rhee, however, now meets the same fate at the hands of the Department of State that Chiang Kai-Shek did, the charges will certainly be renewed. If, despite the sacrifices made by the American troops to fight Communist aggression in Korea, the Communists nevertheless win their point in weakening Dr. Rhee and getting help in that effort from various persons inside the American government, it will be a sad day for American diplomacy. Dr. Rhee needs stanch and uniquivocal support. His prestige in his own country is at stake as word reaches there that certain U. N. members and perhaps the State Department are cool in their attitude.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Thomas Of Utah

ONE of the characters of the United States Senate is Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, who is up for re-election this year. Mr. Thomas is a scholar, especially in Japanese, and has been an instructor in Latin and Greek. He is an author, an authority on labor problems and altogether quite a man.

In the Senate, he has pursued a curious and unexplainable course. The confession of Lee Pressman as a Communist cooperator and the self-implication of John Abt and Charles Kramer make the story of Senator Elbert D. Thomas on the LaFollette Committee increasingly interesting.

This committee was organized by members of the Harold Ware Communist cell in Washington as an instrument for the smearing of American industry. Robert La Follette and Elbert Thomas managed the La Follette committee. The actual operators of the committee were John Abt and Charles Kramer (Krivitsky). Senator Thomas needs to explain why he tolererated that.

I think that it can be established on the record that no other United States Senator has had so many dealings with Communists and with front organizations as Senator Elbert Thomas. I am not saying that he is a Marxist—I know nothing of what motives caused him to adopt his curious course. But why would Senator Thomas say this:

"Some day, when the Russian children at Stalingrad and the Jewish children at Birobidjan have grown up into strong and splendid men and women, fully equipped to enjoy the equality of opportunity their country offers them . . ."

What equality of opportunity is possible under the Communist system? What Marxist believes in equality of opportunity? A learned man of Senator Thomas's quality would know about that. Whom was he trying to fool—the 20,000,000 slaves in Russia?

Senator Thomas was a sponsor of the American committee for protection of foreign born, a subversive organization. A man of the calibre of Senator Thomas would know the character of this organization, for it was founded as far back as January 2, 1924, by the third national convention of the Communist Party (then known as the Workers Party of America).

This Senator was a member of the committee for the first amendment, set up to protect the Hollywood ten. Now, the Senator might say that he never was a member, but the "Daily People's World," on October 29, 1947, announced his membership, and there is no record of objection. Yet, the "Hollywood Ten" have been held in contempt of a Congress of which Senator Thomas is a member.

I could go on with this record, which is very long. But how does the Senator explain these words, which he wrote for a Communist magazine, "The New Masses":

". . . In Russia the worth of an individual from an economic standpoint has never been discounted. This, we have always thought to be impossible under any kind of socialistic regime. Therefore, there must be in the Russian scheme an appreciation of the individual or else that individual could never have amounted to as much as he or she has under socialistic guidance. Does this not mean that leadership in Russia, while giving lip service to another type of political theory, has by action recognized the basic strength of democracy? Personally, I believe that that is the case . . ."

When Elbert Thomas wrote that in 1943, it was false.

Senator LaFollette once wrote a magazine article explaining how the Communists jobbed him on the committee. But not Senator Thomas.

I want to ask Senator Thomas a few questions:

1. Did he know that when Harold Ware was killed in an automobile accident that John Abt took over Ware's job as the head of the cell in Washington and married Jessica Smith, Ware's widow, who edits the most anti-American magazine in this country, "Soviet Russia Today"?

2. If he discovered that fact, did he re-examine the work of the La Follette Committee to discover what John Abt and his associates did to America?

3. Did he ever read these words:

"Mr. Stripling. Mr. Abt, are you a member of the Communist Party?

"Mr. Abt. Mr. Stripling, on the grounds of objection stated by my counsel and, in addition, in the exercise of the privilege extended to me under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution against self-incrimination, I decline to answer that question."

The Senator might say that the LaFollette Committee once smeared me outrageously and that I am getting even with him. Senator, does that excuse you?

Down Where The Wurzburger Flows

A BEERY little letter showed up in the mail today from a man in Milwaukee, and if you'll pull up a chair and help yourself to the pretzels I'll be glad to let you take a look at it . . .

Dear Mr. Rose:

There's an old German couple in our neighborhood named Otto and Lena Brenner, and something happened to them not long ago which you might want to mention in your column.

Billy Rose

Otto has been a gateman at one of the local breweries for longer than most of us can remember, and ever since he got married in 1910 he's been turning his pay check over to his wife who cashes it at the grocer's and gives him a couple of dollars off the top for spending money. About 30 cents of this goes for smoking tobacco and the rest for beer at Stegmeyer's Social Club, a saloon where Otto drops in regularly for a little talk with the boys. Lena, of course, has never approved of the club, and has always said Otto's friends were a bunch of bums.

Last month Lena got word that her sister in Racine was sick and needed her, and so, not knowing when she'd be back, she gave Otto permission to cash his pay check himself, warning him, however, to stay away from Stegmeyer's where the boozers could only lead him into evil ways.

The following Friday night when Otto cashed his check he took the $37 in bills, rolled them into a wad, put a rubber band on it and shoved it into a pants pocket, along with an odd quarter left over from his previous week's spending money. Then he went home, ate a little dinner and stretched out on the couch for a nap.

For the best part of an hour he turned and tossed, but finally he gave up, put on his hat and headed for Stegmeyer's. A few doors from the bar, a panhandler gave him a hard-luck story, and it was so convincing that Otto dug down and gave him the quarter. Then he went into the beer parlor, where, of course, he got his usual warm reception and had himself his usual fine time. That is, until it was his turn to buy a round—when he reached for his money it wasn't there.

"What's the trouble?" said the bartender. "You look like you lost something."

"My pay," said Otto.

"Don't worry," said the bartender. "Your credit's good."

"It ain't that," said Otto. "This is the first time my old lady has let me cash my pay check and I'll never hear the end of it if I don't have the money when she gets back. I gave a panhandler a quarter before I came in and that's when the bills must have fallen out of my pocket."

Well, practically everybody in Stegmeyer's went out to look for Otto's money, but there was no sign of it so he finally went home, plenty worried about how Lena was going to take it.

An hour later there was a knock on the gateman's door and it was Little Stevie, the kid who works for Stegmeyer. "The panhandler came in right after you left and gave us this," he said, handing Otto a roll of bills with a rubber band on it. "He says he picked it up right after you gave him the quarter, but his conscience started to bother him on account you was so good to him."

Otto counted the money—it was $37.

When Lena got back from Racine, the old boy handed her the dough and that might have been that, except the following night, while tidying up, she found a roll of bills wedged behind a cushion on the couch.

"Look," she said to Otto, "money! Thirty-seven dollars!"

"It must be my last week's pay," said Otto.

"You mean you got paid twice last week?"

Otto knew he wasn't worth a darn as a liar and so he told Lena everything.

"It means only one thing," said his wife. "Them bums at Stegmeyer's saw you was in bad trouble and took up a collection."

A few minutes later, Lena went to the closet and got her coat. "Put on your hat and let's go," she said.

"Go where?" said Otto.

"To Stegmeyer's, of course. First, I'm gonna apologize to those bums for saying they're bums. After that the drinks are on me!"

Sincerely,

LOUIS STEGMEYER.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

ANOTHER Busy Ditch! Yipes! . . . One official threw up his hands hands in a gesture of horror when he was let in on The Big Secret . . . . Namely, that when a new Congress meets next year (the 82nd) there'll be ANOTHER bill for ANOTHER Panama Canal . . . . In Central America . . . . Pressure comes not from lobbyists, but from atom-bomb-conscious military planners . . . . They are worrying that one well-placed bomb could put the present canal out of business . . . . Matter has been discussed by Armed Service Committee—but all testimony was very much off the record.

AUSTINE

Senator Tom Connolly has packed up and headed back for Texas at last . . . in the care, of course, of his handsome wife . . . . Not up for election this year, old Tawm told friends he was just goin' home to do a little handshaking . . . . One of the pleasures he will miss most about Washington: Sipping bean soup in the little snack bar not far from the Foreign Relations Committee Room where he presides as chairman.

Halloween's a comin'!! . . . Black cats, chalked-marked walls, apple duckings and door bells ringing . . . . Heres a bona fide old Scotch recipe for turning yourself into a witch . . . found in an ancient book at the Library of Congress:

Take a stick, rub it with the fat of a murder victim. Pop into bed with it . . . The stick will turn into the likeness of you, thereby making two of you . . . . Then while your body snoozes innocently in bed, your witchly other self can fly up the chimney on a broomstick, accompanied by black cats . . . Sailing the sky on Halloween night you will sooner or later meet the Devil riding a goat . . . You and your witch-drinking companions will dance to the Devil's bag pipes. For refreshments you sip blood out of horses skulls.

The celebration of the pagan Celts on October 31st was originally to honor the last day of the year . . . So Halloween goes back at least 2000 years . . . The Celts believed one of their minor gods on that night turned all souls who had died during the past year into various animals . . . The wicked souls were turned into cats . . . That's how the cat got star-billing at Halloween.

The Romans celebrated a harvest holiday the first of November . . . So apples and nuts got a place in Halloween festivities.

With Christianity came Allhallow's Eve (The Eve of All Saints) . . . But some of the pagan frolics lingered on. Ducking for apples in the Middle Ages was a much rougher game . . . An apple was stuck on one end of a stick. A lighted candle on the other . . . The stick was hung from a cord and twirled around . . . A blind-folded victim had to snatch bites out of the apple without setting himself on fire . . . 3rd degree burns were great for laughs in those days.

White House insiders hardly dare breathe it, but on Foreign Policy as of now, three men rank as tip-toppermost Presidential advisers—Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman and Felix Frankfurter . . . Seems Frankfurter passes information and suggestions to Acheson, and Acheson hands them on to Harriman . . . Harriman then feeds the ideas to the Prez . . . In the spring they say a "young" man's fancy turns to love . . . but in the case of the "Veep" and those close to him there's no "off season" . . . . Latest victim of Barkley-itis (love sickness) is the Veep's sister, Ima Barkley Denker, a grandmother who looks and acts like her older brother . . . Mrs. Denker changed her name to Brown this week when she put the bridal noose on Edgar Ruffin Brown, an Alabamian, down in Corinth, Mississippi.

Colored Organization To Hold Mass Meeting

The Cumberland Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will hold a rally tonight at 8 o'clock in Ebenezer Baptist Church, Cumberland Street.

This rally, to which the public is invited, is to officially open the association's fall membership drive. Fifty new members are the quota, according to John Wormack, president.

The principal address will be made by Rev. Joseph Garner, pastor of Metropolitan AME Church. Others to participate in the program of talks, solos, duets and chorus numbers include Rev. George A. Tate, pastor of McKendree Church, Rev. T. H. Woods, pastor of Ebenezer Church, John Gordon, Sr., Mrs. Clara Thomas, Alexander Robinson, Mrs. Wormack and Mrs. Mary Stewart and the Young Men's Chorus.

Following the rally, refreshments will be served.

Low-Back Pains Eased Promptly

BOSTON — (AP) — Prompt relief from low-back pains—which almost everyone gets at some time or other —was described to the American College of Surgeons.

The pains are usually due to sprain of joints low in the back. The treatment was described by Dr. J. Huber Wagner, Pittsburgh, chief surgeon of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation and affiliated companies.

In the last 15 years, 1,500 workers have been treated successfully with no lost time from their jobs, he said. Only two failed to show prompt recovery. These all were people whose pains came suddenly, from acute sprains.

An anesthetic is injected into the muscles of the low back. The pain area is treated with moist heat, massage, and a machine that makes the muscles contract by electric currents.

It is important to keep exercising the back to keep it mobile, and avoid frozen back muscles becoming immobile, Dr. Wagner said.

In chronic low-back pain or stiff frozen back, the person is put to sleep with an anesthetic, and then the doctor exercises, bends and moves the back. Then the same kind of treatment is followed as for the sudden attacks of pain.

Recruiter In Oakland

Eugene Morgan, BMC, U. S. Navy, of the local Navy recruiting office in the Post Office Building, is now in Oakland to determine whether a recruiting office for the Navy is needed there. He will continue his work in Oakland until November 6.

Your appearance reflects the order of your closet. Here's an easy plan to keep your wardrobe in order.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

ONE peek into many a feminine closet, and almost any bachelor would be convinced that single-blessedness is the only perfect state . Actually, even without that glimpse, the confusion in any woman's closet is discernable. It's just bound to show up in her appearance.

Clothes crammed together, shoes strewn on the floor, or hats plunked on a shelf never add to making you have an immaculate appearance at a moments' notice. The loss in beauty resulting from such lack of care can hardly be excused on any basis—lack of time, equipment or space.

Model Closet

The Powers Girls learn early in their careers that neatly kept clothes actually save time in the long run because there's less pressing and fixing involved. Much of the equipment necessary to furnish an efficient closet can be made at home, and space is largely a matter of good planning .

For instance, with only a small apartment closet at her disposal, here's the way Model Susan Holt has worked out the space problem:

1. Long formal clothes are hung in bags in the least accessible spot. Short dressy clothes under shoulder covers come next. Daytime dresses are in front of these, and skirts, jackets and blouses are first .

2. The empty floor space created by hanging all short garments together is used for storing the Sunday-go-to-meeting hats in their tissue-filled boxes.

3. Hats in constant use repose on tissue-padded stands on a shelf.

Handy Gadget

4. Shoes, handbags and clothes-grooming aids are placed in a rack on the inside of the door.

Stores carry every conceivable gadget to make your closet orderly and compact. And any man with a handy hobby can make a fixture that answers every need (or you can go to your local adult school and learn to make your own). All that's needed is a narrow shelf placed at eye level to hold your grooming aids; hooks on the underside will support your handbags. Below, arrange a series of slanted shelves fitted with a raised strip to catch the heels of your shoes neatly in a row.

Matching garment bags, shoulder protectors, padded hangers, covered boxes are all yours for the making. A sweet fragrance is yours for the spraying. Poise will be yours ,too, when you open your closet and see your most feminine self reflected right back at you.

ANOTHER Busy Ditch! Yipes! . . . One official threw up his hands in a gesture of horror when he was let in on The Big Secret . . . . Namely, that when a new Congress meets next year (the 82nd) there'll be ANOTHER bill for ANOTHER Panama Canal . . . . In Central America . . . . Pressure comes not from lobbyists, but from atom-bomb-conscious military planners . . . . They are worrying that one well-placed bomb could put the present canal out of business . . . . Matter has been discussed by Armed Service Committee—but all testimony was very much off the record.

Senator Tom Connolly has packed up and headed back for Texas at last . . . in the care, of course, of his handsome wife . . . . Not up for election this year, old Tawm told friends he was just goin' home to do a little handshaking . . . . One of the pleasures he will miss most about Washington: Sipping bean soup in the little snack bar not far from the Foreign Relations Committee Room where he presides as chairman.

Halloween's a comin'!! . . . Black cats, chalked-marked walls, apple duckings and door bells ringing . . . . Heres a bona fide old Scotch recipe for turning yourself into a witch . . . found in an ancient book at the Library of Congress:

Take a stick, rub it with the fat of a murder victim. Pop into bed with it . . . The stick will turn into the likeness of you, thereby making two of you . . . . Then while your body snoozes innocently in bed, your witchly other self can fly up the chimney on a broomstick, accompanied by black cats . . . Sailing the sky on Halloween night you will sooner or later meet the Devil riding a goat . . . You and your witch-drinking companions will dance to the Devil's bag pipes. For refreshments you sip blood out of horses skulls.

The celebration of the pagan Celts on October 31st was originally to honor the last day of the year . . . So Halloween goes back at least 2000 years . . . The Celts believed one of their minor gods on that night turned all souls who had died during the past year into various animals . . . The wicked souls were turned into cats . . . That's how the cat got star-billing at Halloween.

The Romans celebrated a harvest holiday the first of November . . . So apples and nuts got a place in Halloween festivities.

With Christianity came Allhallow's Eve (The Eve of All Saints) . . . But some of the pagan frolics lingered on. Ducking for apples in the Middle Ages was a much rougher game . . . An apple was stuck on one end of a stick. A lighted candle on the other . . . The stick was hung from a cord and twirled around . . . A blind-folded victim had to snatch bites out of the apple without setting himself on fire . . . 3rd degree burns were great for laughs in those days.

Suicide Squads Keep Mail Trains Moving In Malaya

By A. L. McIntyre

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Suicide squads of railwaymen are keeping communications open through the 600-mile length of bandit-ridden Malaya.

They drive the pilot locomotives which proceed the mail trains by about two miles. Their job is to detect sabotaged tracks or to take the first shock of Communist ambush.

The crews of the pilot locomotives have saved more than 15 heavily-loaded passenger trains. The suicide squads were organized when it became apparent something had to be done to combat Communist sabotage of trains after the Reds began their uprising in June 1948.

In the first few months of the internal war several persons lost their live sand scores were injured when speeding mail trains plunged over embankments and then were riddled with bullets.

The pilot locomotives are composed of an engine with bunker, and truck on whose platform has been mounted a steel pillbox. The circular pillbox is about six feet in diameter and five feet high to accommodate about four guards. Machine guns protrude from slots all around and a searchlight is mounted on top.

Serious derailment has almost been eliminated but Communist terrorists still attack the mail trains which leave Singapore twice a day for Northern Malaya. They mostly use rifle fire and scatter immediately train guards engage them.

Danger lurks at every mile for a pilot driver. He is always on the lookout for breaches in the line. The strain during the night is even more intense. All locomotives are armored to prevent serious harm to drivers and their firemen in case of a terrorist ambush.

How does it feel to take out a pilot train through Communist-infested country? Veteran Driver G. Fonseka says:

"It is mere luck that many of the drivers have escaped serious injury or even death.

"We take our trains at a speed of about 30 miles an hour. We know approximately where the dangerous sections are and slow down when we get to these areas.

"This reduces the force in event of a crash. It also increases the brake power of the passenger train behind, making it possible for the driver to pull up at once if he senses danger."

Drivers of the mail trains also come under tremendous strain. Following only five minutes behind, their job is to avoid crashing head-on into a pilot engine which has been ditched.

One veteran driver, known as the "Cat"—for his nine lives—has saved the mail train and its hundreds of passengers five times by his watchfulness and presence of mind.

By a strange irony not a single railwayman has been killed in the more than 100 attacks on trains since the war began.

New "Army" Of American Citizens Proving Pen Mightier Than Sword

NEW YORK — (INS) — A new "army" of American citizens is proving that in the war against Communism, the pen is still mightier than the sword.

The "army" consists of millions of first and second generation Americans engaged in a gigantic letter-writing campaign to get the truth about life in the United States to friends and relatives behind the iron curtain.

Proof that they are winning this war comes in the replies from Communist-dominated lands and in the attacks by the Communist press upon the Common Council for American United which launched the campaign five months ago.

Read Lewis, executive director of the council, told International News Service in New York:

"For the first time, a personal touch that strikes right at the hearts of enslaved people has entered the cold war. Communist regimes are trying to fight it, but it is clear now that they cannot do so successfully."

With over eight million Americans writing many more letters aboard, the council believes that Communist attempts at censorship are doomed to failure.

The fact that hundreds of test letters enclosing dollar bills have reached iron curtain residents intact is considered clear proof of this. Some of the replies too, indicate how alarmed Red regimes are at this failure.

One letter from a woman in the Russian zone of Berlin stated:

"Any letter you send may be censored. If you mention one word about Korea or criticize the Communist Party, it may cost us our lives."

A letter from a man in Hungary read:

"Everybody here expects war except the Communists. The Communists say they are acting only for the peoples' good, but nobody who has his real senses believes them." Read said that correspondent for a Swedish newspaper had telephoned him to inquire about the letter-writing campaign. The correspondent revealed that a Communist newspaper in Sweden had attacked the council and said his newspaper wanted information with which to answer the attack.

Another attack by the Communist press appeared in the Hungarian-language Magyar Jovo in New York City. The article compared the "Pen of America" with what it branded the "already notorious Voice of America."

In directing the letter-writing campaign, the council merely requests first and second generation Americans to tell about their own experiences in the United States.

A Russian DP, in this country only three months, wrote home:

"Oh, I could not dream in Europe about such an apartment as I now have. People who produce electrical kitchens do not think about aggression. People who sing do not plan bad things."

On each day in 1948 an average of 36 Americans were slain feloniously.

American steel workers' wages are about three times that of Britain's.

Fallon Fears Washington, D. C., Has Territorial Designs On Maryland

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Rep. Fallon (D.-Md.) is afraid the District of Columbia has territorial designs on Maryland.

He said that two bills pending in Congress, one of which already has passed the Senate, would give Washington's National Park and Planning Commission almost unlimited authority to deal with many functions in territory within a 50-mile radius of the capital.

That would mean Baltimore City, Annapolis—the Maryland capital, other communities and a huge chunk of the Free State "heartland."

Fallon, in a letter asking advice from Attorney General Hall Hammond of Maryland, said the bills "involve the sovereign rights of the state."

"This is not a law that will concern only the people in the 50-mile radius, but it will effect in my judgment every person in the state of Maryland," he said.

He contended that if the legislation is passed "the authority of the planning commissions" of Maryland and Virginia "will be nonexistent."

Fallon said the bill would give the National Park and Planning Commission power in Washington and it environs to adopt plans covering highways, bridges, recreation areas, public buildings, monuments, among other things.

He said it would also give the commission "control and supervision" of public property and reservations such as airports, land use, public utilities, waterway and waterfront development, slum clearance, "projects affecting the amenities of life," and "all other proper elements of the city and regional planning."

"This is undoubtedly, comprehensive," Fallon declared.

Fallon said the word "enviorns," as applied to Maryland, includes Montgomery and Prince George's counties "and all cities now or hereafter existing in Maryland within the geographical area bounded by the outer boundaries of the combined area."

"The bill goes further than that," he said. "It provides 'that whenever it becomes necessary in the national interest to locate any federal development or project at any place, within any other county or city in Maryland, any part of which is within the distance of 50 miles from the District of Columbia, the commission shall extend is plans to include any such counties or cities.'"

"I have discussed only a brief portion of the bill," his letter to Hammond said. "There are other sections which are equally important to all the voters and taxpayers of Maryland."

Chamber Adopts Expanded Plan Of Activities

Yule Committee Will Meet Today

The Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night approved an expanded membership activities program for 1950-51.

The program includes three dinner meetings of the membership, one late this year and the others in the spring of 1951, with the meetings featuring this city's three major industries.

Also approved were plans for a dinner meeting after the election to which newly elected state and county officers will be invited as guests.

The Chamber's luncheon meetings are to be continued, but chiefly as discussion meetings.

The Chamber reported that its Industrial Development committee last month submitted to Richardson Wood, industrial consultant for the city and county, eight inquiries from industrial firms interested in changing their location.

Joseph M. Naughton, president, was authorized to name a nominating committee to fill vacancies resulting from the transfers of R. A. J. Morrison and Howard M. Smith and the death of Harry A. Pitzer.

The Christmas committee of the Mercantile Bureau will meet today at 10:30 a.m. in the Chamber offices to complete plans for Yule street decorations and the balloon parade. Edward L. Ewald, chairman, will preside.

The Chamber voted to join with other Chambers of the state in a study of the possibilities and desirability of establishing a State Chamber of Commerce.

Sam Kesner Again Heads Local Union

Samuel Kesner, Ridgeley, W. Va., has been elected president of Blacksmiths' Local 32, of Bolt and Forge Shop, succeeding Kilgore Izzett.

Other union officers are J. Richard Greise, vice president; Melvin W. Poland, financial secretary; Woodrow Grimes, recording secretary; C. R. Croston, treasurer, and David Baldwin, conductor.

Wilbur J. Dohrman, Pattersons Creek, W. Va., was elected shop chairman, succeeding John R. Greise, Sr., who has held this job 22 of the last 23 years. Elected to assist Dohrman were James Rider, Kesner, and John L. Shipe. Trustees elected were Theodore Sachs and Dohrman.

The installation ceremony will be conducted by Izzett, retiring president, at Allegany Trades Council Hall Saturday, November 18 at 2 p. m. Refreshments will be served. All members are urged to attend.

Democrats Hold Rally At Westernport

A Democratic rally was held last night at Burn's Hall, Westernport, with about 100 party leaders and workers on hand to hear the party's county candidates and Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, congressional candidate, speak on issues of the campaign.

William C. Walsh, former attorney general, and Thomas B. Finan, former city solicitor, both of this city, spoke in behalf of the entire Democratic ticket, state and local. Magistrate Bernard McPartland, of Lonaconing, also endorsed the entire slate.

The rally was one of several planned throughout the county between now and the November 7 election.

Most recent player to collect 200 or more hits in his rookie season was Dick Wakefield, who made it in 1943.

Chamber Adopts Expanded Plan Of Activities

Yule Committee Will Meet Today

The Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night approved an expanded membership activities program for 1950-51.

The program includes three dinner meetings of the membership, one late this year and the others in the spring of 1951, with the meetings featuring this city's three major industries.

Also approved were plans for a dinner meeting after the election to which newly elected state and county officers will be invited as guests.

The Chamber's luncheon meetings are to be continued, but chiefly as discussion meetings.

The Chamber reported that its Industrial Development committee last month submitted to Richardson Wood, industrial consultant for the city and county, eight inquiries from industrial firms interested in changing their location.

Joseph M. Naughton, president, was authorized to name a nominating committee to fill vacancies resulting from the transfers of R. A. J. Morrison and Howard M. Smith and the death of Harry A. Pitzer.

The Christmas committee of the Mercantile Bureau will meet today at 10:30 a.m. in the Chamber offices to complete plans for Yule street decorations and the balloon parade. Edward L. Ewald, chairman, will preside.

The Chamber voted to join with other Chambers of the state in a study of the possibilities and desirability of establishing a State Chamber of Commerce.

Truckers Fined 10 Cents Pound For Overload

ELKHART, Ind., (AP) — At the rate of $1 a day, Frank P. Didonatis a 26-year-old Philadelphia truck driver, still owes $1,865 for a $1,870 fine for driving an overloaded truck on Indiana highways.

And he's still waiting for someone to pay his fine and end his imprisonment.

Didonatis was arrested last Friday by state police for driving a truck with an 18,700-pound overload. He was fined 10 cents for each illegal pound.

The truck and cargo were ordered held until the fine was satisfied, but Prosecutor Charles Hughes said that through an error the truck had been released to two drivers for the company for which Didonatis works. The overload was placed in another truck and the two vehicles left for Chicago.

Two Chicago lawyers who said they represented Didonatis talked with Hughes and Superior Court Judge William E. Wider. Judge Wider asked the attorneys to enter an appearance in Didonatis' behalf, but they declined to be committed officially to the case.

One explained they "just wanted to know what the situation was."

Louis Aiello, an official of the trucking company, had said previously he would try to provide Didonatis' fine, but court attaches said he has not made a settlement.

The secretary announced that the present enrollment has increased to 46 members.

The next session will be a joint meeting of high and grade school associations in the high school auditorium on Thursday, November 9. This meeting will be during American Education Week, and there will be open house from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m., at both the grade and high school buildings. All parents are invited. Government Warned To Go Slow In Drafting Doctors

BOSTON—(AP)—Go slow in drafting doctors for military duty or there won't be enough to care for civilians hit by atomic or biological war, James C. Sargent, Milwaukee, warns.

He said doctors will be as desperately needed on the civilian front as the battlefront. But "the number of doctors is fixed beyond any sudden expansion."

Dr. Sargent is chairman of the American Medical Association's Council on National Emergency Medical Services. He spoke at a special panel discussion on preparedness at the American College of Surgeons' meeting.

There must be enough physicians to meet "the possible health needs of our great mass of citizens faced with the terrific effects of atomic, biologic and chemical warfare. This calls for a sort of planning entirely new and different from any that has gone before."

It is civilian workers this time "on whom the bombs will fall. It is there, this time, where our great health problem will lie."

"Never again, if we are to be prepared to meet civilian casualties of such fantastic proportions, do we dare to be so profligate in our apportionment of civilian doctors to the military. Never again do we dare to reduce the number of civilian doctors to the ration of one to 1,500 (civilians) reached during the last war."

Neither the armed services nor planners of civilian defense can have the number of doctors they would like, he said.

Medical groups are helping now in drawing up plans to organize all health personnel, and this organization must be done "section by section within a city, city by city and even state by state."

Dr. Sargent listed seven necessities:

"The training of all doctors, dentists, nurses and technicians in the special aspects of atomic warfare must be under way at once.

"Literally hundreds of thousands of civilians must be trained in first aid and rescue services.

"Specially selected personnel must be trained in the details of radiologic safety.

"First aid stations and emergency hospital facilities must be carefully planned.

"Over-supplies of instruments, dressings and drugs must be accumulated.

"Stockpiling of certain critical items must be a national responsibility with large depots established at places convenient to the more likely target areas.

"And finally, in coordination with the non-medical relief and rescue units of the central organization, every one (if he still survives) must know where he is to go, how he is to get there and precisely what he is to do."

Guard Who Slew Army Prisoner Is Restricted

FORT MEADE, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—Second Army headquarters announced yesterday it has placed under restriction a post stockade guard who shot and killed a fleeing prisoner Tuesday.

The guard, Pfc. William T. Cruley, Nanty Glo, Pa., may not leave the post; but this is the extent of the restriction.

A board of officers is continuing its investigation.

An Army spokesman said the inquiry has determined that Recruit Thomas J. Angelino, Wilmington, Del., was being transferred from the stockade to a "maximum security" cell because he had tried to escape the night before from the stockade.

The Women's Army Corps is 7,000 "men" strong, about 1,400 of whom are on duty abroad.

He said doctors will be as desperately needed on the civilian front as the battlefront. But "the number of doctors is fixed beyond any sudden expansion."

Dr. Sargent is chairman of the American Medical Association's Council or National Emergency Medical Services. He spoke at a special panel discussion on preparedness at the American College of Surgeons' meeting.

There must be enough physicians to meet "the possible health needs of our great mass of citizens faced with the terrific effects of atomic, biologic and chemical warfare. This calls for a sort of planning entirely new and different from any that has gone before."

It is civilian workers this time "on whom the bombs will fall. It is there, this time, where our great health problem will lie."

"Never again, if we are to be prepared to meet civilian casualties of such fantastic proportions, do we dare to be so profligate in our apportionment of civilian doctors to the military. Never again do we dare to reduce the number of civilian doctors to the ration of one to 1,500 (civilians) reached during the last war."

Neither the armed services nor planners of civilian defense can have the number of doctors they would like, he said.

Medical groups are helping now in drawing up plans to organize all health personnel, and this organization must be done "section by section within a city, city by city and even state by state."

Dr. Sargent listed seven necessities:

"The training of all doctors, dentists, nurses and technicians in the special aspects of atomic warfare must be under way at once.

"Literally hundreds of thousands of civilians must be trained in first aid and rescue services.

"Specially selected personnel must be trained in the details of radiologic safety.

"First aid stations and emergency hospital facilities must be carefully planned.

"Over-supplies of instruments, dressings and drugs must be accumulated.

"Stockpiling of certain critical items must be a national responsibility with large depots established at places convenient to the more likely target areas.

"And finally, in coordination with the non-medical relief and rescue units of the central organization, every one (if he still survives) must know where he is to go, how he is to get there and precisely what he is to do."

Guard Who Slew Army Prisoner Is Restricted

FORT MEADE, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—Second Army headquarters announced yesterday it has placed under restriction a post stockade guard who shot and killed a fleeing prisoner Tuesday.

The guard, Pfc. William T. Cruley, Nanty Glo, Pa., may not leave the post; but this is the extent of the restriction.

A board of officers is continuing its investigation.

An Army spokesman said the inquiry has determined that Recruit Thomas J. Angelino, Wilmington, Del., was being transferred from the stockade to a "maximum security" cell because he had tried to escape the night before from the stockade.

GARLAND OF GOLDEN WHEAT WILL HELP BUILD AN ATTRACTIVE TABLE SETTING FOR WINTER DINNER PARTY

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you own china that is burgeoning with crocuses, bluebells, violets and other spring flowers, you might be baffled as to how to produce a pretty flower arrangement on your autumn or winter dinner party table.

Floral Consultant Patricia Roberts, author of Flower Craft (Crown), says, "It's easy to let floral motifs of china transform the place setting into a little spring garden."

Mrs. Roberts suggests building a table setting for a winter dinner party around your lush floral pattern by combining a garden of golden wheat and bronze galax leaves. Or she says that any other foliage combining wheat, sea oats or barley can bring to glowing life the bouquet of each dinner plate.

Another idea is to set three water goblets containing philodendren in the center of the table. If you have matching glassware use a larger goblet in the center. For special occasions, Mrs. Robert suggests coloring the water in the goblets with vegetable dye. Red or green give an appropriately festive touch to a Christmas table. If a meal is served by candlelight, blue dye is unusually effective. She says:

"Blue water blends with the green foliage of the plant, and gives the centerpiece a misty look."

She suggests using maple leaves around the place setting of the Thanksgiving table and decorating a centerpiece with corn stalks. Corn leaves, she says, dry in very pretty shapes and two or three add considerable interest to the place setting.

Berry shrubs which can be found in the woods during the fall are ideal in color and form for autumn centerpieces. However, being woody plants, the leaves will dry up almost at once and must be removed. Mrs. Roberts thinks they can be used effectively by themselves or combined with a hardy plant such as rhododendron, if green is needed, for special beauty.

Mrs. Roberts' lifelong interest in flower arrangement began in her childhood. Even as a tot she couldn't wait for flowers to open fully and would snip off tender, half-opened buds. Her mother helped guide her to a constructive interest in full grown flowers and soon Pat was arranging flowers all over the house.

She has been arranging flowers ever since, in her own shops here and abroad, as well as for flower clubs, fashion shows, television programs, business organizations and individuals. She did the floral arrangements at Brenda Frazier's famous coming out party. Several years ago she opened her own school of flower culture in Detroit. She now is working on a new book of floral table settings.

W. Md. Group To Meet In Frostburg

The Western Maryland Branch of the Baltimore Presbyterial received an invitation from the Frostburg Church to have the spring luncheon-meeting there. The invitation was extended at the fall meeting Monday in First Church here.

Urging more assistance to the home missions, Mrs. Harold Baldwin, from the National Board of Mission Fields, New York, told how the Presbyterian women have charge of the teachers and medical personnel of the mission hospitals and health centers. She told how every place she went in the mission fields the people expressed appreciation to the Presbyterian women for what they do. She also told of her visits last year to Tennessee and New Mexico and how all need help.

Mrs. Ella Wilson, Barton, conducted the business session and Mrs. Lester R. Martin, president of the association of the host church, extended greetings and introduced the speaker. Reports of the chairmen of the various societies were given and Mrs. P. G. Erwin reported on the Presbyterial. Macaroni Is Result Of Boy Meeting Girl

Because one of Marco Polo's handsome young sailors distracted a lovely Chinese maiden from her task of kneading dough some 800 years ago, Americans will celebrate National Macaroni Week October 5 to 14.

At least, popular legend credits the 800-year old romance of the sailor and the Chinese girl with the accidental discovery of macaroni which since has become a favorite food of people in every country in the world.

According to the story, leaves fell into the dough while the sailor was making love to the maiden. In effort to rid the dough of leaves, the sailor forced the dough through a wicker basket and the resulting strands were left in the sun to dry. When the sailor departed the Chinese girl presented him with the strands of dried dough as a token of her regard for him.

Back aboard his ship, the practical sailor tried to salvage the dough by softening it in hot water. He tasted the cooked dough and was so pleased with it he hastened to the great Marco Polo with his discovery Polo also liked the new dish and introduced it to western civilization when he returned to Italy.

Today, people in all parts of the world eat macaroni products. It's available in a fantastic number of shapes and sizes, ranging from tiny seeds, stars and alphabets up to jumbo tubular shapes and broad egg noodles. In America, the most popular shapes are the elbow macaroni, thin spaghetti and egg noodles in varying widths.

According to the National Macaroni Institute, which is sponsoring Macaroni Week, the American appetite for macaroni products has been increasing steadily from five pounds per capita in 1939 to 6.42 pounds per capita in 1949, a 28.4 per cent raise.

One of the most economical and versatile foods known to man, macaroni products fit into any course of a meal from soup to desserts, as well as providing main dish courses and satisfying one-dish meals. A bland food, macaroni combines well with practically all types of food, including meat, fish, eggs, cheese, milk, vegetables and fruits.

With literally thousands of different recipes for preparing macaroni products available, it is estimated that a person could eat macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles every day of his life without once exactly duplicating a dish.

During the October 5 to 14 period of National Macaroni Week, grocers in every section of the nation will be offering special sales on macaroni products and the many foods which commonly are served with them. And, if you serve macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles during Macaroni Week, recall that the food you are enjoying resulted from the negligence of the preoccupied Chinese maiden.

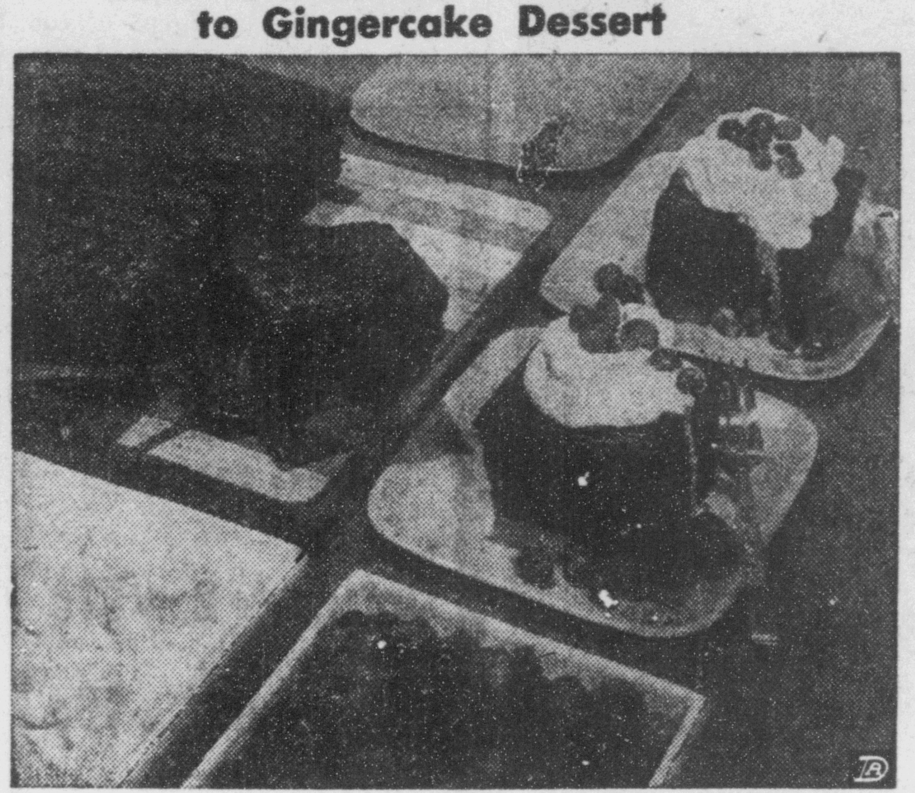
For a quick dessert when company comes, split a plump doughnut and place a scoop of vanilla ice cream on the bottom half. Replace the top half and serve with thick chocolate sauce if desired.

Fresh Cranberries Add Sparkle to Gingercake Dessert



Courtesy EATMOR-General Mills

The whole family will ask for second helpings of this delicious dessert. And it's so easy to make you won't mind a bit! Use a packaged gingercake mix and prepare as directed on the carton. Cut in squares and serve warm with a generous garnish of whipped cream and sweet-tart fresh cranberry sauce. It's as pretty as a party, and mighty good eating, too.

CRANBERRY SPARKLE FOR GINGERCAKE

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
4 cups fresh cranberries

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add berries and cook without stirring until all the skins pop—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cool in saucepan. Makes 1 quart sauce. To serve as topping, chill and partially drain before spooning over cake.

Cooking Ease

Cooking thermometers simplify many types of food preparation. There is a cooking thermometer to show when roasts are cooked exactly right, another to indicate the stages to which candies, icings, and jellies should be cooked for perfect results and still another for deep fat frying.

These thermometers are all available in easy-to-clean, non-breakable stainless steel. They have round, clock-like faces plainly printed with temperatures and instructions. The roast meat thermometer has a pointed stem which can be pressed directly into the meat without fear of breakage. The candy and deep fat thermometers have adjustable clamps for fastening them to the sides of cooking pans.

Pays For Itself

One of those attractive, stainless steel candy thermometers can be counted on to pay for itself in a short time by preventing costly failures. Made with a round, dial-type face, both temperatures and instructions are plainly shown. When candy is cooked to exactly the right stage as shown on a candy thermometer, it turns out delicious every time—with no failures caused by poor guesswork.

Macaroni Is Result Of Boy Meeting Girl

Because one of Marco Polo's handsome young sailors distracted a lovely Chinese maiden from her task of kneading dough some 800 years ago, Americans will celebrate National Macaroni Week October 5 to 14.

At least, popular legend credits the 800-year old romance of the sailor and the Chinese girl with the accidental discovery of macaroni which since has become a favorite food of people in every country in the world.

According to the story, leaves fell into the dough while the sailor was making love to the maiden. In effort to rid the dough of leaves, the sailor forced the dough through a wicker basket and the resulting strands were left in the sun to dry. When the sailor departed the Chinese girl presented him with the strands of dried dough as a token of her regard for him.

Back aboard his ship, the practical sailor tried to salvage the dough by softening it in hot water. He tasted the cooked dough and was so pleased with it he hastened to the great Marco Polo with his discovery Polo also liked the new dish and introduced it to western civilization when he returned to Italy.

Today, people in all parts of the world eat macaroni products. It's available in a fantastic number of shapes and sizes, ranging from tiny seeds, stars and alphabets up to jumbo tubular shapes and broad egg noodles. In America, the most popular shapes are the elbow macaroni, thin spaghetti and egg noodles in varying widths.

According to the National Macaroni Institute, which is sponsoring Macaroni Week, the American appetite for macaroni products has been increasing steadily from five pounds per capita in 1939 to 6.42 pounds per capita in 1949, a 28.4 per cent raise.

One of the most economical and versatile foods known to man, macaroni products fit into any course of a meal from soup to desserts, as well as providing main dish courses and satisfying one-dish meals. A bland food, macaroni combines well with practically all types of food, including meat, fish, eggs, cheese, milk, vegetables and fruits.

With literally thousands of different recipes for preparing macaroni products available, it is estimated that a person could eat macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles every day of his life without once exactly duplicating a dish.

During the October 5 to 14 period of National Macaroni Week, grocers in every section of the nation will be offering special sales on macaroni products and the many foods which commonly are served with them. And, if you serve macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles during Macaroni Week, recall that the food you are enjoying resulted from the negligence of the preoccupied Chinese maiden.

Serve "Smiling Waffle" For Halloween Party

Looking for an original idea for that Halloween party? Halloween entertaining can be fun, and it needn't take a lot of time nor money.

Here's a delightful whimsical idea that will make perfect party fare for either a children's supper or a late-evening snack for adults. The novelty is in the serving of the "Smiling Waffle."

As the name indicates, the "Smiling Waffle" has a face. To make it, simply place four Pork Sausage links in position on the ready-to-serve waffle to resemble eyebrows and mouth. Place two pats of butter for eyes with small crosswise slices of sausage for pupils. These can be sliced from ends of eyebrow sausage.

Bisquick Waffles

2 cups Bisquick
1½ cups milk
1 egg
2 tbsp. melted butter, vegetable shortening or salad oil

Beat well (batter will be lumpy). Waffle iron is just right then when a few drops of water sprinkled on it jump around before evaporating. Waffles are baked when they stop steaming. Makes 6 to 8 waffles.

To prepare link sausages, place in cold frying pan and fry slowly 12 to 15 minutes, pouring off fat and turning occasionally. Fry until well done, when no pink color remains. One pound of Armour Star sausage contains 16 links, which will make the feature for four "Smiling Waffles." Fresh and tasty sausages will add zest to this new way of serving waffles.

You may want to make some waffles ahead of time to prevent a last-minute rush. Waffles can be kept warm and crisp by placing directly on rack of a warm oven, leaving door slightly ajar. For appetizing, hot waffles, warm the plates in advance and heat the syrup to serve with the waffles. These "extra" touches add to eating enjoyment, plus making the syrup easier to pour. Syrup can be heated easily by setting opened bottle or pitcher into pan of water, then heating.

A simple menu suggestion featuring the "Smiling Waffle" would be to serve hot spiced tomato juice first, then the waffle and sausage combination, followed by a fruit salad plate as dessert, and beverage.

Lamb Riblets Useful Dish

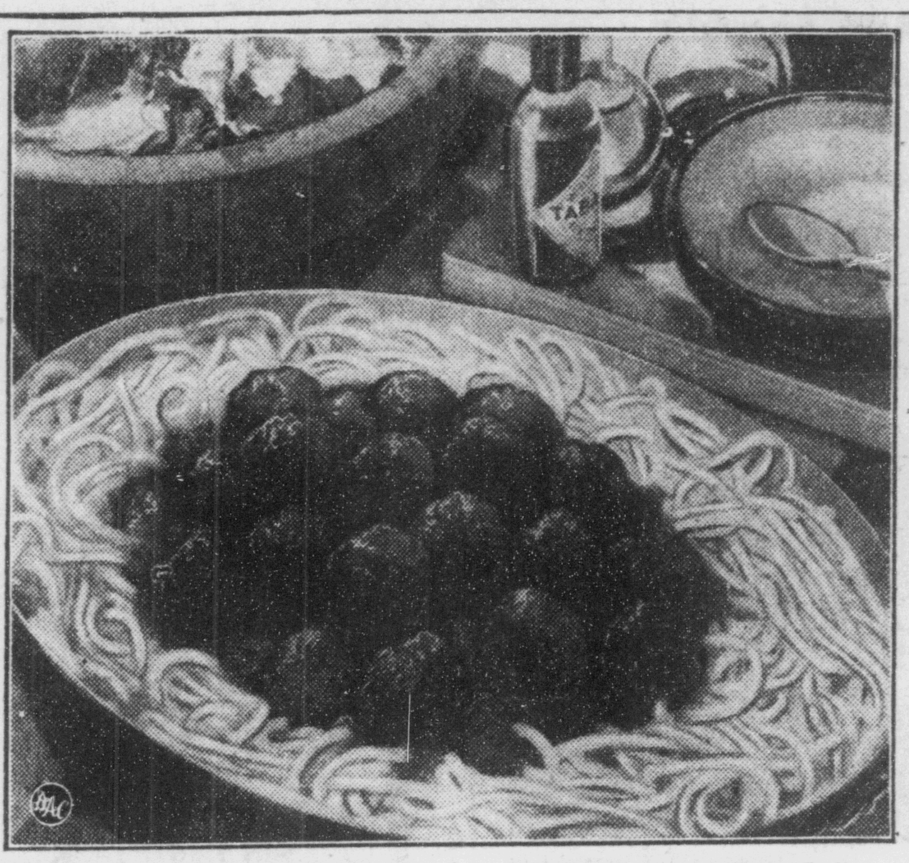
Start with lamb riblets, add a barbecue sauce and simmer slowly until tender, then serve over snowy white rice. Here's a wise choice for a cool weather meal, says home economist Reba Staggs.

For the homemaker who may not be acquainted with lamb riblets, Miss Staggs explains that they are prepared from a lamb breast. The meat dealer removes the breast bone and flank, then cuts between the ribs with the resulting meaty riblets.

In barbecuing the lamb it is first browned in drippings or lard to develop a rich brown color. The barbecue sauce provides the cooking liquid and is added when the riblets are browned on all sides. A spicy sauce well seasoned with vinegar and brown sugar is ideal. Braising time will be approximately 1½ hours. In serving, the lamb riblets may be arranged over boiled rice, topped with the barbecue sauce or the sauce may be served in a separate dish.

Leftover Ham Treat

Ham is such a popular item in family menus that leftover ham recipes always are in demand. Here's a good way to serve ham the second time so that it will taste entirely different. In a little fat, cook until soft 1 chopped onion and ½ green pepper, chopped. Add a No. 2½ can tomatoes, drained, and season with salt, pepper and tabasco sauce or chili powder to taste. Add 2 cups ground or finely chopped ham and simmer slowly for half an hour. Serve over fluffy boiled rice or spaghetti and accompany with a salad of crisp greens and crusty French bread. Another clever way to use ground leftover ham is in a meat loaf. For a fine flavor combination serve the ham loaf with a bright red sauce made from canned whole cranberry sauce.



NOT actually, of course, for spaghetti now comes in enough twists and shapes to please everyone. Rather, this new twist is the addition of tangy Tabasco to the meat ball sauce, which picks up the flavor of this favorite fall dish.

Here's a simple recipe for one of the most popular and economical dinners in the land, and one that's especially timely during the next month. The secret of this dish is the seasoning, topped with Tabasco, the hot pepper sauce from down south, just as it will be for the French dressing to be mixed at the table and added to the tossed green salad which accompanies the spaghetti and meat ball main course. Wonderful way to entertain easily!

Spaghetti With Meat Balls

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, peeled and minced (optional)
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 8-ounce package spaghetti
Grated cheese (optional)

Sprinkle the beef with salt and pepper; form into small balls. Brown quickly on all sides in oil in skillet. Add onion and garlic when meat is almost brown. Add tomato sauce and Tabasco; cover and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Cook spaghetti according to directions on package. Turn onto platter and pile meat balls in center. If desired, serve with cheese. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Milk varies nutritionally and chemically with the breed of cow, its feed, and time of year, and other factors.

Serve "Smiling Waffle" For Halloween Party

Looking for an original idea for that Halloween party? Halloween entertaining can be fun, and it needn't take a lot of time nor money.

Here's a delightful whimsical idea that will make perfect party fare for either a children's supper or a late-evening snack for adults. The novelty is in the serving of the "Smiling Waffle."

As the name indicates, the "Smiling Waffle" has a face. To make it, simply place four Pork Sausage links in position on the ready-to-serve waffle to resemble eyebrows and mouth. Place two pats of butter for eyes with small crosswise slices of sausage for pupils. These can be sliced from ends of eyebrow sausage.

Bisquick Waffles

- 2 cups Bisquick
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 egg
- 2 tbsp. melted butter, vegetable shortening or salad oil

Beat well (batter will be lumpy). Waffle iron is just right then when a few drops of water sprinkled on it jump around before evaporating. Waffles are baked when they stop steaming. Makes 6 to 8 waffles.

To prepare link sausages, place in cold frying pan and fry slowly 12 to 15 minutes, pouring off fat and turning occasionally. Fry until well done, when no pink color remains. One pound of Armour Star sausage contains 16 links, which will make the feature for four "Smiling Waffles." Fresh and tasty sausages will add zest to this new way of serving waffles.

You may want to make some waffles ahead of time to prevent a last-minute rush. Waffles can be kept warm and crisp by placing directly on rack of a warm oven, leaving door slightly ajar. For appetizing, hot waffles, warm the plates in advance and heat the syrup to serve with the waffles. These "extra" touches add to eating enjoyment, plus making the syrup easier to pour. Syrup can be heated easily by setting opened bottle or pitcher into pan of water, then heating.

A simple menu suggestion featuring the "Smiling Waffle" would be to serve hot spiced tomato juice first, then the waffle and sausage combination, followed by a fruit salad plate as dessert, and beverage.

Leftover Ham Treat

Ham is such a popular item in family menus that leftover ham recipes always are in demand. Here's a good way to serve ham the second time so that it will taste entirely different. In a little fat, cook until soft 1 chopped onion and ½ green pepper, chopped. Add a No. 2½ can tomatoes, drained, and season with salt, pepper and tabasco sauce or chili powder to taste. Add 2 cups ground or finely chopped ham and simmer slowly for half an hour. Serve over fluffy boiled rice or spaghetti and accompany with a salad of crisp greens and crusty French bread. Another clever way to use ground leftover ham is in a meat loaf. For a fine flavor combination serve the ham loaf with a bright red sauce made from canned whole cranberry sauce.

Lamb Riblets Useful Dish

Start with lamb riblets, add a barbecue sauce and simmer slowly until tender, then serve over snowy white rice. Here's a wise choice for a cool weather meal, says home economist Reba Staggs.

For the homemaker who may not be acquainted with lamb riblets, Miss Staggs explains that they are prepared from a lamb breast. The meat dealer removes the breast bone and flank, then cuts between the ribs with the resulting meaty riblets.

In barbecuing the lamb it is first browned in drippings or lard to develop a rich brown color. The barbecue sauce provides the cooking liquid and is added when the riblets are browned on all sides. A spicy sauce well seasoned with vinegar and brown sugar is ideal. Braising time will be approximately 1½ hours. In serving, the lamb riblets may be arranged over boiled rice, topped with the barbecue sauce or the sauce may be served in a separate dish.

NOT actually, of course, for spaghetti now comes in enough twists and shapes to please everyone. Rather, this new twist is the addition of tangy Tabasco to the meat ball sauce, which picks up the flavor of this favorite fall dish.

Here's a simple recipe for one of the most popular and economical dinners in the land, and one that's especially timely during the next month. The secret of this dish is the seasoning, topped with Tabasco, the hot pepper sauce from down south, just as it will be for the French dressing to be mixed at the table and added to the tossed green salad which accompanies the spaghetti and meat ball main course. Wonderful way to entertain easily!

Spaghetti With Meat Balls

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, peeled and minced (optional)
- 2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- 1 8-ounce package spaghetti
- Grated cheese (optional)

Sprinkle the beef with salt and pepper; form into small balls. Brown quickly on all sides in oil in skillet. Add onion and garlic when meat is almost brown. Add tomato sauce and Tabasco; cover and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Cook spaghetti according to directions on package. Turn onto platter and pile meat balls in center. If desired, serve with cheese. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Milk varies nutritionally and chemically with the breed of cow, its feed, and time of year, and other factors.

Boys and girls of high school age know that they should eat a good breakfast. The figures from a nationwide survey among teen-agers tell us that. However, their record for good breakfast habits doesn't come up to par.

The reasons they give reveal several interesting and important facts about the food habits of this age group. As they grow older, their breakfast habits become worse. In fact, about one out of four of the older girls skips breakfast. This is twice as many as among younger girls. Almost half of the girls had no breakfast, or they ate foods that weren't adequate for a nutritious morning meal.

To get to the reasons for their actions, many teen-agers tell us that they do not have or do not take the time for a leisurely breakfast in the morning. Others say they're just not hungry in the morning. Yet about a third of them have some kind of a snack between breakfast time and noon. They consume sweets, such as candy, cake, or ice cream during the morning, and also cokes, sandwiches, and the like.

Such mid-morning snacks don't take the place of a good breakfast, however. When you get up in the morning, your "stove" is cold; the body needs some fuel to get started for the day. The only way to start the day right is with a good breakfast.

Plan to serve a cereal breakfast for one that's good for them, attractive, and easy to prepare. Today's menu is typical. The fruit course is a combination of fresh orange sections and grapes. Shredded wheat with milk is the breakfast main dish, one which is quick to prepare. Sweet rolls from the baker, butter, and hot chocolate complete a menu that would be hard to resist—even by fad-happy teen-agers.

Guessing Out Of Coffee Flavoring

Coffee flavoring is an old-time fancy.

Away back in grandma's day, coffee - flavored dishes turned out strong or weak, depending on how the coffee happened to be brewed. No one could be sure of the final flavor.

The modern homemaker is more exacting. She wants her cooking to be flavored right every time. So she does her seasoning with level measurements of 100 per cent pure instant coffee, to be sure the flavor is always the same. Because it is powdered, instant coffee is easy to add in accurate amounts. Just blend in the correctly measured coffee with the other dry ingredients.

Coffee flavoring supplies a fillip to today's shortcut cookery. Take cake mixes, for example. Add 100 per cent pure instant coffee to a package of white cake mix, and you have created a tasty coffee flavored cake. Do the same with a package of chocolate cake mix and get mocha cake. Everyone will be sure you started from scratch to turn out such specialties.

For a big crowd, bake both of these cakes in large square pans, cut them in half and arrange the halves in checkerboard style. It makes a pretty setting and handy service. Top the cakes with baked-on frosting, magically easy to make with sweetened condensed milk. As contrast, put the chocolate version on the coffee flavored cake and the light molasses - peppermint frosting on the mocha cake.

For Sunday supper, bring the waffle iron to the table and turn out coffee waffles while the guests watch. The same instant coffee, measured carefully, helps flavor waffles delightfully every time.

Instant coffee is used to flavor main dishes too. A new glaze, made of 100 per cent pure instant coffee, pineapple juice and maple syrup, is wonderful on ham. Use it on a single two-serving slice, or on a company size half ham.

Public health and economic costs of rabies in the United States amount to $12 million a year.

Halloween Family Style

It's a Hallowe'en dinner for the family centered with a sumptuous pork loin. The clever garnishes for the roast platter are sweet potato balls rolled in bran. Hollowed oranges with pumpkin faces are filled with fruit for the dinner salad.

Chocolate Chiffon Cake

The velvety texture of Chocolate Chiffon Refrigerator Cake is the reward that comes with knowing the simple, splendid techniques of gel-cookery. Using unflavored gelatine means you can plan on delicacy of texture and flavor in each dessert masterpiece. Here's how to make the fulffy no-bake refrigerator cake:

Chiffon Refrigerator Cake

12 lady fingers; 1 envelope of unflavored gelatine; ¼ cup cold water; 1 package semi-sweet chocolate; ½ cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; ½ cup milk; 3 eggs, separated; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 2-3 cup Icy cold evaporated milk.

Split lady fingers, cut off one end to stand upright and fit sides of 8-inch spring form pan. Soften gelatine in water. In top of double boiler put semi-sweet chocolate, ¼ cup of the sugar, salt and milk. Cook over hot water, stirring until blended. Beat egg yolks; add hot mixture slowly, stirring rapidly. Return to double boiler and cook over hot water stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat, add gelatine and vanilla, stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff, add gradually the remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold in chocolate mixture. Add lemon juice to milk and whip; fold in. Turn into pan. Chill until firm. Remove sides. To serve, unmold and top with whipped cream and semi-sweet chocolate. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Look For Less Known Pork Cuts

Present a tasty debut at your dinner table! If you're like many homemakers this will be possible as there are numerous cuts of meat that you have never introduced to your family.

According to meat cookery expert Reba Staggs, three pork cuts which are often overlooked by homemakers are: fresh picnic shoulder, smoked shoulder butt and pork hocks.

An attractive roast is in store for the homemaker when she purchases a fresh picnic shoulder. It may be boned and formed into a roll or it may be prepared as a cushion-style roast. (The shoulder boned, but left flat and sewed around all but one side which is left open for a flavorful fruit or bread stuffing.)

For a small family the smoked shoulder butt is ideal. This is the eye muscle of the fresh Boston butt which has been cured and smoked. It may be simmered in water to cover or roasted in a 300 degrees F. oven. Or the butt may be sliced for panbroiling.

Wedge shaped pork hocks are simply prepared by the braising method. After browning in lard or drippings they are seasoned with salt and pepper, a small amount of liquid added, the utensil covered and cooked until the meat is tender.

Grilled Luncheon

Use your boiler for this bacon grill. Arrange slices of bacon, rings of pinapple and cooked potato halves on the broiler rack. Dot the potatoes with butter or margarine and sprinkle with a bit of grated cheese. Broil at a moderate temperature until the bacon is done and pineapple and potatoes are heated through. Arrange on platter for serving with the bacon forming a border.

Ham, Apple Roll

Top a slice of ham with bright red apple bits. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon, then roll. Fasten the ham and cook in a slow oven. Baste occasionally with apple juice.

Milk is a valuable source of calcium and phosphorus, and also contains some iron. These are three of the most important minerals needed in the diet of human beings for health and growth.

Because it is powdered, instant coffee is easy to add in accurate amounts. Just blend in the correctly measured coffee with the other dry ingredients.

Coffee flavoring supplies a fillip to today's shortcut cookery. Take cake mixes, for example. Add 100 per cent pure instant coffee to a package of white cake mix, and you have created a tasty coffee flavored cake. Do the same with a package of chocolate cake mix and get mocha cake. Everyone will be sure you started from scratch to turn out such specialties.

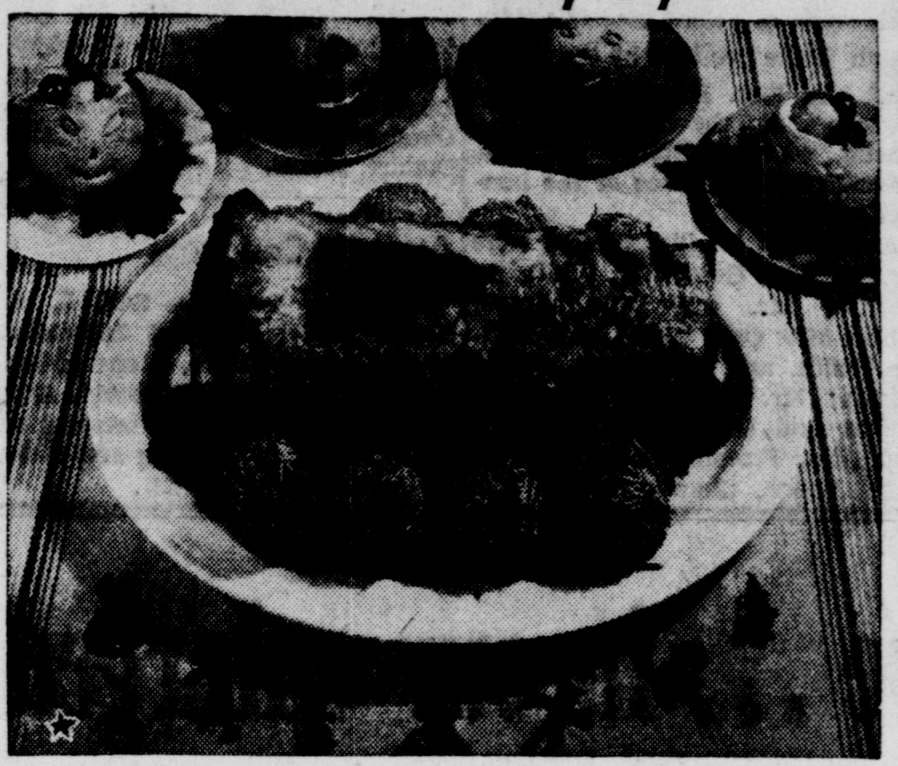
For a big crowd, bake both of these cakes in large square pans, cut them in half and arrange the halves in checkerboard style. It makes a pretty setting and handy service. Top the cakes with baked-on frosting, magically easy to make with sweetened condensed milk. As contrast, put the chocolate version on the coffee flavored cake and the light molasses - peppermint frosting on the mocha cake.

For Sunday supper, bring the waffle iron to the table and turn out coffee waffles while the guests watch. The same instant coffee, measured carefully, helps flavor waffles delightfully every time.

Instant coffee is used to flavor main dishes too. A new glaze, made of 100 per cent pure instant coffee, pineapple juice and maple syrup, is wonderful on ham. Use it on a single two-serving slice, or on a company size half ham.

Public health and economic costs of rabies in the United States amount to $12 million a year.

Halloween Family Style



It's a Hallowe'en dinner for the family centered with a sumptuous pork loin. The clever garnishes for the roast platter are sweet potato balls rolled in bran. Hollowed oranges with pumpkin faces are filled with fruit for the dinner salad.

Chocolate Chiffon Cake

The velvety texture of Chocolate Chiffon Refrigerator Cake is the reward that comes with knowing the simple, splendid techniques of gel-cookery. Using unflavored gelatine means you can plan on delicacy of texture and flavor in each dessert masterpiece. Here's how to make the fulffy no-bake refrigerator cake:

Chiffon Refrigerator Cake

12 lady fingers; 1 envelope of unflavored gelatine; ¼ cup cold water; 1 package semi-sweet chocolate; ½ cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; ½ cup milk; 3 eggs, separated; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 2-3 cup Icy cold evaporated milk.

Split lady fingers, cut off one end to stand upright and fit sides of 8-inch spring form pan. Soften gelatine in water. In top of double boiler put semi-sweet chocolate, ¼ cup of the sugar, salt and milk. Cook over hot water, stirring until blended. Beat egg yolks; add hot mixture slowly, stirring rapidly. Return to double boiler and cook over hot water stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat, add gelatine and vanilla, stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff, add gradually the remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold in chocolate mixture. Add lemon juice to milk and whip; fold in. Turn into pan. Chill until firm. Remove sides. To serve, unmold and top with whipped cream and semi-sweet chocolate. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Look For Less Known Pork Cuts

Present a tasty debut at your dinner table! If you're like many homemakers this will be possible as there are numerous cuts of meat that you have never introduced to your family.

According to meat cookery expert Reba Staggs, three pork cuts which are often overlooked by homemakers are: fresh picnic shoulder, smoked shoulder butt and pork hocks.

An attractive roast is in store for the homemaker when she purchases a fresh picnic shoulder. It may be boned and formed into a roll or it may be prepared as a cushion-style roast. (The shoulder boned, but left flat and sewed around all but one side which is left open for a flavorful fruit or bread stuffing.)

For a small family the smoked shoulder butt is ideal. This is the eye muscle of the fresh Boston butt which has been cured and smoked. It may be simmered in water to cover or roasted in a 300 degrees F. oven. Or the butt may be sliced for panbroiling.

Wedge shaped pork hocks are simply prepared by the braising method. After browning in lard or drippings they are seasoned with salt and pepper, a small amount of liquid added, the utensil covered and cooked until the meat is tender.

Grilled Luncheon

Use your boiler for this bacon grill. Arrange slices of bacon, rings of pinapple and cooked potato halves on the broiler rack. Dot the potatoes with butter or margarine and sprinkle with a bit of grated cheese. Broil at a moderate temperature until the bacon is done and pineapple and potatoes are heated through. Arrange on platter for serving with the bacon forming a border.

Ham, Apple Roll

Top a slice of ham with bright red apple bits. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon, then roll. Fasten the ham and cook in a slow oven. Baste occasionally with apple juice.

Milk is a valuable source of calcium and phosphorus, and also contains some iron. These are three of the most important minerals needed in the diet of human beings for health and growth.

New Headache Is In Store For Housewives January 1

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK—(AP)—That big national headache of March 15 will have nothing on the pain in the neck that's going to hit American housewives come January 1, 1951.

Uncle Sam now is getting his plans jelled for payment of the Social Security tax for domestics, which goes into effect on New Year's Day. Those women who have been putting off that session with the ledger and the adding machine may as well get set.

As has been announced, everybody who employes domestic help for as much as 24 days in a three-month period, or who pays as much as $50 salary during that same period, must start sending social security payments. The tax is three per cent of the salary, half to be paid by the employer, half by the maid (or cook or butler or baby sitter).

Within the next few weeks the government will get out circulars explaining the details of the new law, together with postcards addressed to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Anyone employing domestic help is instructed to mail one of the postcards requesting forms for reporting and payment of the social security tax. From the postcards, the government will compile a mailing list, thus avoiding a house-to-house canvass to find out who hires a maid.

It is pointed out that just because you do not automatically receive a blank in the mail, you are not excused from the payments. Each housewife-employer is required to mail the postcard requesting the forms, or to call up her local internal revenue office.

The form itself will be an envelope of the type used by some insurance companies, of a size between that of a large business envelope and a small personal one. On it will be space for four entries: The name of the maid, her social security number, the amount paid her in a three-month period and the amount of the tax, or three per cent. Then you enclose your check, fold up the paper to form an envelope, put a three-cent stamp on it and mail it to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

An additional headache for the householder is the fact that already many employment agencies are suggesting that it will be simpler and pleasanter for all concerned if the housewife simply pays the entire tax from her own pocket. With the scarcity of domestics, this probably will be the case in many instances.

The forms seem simple as possible, but still they are going to be tough on the girls whose financial troubles up to now have been bad enough just keeping a checkbook straight.

Modern house plans would do well to include a special padded den for the lady of the house, equipped with adding machine, calculators and smelling salts.

Bulk Of Raskob Estate Is Left To Foundation

CENTREVILLE, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—John J. Raskob, one-time vice president of General Motors, left the bulk of his estimated $5,000,000 estate to the Raskob Foundation for Catholic Charities, it was disclosed yesterday.

His will, probated in Queen Anne County Orphans Court, did not disclose the exact amount that the foundation will get.

Raskob, once chairman of the Democratic National Committee, died at his country estate near Centreville Oct. 15 at the age of 71.

New Headache Is In Store For Housewives January 1

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK—(AP)—That big national headache of March 15 will have nothing on the pain in the neck that's going to hit American housewives come January 1, 1951.

Uncle Sam now is getting his plans jelled for payment of the Social Security tax for domestics, which goes into effect on New Year's Day. Those women who have been putting off that session with the ledger and the adding machine may as well get set.

As has been announced, everybody who employes domestic help for as much as 24 days in a three-month period, or who pays as much as $50 salary during that same period, must start sending social security payments. The tax is three per cent of the salary, half to be paid by the employer, half by the maid (or cook or butler or baby sitter).

Within the next few weeks the government will get out circulars explaining the details of the new law, together with postcards addressed to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Anyone employing domestic help is instructed to mail one of the postcards requesting forms for reporting and payment of the social security tax. From the postcards, the government will compile a mailing list, thus avoiding a house-to-house canvass to find out who hires a maid.

It is pointed out that just because you do not automatically receive a blank in the mail, you are not excused from the payments. Each housewife-employer is required to mail the postcard requesting the forms, or to call up her local internal revenue office.

The form itself will be an envelope of the type used by some insurance companies, of a size between that of a large business envelope and a small personal one. On it will be space for four entries: The name of the maid, her social security number, the amount paid her in a three-month period and the amount of the tax, or three per cent. Then you enclose your check, fold up the paper to form an envelope, put a three-cent stamp on it and mail it to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

An additional headache for the householder is the fact that already many employment agencies are suggesting that it will be simpler and pleasanter for all concerned if the housewife simply pays the entire tax from her own pocket. With the scarcity of domestics, this probably will be the case in many instances.

The forms seem simple as possible, but still they are going to be tough on the girls whose financial troubles up to now have been bad enough just keeping a checkbook straight.

McAvoy Found Guilty Of Petty Larceny

William C. McAvoy, 32, of Keyser, W. Va., was found guilty of petty larceny in Mineral County Circuit Court Wednesday by a jury which deliberated more than three hours.

He was charged with the theft of about 100 pounds of wool. On a similar charge the day before, a jury had acquitted him. Two other indictments against McAvoy are continued.

Carl Lee Baer, 24, Westernport, and Alva H. Mayhew, 20, Keyser, also indicted in the same cases and who entered pleas of guilty, were witnesses in the case. McAvoy was not sentenced, but the other two men are under sentences of from one to ten years each. H. G. Shores and H. R. Athey are attorneys for McAvoy.

In a second jury case in Keyser Wednesday, Mrs. Edith Wilcox, formerly of Cumberland, obtained a judgment against her former husband, Thomas W. Glass, for $985. The case involved non-payment of alimony and support of their children, court attaches said. She was represented by H. G. Shores and H. T. Shores.

Red Cross Begins Gift Program

The local chapter of the American Red Cross is participating in an extensive national "Christmas on the High Seas" program for the purpose of giving each serviceman on transports embarking from the United States a Christmas gift package, according to Mrs. Lee Witherup, of the local chapter.

This is the first opportunity during the Korean war in which the public may participate, Mrs. Witherup said, and the goal of the local chapter is 100 gift packages, each being valued at approximately $2.50

Organizations of all kinds and individuals wishing to make contributions of either commodities or money should contact Mrs. Witherup at the Red Cross office in the Post Office Building or by telephone (4181) not later than October 31.

Mrs. Witherup gave some suggestions as to what the boxes may contain: a greeting card, pencils, books, wallet, toothbrush, tobacco, stationery, soap, handkerchiefs, comb, and others. No written messages other than the name and address of the donor on the greeting card should be included. The latter is an Army regulation.

If, because of changing world conditions, the need for gifts for servicemen on the high seas should diminish by Christmas, they will be distributed to patients in military hospitals in this country, Mrs. Witherup related.

Veterans organizations are expected to cooperate 100 per cent, she added.

Shooting Case Probe Continues

Authorities said yesterday that investigation is continuing in the shooting of a 28-year-old World War II veteran, reported in satisfactory condition last night at Allegany Hospital after suffering a shotgun wound in the chest early yesterday morning.

The victim, James Flanagan, 223 Avirett Avenue, at first blamed his injury on Robert Stockman, about 42, of 137 North Mechanic Street.

Later, according to authorities, Flanagan said he did not know how the shooting occurred in the kitchen of his home.

The State's Attorney's office, after questioning Stockman, said no charge had been placed against him and no hearing was planned pending the outcome of Flanagan's injuries.

Lt. James E. Van, who investigated with Officer Leo E. P. Law, said Flanagan was shot at close range with a .22 caliber rifle. Powder burns were found on his shirt at the hospital, where Stockman was taken into custody for questioning.

Stockman, police said, had been with Flanagan while the latter was shooting at targets on the kitchen floor. The prisoner said he started to leave for home and later heard a shot.

According to Stockman, he reentered the house and found that Flanagan had been shot. He called a taxi immediately and took the wounded man to the hospital.

Investigation showed the bullet entered Flanagan's chest and emerged near the left shoulder blade. Hospital attaches notified police.

Stockman was questioned later this morning in the State's Attorneys' office and returned to jail while authorities continued the investigation.

Divorce Cited In Shooting Case

Details leading up to divorce action filed by Mrs. Viola Derrell, 38, Washington, who was shot twice Monday by her estranged husband, Charles E. Derrell, 66, were revealed Wednesday in files of District Court, Washington.

Mrs. Derrell filed a suit for a limited divorce from her husband July 24 on the ground of cruelty. In her complaint she described how their 15-year marriage exploded into hate August 8, 1949.

During the year previous to that day, she said, her husband had become an alcoholic, more and more abusive toward her and had threatened her with bodily harm on numerous occasions.

On that day, there was such a fight that police were called to the Derrell home at 2550 14th Street, NW, and stayed to protect Mrs. Derrell while she packed her clothes and left her husband.

She returned after two days and it started all over again, according to her complaint.

In her suit for divorce, she also asked the court to enjoin her husband from threatening and molesting her.

Monday afternoon, Derrell returned to his wife for the last time. He shot her once in the back and once under the left eye. Then he fatally shot himself.

Mrs. Derrell remained on the critical list yesterday at Emergency Hospital, Washington, but her condition is "fair."

Work Has Begun On Sideling Hill 80-Foot Bridge

Steel Girders Have Been Put In Place

The work on the new bridge across Sideling Hill Creek in connection with the relocation of U. S. Route 40 has been started, according to G. Bates Chaires, district State Roads Commission engineer.

Chaires said the new bridge will have three spans and be about 80 feet in length. The structure will be of steel girders and have a concrete deck.

The bridge will be about 25 to 30 feet above the waters of the stream and completely out of any future flooding danger. The old bridge has been inundated on several occasions when the waters of the creek flooded, Chaires said.

The old bridge will be left intact for the present, Chaires said.

The seven-mile long relocation job is not expected to be completed until some time next year and upon its finish will provide a route across Sideling Hill Mountain without the grades and sharp curves of the present roadway.

Cost of the project is well above two million dollars.

Main construction work underway on the project besides the bridge is the cutting through solid rock in several places almost to a depth of 100 feet, Chaires said.

There are also several road projects underway in Garrett county and work on two county-sponsored jobs is expected to start soon. They are the Lower Town Creek and Mill Run roads.

Kelly Plant To Have 5-Day Week

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company is going back on a five-day work week because of the cutback in the use of natural rubber by tire and rubber companies.

This was reported yesterday by Edmund S. Burke, president, of the plant here, who said the change will become effective Monday.

The plant has been on a six-day work week since spring, Burke said.

The government on October 20 ordered a 25 per cent cut in the use of natural rubber on November 1.

The reduction limits use to 75 per cent of the average monthly consumption of natural rubber in the 12-month period preceding last June 30.

The cutback in rubber and the work week may not have an effect on the number employed at the local plant.

Burke stated: "We hope we can hold the number at its present level, but we cannot predict for the future."

The plant has ample orders, Burke said. The demand, he added, has eased off somewhat with the end of the scare buying period.

One rubber company announced an increase in prices Wednesday. When asked about Kelly's price plans, Burke said the firm has not determined its trend.

However, the status of the plant may change. The National Production Authority, which issued the regulation on the cutback, provides for a deeper cut, to 63 per cent of the 12-month period ending June 30, in December.

Just how this will effect the plant here has not been determined. To supplement the decrease in natural rubber there will be an increase in the use of synthetic rubber.

NEW YORK (INS)—

SIDEGLANCES. . .

President Truman, who is a bourbon and branch-water man when he gets around to a sociable drink, sipped his champagne at the U.N. party, made a face like a man who has just bitten into a green apple, and whispered to a friend that it reminded him of something unprintable.

Then he looked across the crowded room and saw Andrei Vishinsky, the more or less violent Russian spokesman who, 24 hours before, had likened the man from Missouri to Hitler. The President (who had just made a speech challenging Russia to agree to a fool-proof disarmament program) stepped over to Vish.

"What are you going to say about our warmongering now?" he asked the Russian, without rancor.

Vishinsky seemed stumped, for this party had followed too quickly on the heels of the President's speech for the Russian to have contacted Moscow for instructions. Then he said:

"I'll come to that later."

The Russians at U.N. have been acting so strangely lately that they seem almost human. Vishinsky, for instance, attended Trygve Lie's party at the latter's home in Forest Hills, even though Russia recently has been trying to kick the man out of his job as secretary general, and even though Chiang Kai-Shek's representative was also in attendance.

Whether by coincidence or design, Trygve had ordered a Russian-style dinner for his dozen or so guests, leading off with caviar and vodka. He had provided a three-piece ensemble to provide a musical background and the trio went over so well that the host, and the President and Josef Stalin's spokesman made specific requests for special numbers.

The requests of these representatives of the world's two leading powers, and the organization that hopes to bring them together, may be revealing:

Vishinsky asked for "Meadowland," the stirring Russian cavalry march.

Lie, who apparently has come to like his job, asked for "Sidewalks of New York.

Truman, the great white father, grinned and requested "I Love You Truly."

Al Jolson did so many things right in his life that it was fitting and proper for him to die right. He left them with the cheers still sounding, for his courageous trip to Korea. And about the last thing he said got a laugh from a tough audience — the doctors who were trying to keep his ticker going. Al told them he had outscored Truman, because Al had two hours alone with Gen. MacArthur and Truman got only one.

I talked to Al a few times before he left for Korea. He wanted to know what to take along with him; who to see when he got to Tokyo, and a hundred other questions phrased with the enthusiasm and excitement of a schoolboy making his first excursion.

Al was really something. The nation will never forget him.

In Hollywood, Jimmy Durante was one star who obdurately refused to allow any ghost writer to hack out his "autobiography." "Everybody knows what I does to the English language," he explained to Maurice Zolotow. "When I goes to woik on an infinitive, brother, I don't just split it. I breaks it up in little pieces."

A worried merchant sought the aid of a psychiatrist, explaining, "You've got to help me! All day long I want to eat grapes." "So what?" scoffed the analyst. "Everybody eats grapes." The merchant gasped, "What? Off the wallpaper?"

To the doctor in residence at a summer hotel came a boarder suffering from severe fright. "I saw a big snake on the ground, but it turned out to be a stick," he reported. "So why are you still frightened?" asked the doctor. "You didn't let me finish my story," reproached the boarder. "The stick I pick up to hit him with turned out to be a snake."

Work Has Begun On Sideling Hill 80-Foot Bridge

Steel Girders Have Been Put In Place

The work on the new bridge across Sideling Hill Creek in connection with the relocation of U. S. Route 40 has been started, according to G. Bates Chaires, district State Roads Commission engineer.

Chaires said the new bridge will have three spans and be about 80 feet in length. The structure will be of steel girders and have a concrete deck.

The bridge will be about 25 to 30 feet above the waters of the stream and completely out of any future flooding danger. The old bridge has been inundated on several occasions when the waters of the creek flooded, Chaires said.

The old bridge will be left intact for the present, Chaires said.

The seven-mile long relocation job is not expected to be completed until some time next year and upon its finish will provide a route across Sideling Hill Mountain without the grades and sharp curves of the present roadway.

Cost of the project is well above two million dollars.

Main construction work underway on the project besides the bridge is the cutting through solid rock in several places almost to a depth of 100 feet, Chaires said.

There are also several road projects underway in Garrett county and work on two county-sponsored jobs is expected to start soon. They are the Lower Town Creek and Mill Run roads.

Kelly Plant To Have 5-Day Week

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company is going back on a five-day work week because of the cutback in the use of natural rubber by tire and rubber companies.

This was reported yesterday by Edmund S. Burke, president, of the plant here, who said the change will become effective Monday.

The plant has been on a six-day work week since spring, Burke said.

The government on October 20 ordered a 25 per cent cut in the use of natural rubber on November 1.

The reduction limits use to 75 per cent of the average monthly consumption of natural rubber in the 12-month period preceding last June 30.

The cutback in rubber and the work week may not have an effect on the number employed at the local plant.

Burke stated: "We hope we can hold the number at its present level, but we cannot predict for the future."

The plant has ample orders, Burke said. The demand, he added, has eased off somewhat with the end of the scare buying period.

One rubber company announced an increase in prices Wednesday. When asked about Kelly's price plans, Burke said the firm has not determined its trend.

However, the status of the plant may change. The National Production Authority, which issued the regulation on the cutback, provides for a deeper cut, to 63 per cent of the 12-month period ending June 30, in December.

Just how this will effect the plant here has not been determined. To supplement the decrease in natural rubber there will be an increase in the use of synthetic rubber.

Several Court Cases Reset

KEYSER, W. Va. — Due to the length of time required to finish the criminal docket in Mineral County Circuit Court this term, several civil actions have been reset for hearings at later dates.

The civil docket was set to open on Tuesday morning but as the criminal docket continued through Wednesday, changes were necessary.

Docketed for hearing on Tuesday were the cases of Ruth I. Oates against the Northwestern National Insurance Company and against The Continental Insurance Company, asking for payment of moneys on insurance said to have been carried by the plaintiff, but which were not paid after fire had destroyed the plaintiff's property.

Approximately 25 to 30 witnesses are expected to be heard, among them several experts on arson investigation work. This case was reset for trial on Thursday, November 2.

The case of Edith Wilcox vs. Thomas W. Glass will also be rescheduled.

The United States relaxed immigration rules in 1949 to admit more than 700 Basques to fill out the diminishing ranks of sheepherders in the country.

Public Halloween Party Planned

Several Court Cases Reset

KEYSER, W. Va. — Due to the length of time required to finish the criminal docket in Mineral County Circuit Court this term, several civil actions have been reset for hearings at later dates.

The civil docket was set to open on Tuesday morning but as the criminal docket continued through Wednesday, changes were necessary.

Docketed for hearing on Tuesday were the cases of Ruth I. Oates against the Northwestern National Insurance Company and against The Continental Insurance Company, asking for payment of moneys on insurance said to have been carried by the plaintiff, but which were not paid after fire had destroyed the plaintiff's property.

Approximately 25 to 30 witnesses are expected to be heard, among them several experts on arson investigation work. This case was reset for trial on Thursday, November 2.

The case of Edith Wilcox vs. Thomas W. Glass will also be rescheduled.

The United States relaxed immigration rules in 1949 to admit more than 700 Basques to fill out the diminishing ranks of sheepherders in the country.

Public Halloween Party Planned

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church will hold a public Halloween party in the recreation hall of the Church Monday, October 30, beginning at 7 p. m.

Alton R. Fortney, Luke, will be in charge of the recreation and refreshments will be sold. No admission will be charged.

Keyser VFW Will Sponsor Drive For Honor Roll

Memorial Will Be Installed In Park

KEYSER, W. Va.—Nancy Hanks Post No. 3518, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Keyser, is sponsoring a drive to raise funds for purchasing and installing a Memorial Honor Roll in the small city park at the approach to the Keyser-McCoole Bridge.

Members of the post have placed small jars in a number of business places in the city so citizens may contribute and a group of girls will call on citizens to aid in the work.

The honor roll will include the names of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War I and II and the present war in Korea.

The honor roll will match plaques that will be placed at the north end of the bridge by Queen's Point Post No. 6771, V. F. W., McCoole, and the south end by Nancy Hanks Post, as identification insigna on the bridge.

The plaques and honor roll, each in bronze will be permanent fixtures, the roll to be placed on a stone base in the park and the other markings attached to the bridge.

Keyser is without an honor roll honoring those who gave so much for their country in the recent wars. Those sponsoring these activities plan to have the plaques and honor roll ready for installation before the new bridge is formally opened early next year.

Rat Control Campaign Will Be Held In Mineral County

Extension Service Names "R" Day

KEYSER, W. Va.—A rat control campaign will open in Mineral County on "R" Day, Wednesday November 15. The campaign is planned by the Agriculture Extension Service of West Virginia University, with the cooperation of other federal and state agencies and various organizations, according to J. E. Prettyman, Mineral County Farm Agent.

In urging cooperation in the campaign, Prettyman stressed the following:

Clean up the premises! Rats will not thrive on empty stomachs.

Destroy places where rats hide. Drive them from their homes.

Poisoning.

The recommended procedure for exterminating rats:

Three nights before using poisoned baits, distribute some unpoisoned baits about the premises. Use such things as ground meat, canned dog food, canned fish, rolled oats or chicken mash. This procedure will help to determine what the rats will eat and where they are feeding. All baits should be placed in sheltered places.

Three days following the prebaiting, mix either fortified red squill or antu with baits which the rats accepted and place this poisoned bait about the premises at sundown. All uneaten bait should be taken up the following morning. Do not attempt to use the poison baits when freezing weather is predicted.

Follow-up activities should include trapping and rat proofing all buildings.

College Football Attendance Dips

Pacific Coast, East Show Biggest Slumps

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—College football attendance has dipped sharply in the east and far west where there are plenty of telecasts and television sets.

Throughout the nation, crowds are down about 2 per cent from last year. But the east is off eight per cent and the Pacific Coast has slumped 11 per cent.

Turnouts in the South and Southwest where T. V. poses no great problem as yet, have jumped sharply. The Southwest Conference, which boasts the nation's No. 1 team in Southern Methodist, has hiked its attendance 21 per cent thus far. The south is up 7 per cent.

In the midwest, where the Big Ten has banned live telecasts except for theater showings, attendance has dropped one per cent. Notre Dame, however, telecasts its home games over the Dumont network.

The percentages are based on an Associated Press survey of 105 schools which have played 262 games to date.

For these colleges, the average crowd hit around 22,867 for this year as compared to 23,275 last season. A similar mid-season check last year showed a 4 per cent increase.

Several schools put the finger on T. V. as responsible for the smaller crowds this year.

"Television is hurting," said Luther Poling, Marshall's athletic director. "It's hard to sell something that somebody else is giving away."

Gussy Takes Beating In Pro Tennis Debut

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Georgeous Gussy Moran, wearing a gleaming gold stripe instead of lace on her panties, made her heralded professional tennis debut in Madison Square Garden tonight—but it was a quick and inauspicious one.

Mrs. Pauline Betz Addie, four-time national amateur champion, brushed the Santa Monica, Calif., glamor girl aside, 6-0, 6-3, before a mass of empty seats. It took 33 minutes.

"SCOOTER" EARNS AWARD—Phil Rizzuto (above), brilliant little New York Yankee shortstop, today won the 1950 Most Valuable Player award in the American League by a landslide vote. The "Scooter" received 16 of the 23 first place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association.

Rizzuto Is Most Valuable American League Player

Yankees' Shortstop Given 284 Points, Goodman Is Second

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Little Phil Rizzuto, brilliant New York Yankee shortstop, today won the 1950 most valuable player award in the American League by a landslide.

The Scooter capped his best season by receiving 16 of 23 first place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers Association.

Boston's Billy Goodman, batting champion with a .354 average, polled four first place ballots. The other three went to Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher.

They finished in that order—Rizzuto, Goodman and Berra—in the point tabulation with Rizzuto on top by 104 points. Ted Williams of Boston, most valuable a year ago but sidelined by injuries for half the season, finished way down the list.

Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee Clipper and a three-time winner, was ninth.

Back of Rizzuto, Goodman and Berra came Detroit's George Kell, the all-star third baseman, followed by Cleveland's Bob Lemon, a 23-game winner.

Dropo Is Sixth

Walt Dropo, Boston's powerful first base rookie, took sixth place. Then came Vic Raschi, Yankee pitching ace with a 21-8 record, Cleveland's Larry Doby, Joe DiMaggio and Vic Wertz, Detroit's slugging right fielder.

It was Rizzuto's first "most valuable" success, following a season he long will remember as his best in the major leagues. Always an outstanding shortstop and fine bunter, Phil came through with a .324 batting average that included 50 extra base hits.

The 5-foot-6 Rizzuto collected 200 hits, including 36 doubles, seven triples and seven home runs.

The most valuable award, following his first All-Star game in July, caps a fine comeback by Little Phil. After the 1948 season when he hit only .252 and had a sore arm, they thought Rizzuto was on his last legs as a big leaguer. He came back to hit .276 in 1949, when he was runner-up to Williams in the MVP voting.

Had Remarkable Season

Goodman, a jack-of-all-trades for the Red Sox, had a remarkable season. He started at first base until injured. When he was able to return, rookie Dropo had the job sewed up. So he played second base for Bobby Doerr, shortstop for Vern Stephens and wound up at third for Johnny Pesky. His best hitting came from July to September when he filled in for Williams in left field.

Lemon led all the pitchers in the majors with 23 wins, losing 11. He was the strikeout king with 175, worked most innings, 288; and tied with St. Louis' Ned Garver with 22 complete games.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, voted the outstanding woman athlete of the past 50 years in the Associated Press Mid-Century Poll, continues to pile up honors.

The Babe has been named the outstanding woman golfer of 1950, it was announced by Fred Cocoran editor of "The Official Golf Guide," and at a press reception today she was presented this first annual ward by Alvin Handmacher, sponsor of the Weathervane Tournament.

She set a record with her score of 298 in winning the titleholder's tournament at the Augusta Country Club for her first major victory of the year, and followed this triumph by leading the field in the 144-hole cross-country Weathervane Tournament.

Rickey Resigns, O'Malley Named Brooklyn Prexy

Branch May Join Bucs Or St. Louis Browns

By PAT ROBINSON
(INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (INS) — Branch Rickey resigned today as president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers but indicated his desire to remain in baseball.

Rickey, who sold his 25 per cent interest in the Dodgers for $1,050,000 earlier this week, said he has "nothing definite" in mind. He will talk to John W. Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Bill De Witt, president of the St. Louis Browns, within ten days.

Walter O'Malley, co-purchaser of Rickey's Dodger stock, succeeded to the Brooklyn presidency. O'Malley said no general manager will be selected until next week or later.

Sought By Two Clubs

Rickey, one of the outstanding organizational and promotional wizards of baseball, reportedly has been sought by both the Pirates and the Browns in a trouble-shooting capacity. Galbreath undoubtedly could make Rickey a more attractive proposition financially.

However, the 69-year-old Rickey has a fatherly interest in De Witt, a former protege, and in St. Louis, where he spent most of his baseball career before moving to Brooklyn eight years ago.

Rickey said:

"Billy's my boy. If he wants me, I'd like to go with him."

Asked if his Dodger stock sale would prevent him from accepting another baseball job, Rickey answered:

"Definitely no."

Rickey stated, however, that he has several non-baseball projects in mind. He mentioned a desire to write a newspaper column or conduct a radio or television program.

Shotton Expected To Go

The departure of Rickey from Brooklyn makes it likely that a new manager will be named to succeed 66-year-old Burt Shotton. Any action in that direction probably will await the appointment of a general manager.

Rickey broke into baseball as a catcher after leaving Ohio Wesleyan University. He served as field manager of the St. Louis Cardinals from 1919 to 1925, when he became general manager. He was credited with many revolutionary baseball ideas, including the origination of farm system baseball.

Sugar Robinson KOs Bobo Olsen In 12th Round

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (INS)—Sugar Ray Robinson defended his Pennsylvania version of the world middleweight championship tonight by knocking out Carl (Bobo) Olsen of Honolulu in the 12th round before 5,034 paid spectators in Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

The kayo came on a vicious overhand right to the side of Olsen's head after one minute and 19 seconds of the 12th. Sugar Ray had won every round except the 11th in a slow, one-sided bout.

The 11th was taken from Robinson because of low blows.

Robinson weighed 158 to Olsen's 159.

Gross gate receipts were $23,350, and the net $16,912.

Trainer Fined $100 For Failure To Report Abstract On Vets' List

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—Trainer Jerry McNally was fined $100 today for failing to inform Laurel track stewards that Abstract is on the veterinarian's list in New Jersey.

Earlier this week the jockey who rode Abstract to victory in the $15,000 Washington Handicap here last Saturday, automatically winning an invitation to the Pimlico Special Nov. 3, was suspended for ten days on two charges of rough riding.

The jockey, Edward Campbell, thus was denied a chance to ride Abstract in the $15,000 winner-take-all Special, if the L. J. Shaw horse is not barred from the race in view of today's action.

Trainer McNally was fined under a Maryland Racing Commission rule that stewards must be notified of horses on barred lists in other states.

Dr. F. M. Keller, veterinarian representing the commission, said he believes Abstract is a victim of periodic opthalmia, an eye-disease known more commonly as moon-blindness.

If Abstract's sight is found to be impaired the day of the Pimlico Special, the veternarian would order him withdrawn from the race.

Graziano Faces Janiro Tonight

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Boxing returns to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night and the promoters have called on their golden boy, Rocky Graziano, to get them off on the right foot.

The Rock from New York's east side takes on handsome Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., in a return ten rounder that should draw around 14,000 customers to the big arena. Top price is $12 and the International Boxing Club hopes to gross close to the $81,049 the boys attracted the last time on March 31.

In that one, blond Tony spurted in the last round to gain a draw with the former middleweight king.

Janiro was a 12 to 5 long shot then and the betting boys don't rate him much higher this time. Rocky is the 1 to 2 choice to keep his win streak alive.

The 10 p.m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Abrams Is Praised By Generals' Coach

Wes Abrams, former Allegany High School gridder, is going to be a great running back and one of Washington and Lee University's best ones.

That's the prediction made by Carl Wise, backfield coach of the Generals, in a letter to J. Goodloe Jackson, 610 Shriver Avenue member of the W. & L. Alumni Association.

Only experience which Abrams is getting stands between him and the top now — a very fine boy to coach and a very popular boy on the squad and campus, Wise concluded.

Abrams started the Davidson game at left halfback Saturday. He scored one touchdown after taking a pitch-out and running 45 yards. Wes had another 40 yard run to his credit, caught a pass for 38 yards and returned a kickoff 30 yards.

W. & L. plays Tennessee tomorrow and meets V.P.I. November 4 in the annual homecoming game.

College Football Attendance Dips

Pacific Coast, East Show Biggest Slumps

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—College football attendance has dipped sharply in the east and far west where there are plenty of telecasts and television sets.

Throughout the nation, crowds are down about 2 per cent from last year. But the east is off eight per cent and the Pacific Coast has slumped 11 per cent.

Turnouts in the South and Southwest where T. V. poses no great problem as yet, have jumped sharply. The Southwest Conference, which boasts the nation's No. 1 team in Southern Methodist, has hiked its attendance 21 per cent thus far. The south is up 7 per cent.

In the midwest, where the Big Ten has banned live telecasts except for theater showings, attendance has dropped one per cent. Notre Dame, however, telecasts its home games over the Dumont network.

The percentages are based on an Associated Press survey of 105 schools which have played 262 games to date.

For these colleges, the average crowd hit around 22,867 for this year as compared to 23,275 last season. A similar mid-season check last year showed a 4 per cent increase.

Several schools put the finger on T. V. as responsible for the smaller crowds this year.

"Television is hurting," said Luther Poling, Marshall's athletic director. "It's hard to sell something that somebody else is giving away."

"SCOOTER" EARNS AWARD—Phil Rizzuto (above), brilliant little New York Yankee shortstop, today won the 1950 Most Valuable Player award in the American League by a landslide vote. The "Scooter" received 16 of the 23 first place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association.

Rizzuto Is Most Valuable American League Player

Yankees' Shortstop Given 284 Points, Goodman Is Second

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Little Phil Rizzuto, brilliant New York Yankee shortstop, today won the 1950 most valuable player award in the American League by a landslide.

The Scooter capped his best season by receiving 16 of 23 first place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers Association.

Boston's Billy Goodman, batting champion with a .354 average, polled four first place ballots. The other three went to Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher.

They finished in that order—Rizzuto, Goodman and Berra—in the point tabulation with Rizzuto on top by 104 points. Ted Williams of Boston, most valuable a year ago but sidelined by injuries for half the season, finished way down the list.

Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee Clipper and a three-time winner, was ninth.

Back of Rizzuto, Goodman and Berra came Detroit's George Kell, the all-star third baseman, followed by Cleveland's Bob Lemon, a 23-game winner.

Dropo Is Sixth

Walt Dropo, Boston's powerful first base rookie, took sixth place. Then came Vic Raschi, Yankee pitching ace with a 21-8 record, Cleveland's Larry Doby, Joe DiMaggio and Vic Wertz, Detroit's slugging right fielder.

It was Rizzuto's first "most valuable" success, following a season he long will remember as his best in the major leagues. Always an outstanding shortstop and fine bunter, Phil came through with a .324 batting average that included 50 extra base hits.

The 5-foot-6 Rizzuto collected 200 hits, including 36 doubles, seven triples and seven home runs.

The most valuable award, following his first All-Star game in July, caps a fine comeback by Little Phil. After the 1948 season when he hit only .252 and had a sore arm, they thought Rizzuto was on his last legs as a big leaguer. He came back to hit .276 in 1949, when he was runner-up to Williams in the MVP voting.

Had Remarkable Season

Goodman, a jack-of-all-trades for the Red Sox, had a remarkable season. He started at first base until injured. When he was able to return, rookie Dropo had the job sewed up. So he played second base for Bobby Doerr, shortstop for Vern Stephens and wound up at third for Johnny Pesky. His best hitting came from July to September when he filled in for Williams in left field.

Lemon led all the pitchers in the majors with 23 wins, losing 11. He was the strikeout king with 175, worked most innings, 288; and tied with St. Louis' Ned Garver with 22 complete games.

Babe Zaharias Voted Top Golfer Of Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, voted the outstanding woman athlete of the past 50 years in the Associated Press Mid-Century Poll, continues to pile up honors.

The Babe has been named the outstanding woman golfer of 1950, it was announced by Fred Cocoran editor of "The Official Golf Guide," and at a press reception today she was presented this first annual ward by Alvin Handmacher, sponsor of the Weathervane Tournament.

The famed all-around athlete this year enjoyed her most successful season since turning pro in 1947, shortly after she won the British championship.

She set a record with her score of 298 in winning the titleholder's tournament at the Augusta Country Club for her first major victory of the year, and followed this triumph by leading the field in the 144-hole cross-country Weathervane Tournament.

K. Of C. And McIntyre's Sweep All-Star Games

The Knights of Columbus retained first place in the All-Star Bowling League this week by sweeping three games from the faltering Club Recreation squad.

Rickey Resigns, O'Malley Named Brooklyn Prexy

Branch May Join Bucs Or St. Louis Browns

By PAT ROBINSON
(INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (INS) — Branch Rickey resigned today as president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers but indicated his desire to remain in baseball.

Rickey, who sold his 25 per cent interest in the Dodgers for $1,050,000 earlier this week, said he has "nothing definite" in mind. He will talk to John W. Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Bill De Witt, president of the St. Louis Browns, within ten days.

Walter O'Malley, co-purchaser of Rickey's Dodger stock, succeeded to the Brooklyn presidency. O'Malley said no general manager will be selected until next week or later.

Sought By Two Clubs

Rickey, one of the outstanding organizational and promotional wizards of baseball, reportedly has been sought by both the Pirates and the Browns in a trouble-shooting capacity. Galbreath undoubtedly could make Rickey a more attractive proposition financially.

However, the 69-year-old Rickey has a fatherly interest in De Witt, a former protege, and in St. Louis, where he spent most of his baseball career before moving to Brooklyn eight years ago.

Rickey said:

"Billy's my boy. If he wants me, I'd like to go with him."

Asked if his Dodger stock sale would prevent him from accepting another baseball job, Rickey answered:

"Definitely no."

Rickey stated, however, that he has several non-baseball projects in mind. He mentioned a desire to write a newspaper column or conduct a radio or television program.

Shotton Expected To Go

The departure of Rickey from Brooklyn makes it likely that a new manager will be named to succeed 66-year-old Burt Shotton. Any action in that direction probably will await the appointment of a general manager.

Rickey broke into baseball as a catcher after leaving Ohio Wesleyan University. He served as field manager of the St. Louis Cardinals from 1919 to 1925, when he became general manager. He was credited with many revolutionary baseball ideas, including the origination of farm system baseball.

Sugar Robinson KOs Bobo Olsen In 12th Round

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (INS)—Sugar Ray Robinson defended his Pennsylvania version of the world middleweight championship tonight by knocking out Carl (Bobo) Olsen of Honolulu in the 12th round before 5,034 paid spectators in Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

The kayo came on a vicious overhand right to the side of Olsen's head after one minute and 19 seconds of the 12th. Sugar Ray had won every round except the 11th in a slow, one-sided bout.

The 11th was taken from Robinson because of low blows.

Robinson weighed 158 to Olsen's 159.

Gross gate receipts were $23,350, and the net $16,912.

Six football games are on top in nearby West Virginia today and the No. 1 attraction is billed for Stayman Field, Keyser, where Dana "Horse" Lough's undefeated and untied Catamounts play host to George Washington University's "B" team of Washington, D. C., at 2 p. m.

The West Virginia high school program will be headed by the P. V. C. battle in Ridgeley at 3:30 between Ralph Poling's Ridgeley Blackhawks and the undefeated and once-tied Romney High School's Pioneers. Another P. V. C. game pits Moorefield against Keyser at Moorefield.

Trainer Fined $100 For Failure To Report Abstract On Vets' List

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—Trainer Jerry McNally was fined $100 today for failing to inform Laurel track stewards that Abstract is on the veterinarian's list in New Jersey.

Earlier this week the jockey who rode Abstract to victory in the $15,000 Washington Handicap here last Saturday, automatically winning an invitation to the Pimlico Special Nov. 3, was suspended for ten days on two charges of rough riding.

The jockey, Edward Campbell, thus was denied a chance to ride Abstract in the $15,000 winner-take-all Special, if the L. J. Shaw horse is not barred from the race in view of today's action.

Trainer McNally was fined under a Maryland Racing Commission rule that stewards must be notified of horses on barred lists in other states.

Dr. F. M. Keller, veterinarian representing the commission, said he believes Abstract is a victim of periodic opthalmia, an eye-disease known more commonly as moonblindness.

If Abstract's sight is found to be impaired the day of the Pimlico Special, the veternarian would order him withdrawn from the race.

Graziano Faces Janiro Tonight

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Boxing returns to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night and the promoters have called on their golden boy, Rocky Graziano, to get them off on the right foot.

The Rock from New York's east side takes on handsome Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., in a return ten rounder that should draw around 14,000 customers to the big arena. Top price is $12 and the International Boxing Club hopes to gross close to the $81,049 the boys attracted the last time on March 31.

In that one, blond Tony spurted in the last round to gain a draw with the former middleweight king.

Janiro was a 12 to 5 long shot then and the betting boys don't rate him much higher this time. Rocky is the 1 to 2 choice to keep his win streak alive.

The 10 p.m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Clark Racing Stable Auctioned For $286,300

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — The entire racing stable of the late Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark was sold today at public auction at Belmont Park. The 27 head brought $286,300, or an average of $10,804.

Top price of $41,000 was brought by Pictus, a promising two-year-old brown colt by Pictor-Mrs. Ames. Pictus, in the money in 10 of 13 starts this year and winner of three races, was purchased by P. L. Foster as agent for Ralph Lowe, Midland, Tex., oilman.

Abrams Is Praised By Generals' Coach

Wes Abrams, former Allegany High School gridder, is going to be a great running back and one of Washington and Lee University's best ones.

That's the prediction made by Carl Wise, backfield coach of the Generals, in a letter to J. Goodloe Jackson, 610 Shriver Avenue member of the W. & L. Alumni Association.

Only experience which Abrams is getting stands between him and the top now — a very fine boy to coach and a very popular boy on the squad and campus, Wise concluded.

Abrams started the Davidson game at left halfback Saturday. He scored one touchdown after taking a pitch-out and running 45 yards. Wes had another 40 yard run to his credit, caught a pass for 38 yards and returned a kickoff 30 yards.

W. & L. plays Tennessee tomorrow and meets V.P.I. November 4 in the annual homecoming game.

High Trend Pays $13.60

Upsets Form Players In Laurel Feature

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—High Trend, which carries the silks of Samuel Greenfield, Baltimore lawyer, upset the form followers by scoring a neck victory in the featured $4,000 Gallery Purse here today.

Only five horses contested the mile and a sixteenth event and the bulk of the mutual play was centered on Brookmeade Stable's Blue Hills. The even money favorite failed by finishing a well-drubbed third. Golden Bull, owned by Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio, gained second a length and a half ahead of Blue Hills.

High Trend, the third choice among 9,306 turf fans, paid $13.60, $4.40 and $2.20. A minus pool developed in the show wagering and the Maryland Jockey Club, which operates Laurel, was forced to put up $246.10 to cover the minimum $2.20 show payoffs.

Starecase Is Victor

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP)—James Cox Brady's Starecase, the longest shot in the race, just lasted to win the stir up, an allowance sprint of six furlongs, before 17,763 fans at Jamaica Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Case Ace-Moving Star got home by a neck to the good of the fast-closing Ethel Terry from the Cain Hoy Stable of Commander Harry F. Guggenheim. Two and a quarter lengths back came Mrs. Aksel Wichfeld's Detective, coupled with Mrs. G. P. Odom's Mighty Quest, as the favored G. P. Odom entry.

Apheim Stable's Early Heath and Tinkham Veale 2nd's Cornwall were outrun.

The time was a slow 1:13 1-5 on a fast track. Starecase returned mutuels of $17.20, $9.20 and $2.70.

WILSON'S FOOTBALL FORECASTS

Irish Will Fall Before Spartans

By Pitts Smith

The Notre Dame-Michigan State collision in South Bend is one of the highlights of the day. Frank Leahy's embattled Irishmen can't expect any relief from the blistering pace in this one. Biggie Munn's hot-rod sophomore machine will demand tribute before Leahy can reassemble his forces.

Coach Tatum's slightly confused Terrapin's undertake a tough assignment against Duke. They haven't been able to down the Blue Devils anywhere in six tries, much less in Durham. This should develop into a pitchers' duel with Billie Cox shading Johnnie Scarbath.

High Trend Pays $13.60

Upsets Form Players In Laurel Feature

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26 (AP)—High Trend, which carries the silks of Samuel Greenfield, Baltimore lawyer, upset the form followers by scoring a neck victory in the featured $4,000 Gallery Purse here today.

Only five horses contested the mile and a sixteenth event and the bulk of the mutual play was centered on Brookmeade Stable's Blue Hills. The even money favorite failed by finishing a well-drubbed third. Golden Bull, owned by Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio, gained second a length and a half ahead of Blue Hills.

High Trend, the third choice among 9,306 turf fans, paid $13.60, $4.40 and $2.20. A minus pool developed in the show wagering and the Maryland Jockey Club, which operates Laurel, was forced to put up $246.10 to cover the minimum $2.20 show payoffs.

Starecase Is Victor

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP)—James Cox Brady's Starecase, the longest shot in the race, just lasted to win the stir up, an allowance sprint of six furlongs, before 17,763 fans at Jamaica Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Case Ace-Moving Star got home by a neck to the good of the fast-closing Ethel Terry from the Cain Hoy Stable of Commander Harry F. Guggenheim. Two and a quarter lengths back came Mrs. Aksel Wichfeld's Detective, coupled with Mrs. G. P. Odom's Mighty Quest, as the favored G. P. Odom entry.

Apheim Stable's Early Heath and Tinkham Veale 2nd's Cornwall were outrun.

The time was a slow 1:13 1-5 on a fast track. Starecase returned mutuels of $17.20, $9.20 and $2.70.

WILSON'S FOOTBALL FORECASTS

Irish Will Fall Before Spartans

By Pitts Smith

The Notre Dame-Michigan State collision in South Bend is one of the highlights of the day. Frank Leahy's embattled Irishmen can't expect any relief from the blistering pace in this one. Biggie Munn's hot-rod sophomore machine will demand tribute before Leahy can reassemble his forces.

Coach Tatum's slightly confused Terrapin's undertake a tough assignment against Duke. They haven't been able to down the Blue Devils anywhere in six tries, much less in Durham. This should develop into a pitchers' duel with Billie Cox shading Johnnie Scarbath.

Wins By Nose

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 26 (AP)—Taking the lead at the eighth pole, Mrs. Harry Trotsek's Old Tom sped to a stirring nose triumph at Garden State Park today in the featured Delaware Township Purse before a crowd of 12,213.

Joiner was second, while Blue Lantern was third in the field of seven competitors.

Valpam, the odds-on choice, opened up a three lengths lead in the run through the back stretch but gave up the ghost at the quarter pole, finishing a dull fourth.

The winner was ridden by Logan Batcheller and skipped over the six furlongs in 1:13. Neglected in the wagering, the victor pair off $14.20, $6.20 and $4.20 across the board.

Wins By Nose

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 26 (AP)—Taking the lead at the eighth pole, Mrs. Harry Trotsek's Old Tom sped to a stirring nose triumph at Garden State Park today in the featured Delaware Township Purse before a crowd of 12,215.

Joiner was second, while Blue Lantern was third in the field of seven competitors.

Valpam, the odds-on choice, opened up a three lengths lead in the run through the back stretch but gave up the ghost at the quarter pole, finishing a dull fourth.

The winner was ridden by Logan Batcheller and skipped over the six furlongs in 1:13. Neglected in the wagering, the victor pair off $14.20, $6.20 and $4.20 across the board.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26—(INS)—There are not many prettier girls in Hollywood than Arlene Dahl, whose white-and-pink complexion and red hair always gets admiring glances from the male sex. I thought this when I saw Arlene and Lex Barker going into the Westwood Theater for a preview.

Arlene Dahl

As we stopped to chat, I asked, "What next at MGM for you, Arlene?"

Well, it seems my friend, Miss Dahl, who is sure to marry Mr. Tarzan before many moons, despite denials, co-stars with Barry Sullivan in "No Questions Asked." That's the MGM movie based on the insurance racket, which also has Jean Hagen and George Murphy in the cast. It's slated as a Nicky Nayfack production.

• — • — •

I certainly hope Monty Woolley, who has been approached for one of the leading roles in "Will You Love Me In December?" says yes. I miss Monty around town and on the screen too. I love his sense of humor and even the way he sometimes makes fun of me to my face. I can take it from him.

I also hope Myrna Loy says yes. She's wanted for the same picture. She's been away too long.

Lamar Trotti, who wrote the screenplay on "Will You Love Me In December?" will also produce the picture. It's based on a story called, "The Great American Hoax."

• — • — •

Composer Harry Akst, with Jolson, both in Korea and when they went to the Holy Land and Africa during World War II, reminisced today about Al's meeting with Gen. MacArthur.

"We spent two and a half hours with him," said Harry, "and, as Al wisecracked, it was more time than he gave President Truman. Finally, Mrs. MacArthur reminded the General that he had appointments. To which MacArthur replied, 'This is the first time I've had a chance to relax'."

Harry spoke about the wonderful Japanese teakwood tables in the MacArthur living room at the supreme command headquarters. He was also given an autographed picture of the General, but he said it doesn't have the same inscription as Al's on which is written, "With warm regards and appreciation."

• — • — •

"Oh, it's not true," Elizabeth said. "I'm just wearing this maternity dress for some scenes in my picture 'Father's Little Dividend'."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hazel Scott's husband, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, of Harlem, is in Hollywood. He's hiding because he doesn't want to get mixed up in local politics.

Well, what do you know about this! Marlene Dietrich has been signed to sing in the Persian Room of the Plaza. Shades of Hildegarde who was there for years and years!

Wendell Corey is much sicker than anyone has suspected.

Hedy Lamarr, the solemn one, has been seen driving around with Peter Brook, the writer, having fun, laughing and gay.

Susan Hayward's drive for Christmas gifts for GIs in Korea so impressed Spyros Skouras that he, personally, ordered a newsreel clip made to plug it.

In Hollywood, we are worried about our beloved Jimmy Durante. He's been so depressed since Lou Clayton's death. He's postponed his first TV show for one month and Jack Carson will pinch-hit for him.

Errol Flynn and his bride have decided to sail home on his 120-foot yacht, Zaca. I'd rather it was him than me this time of the year. That is a 3,000-mile voyage which will take five or six weeks to make. They plan to sail from Nice to Jamaica. What do you bet at the last minute it's called off?

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Tri-Towns Rotarians Plan Ladies Night

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The Tri-Towns Rotary Club will hold a Ladies Night dinner meeting at Anton's on Big Savage, Wednesday November 1, at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. Ivan Diehl, of Frostburg State Teachers College, will present a travelogue. Carlyle Fisher has charge of the program.

95 Pledged During State Rush Week

KEYSER, W. Va.—Potomac State School had rush week recently and the five fraternal societies gained a total of 95 pledges. Phi Sigma Nu led the fraternities in pledges with 33, followed by Phi Kappa Omega with 13 and Theta Sigma Chi having 11. Of the two sororities on the campus Sigma Iota Chi pledged 21 and Eta Upsilion Gamma 17.

Lonaconing Personals

Joe Harris, Railroad street, has returned with Dr. and Mrs. William Harris from Perry Point, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heller, Peoria, Ill., were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell M. Sowers, East Main street. They visited 18 relatives in the East over the past two weeks.

Donald Eugene Lee is stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. and Robert E. Lee, is stationed at Parris Island, S. C. Both men are sons of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lee, Detmold.

Sales Tax Receipts Climb 21.14 Per Cent

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26 (AP)—Maryland's sales tax brought in almost $8,000,000 in the first quarter of the current fiscal year, 21.14 per cent more than receipts from the levy in the same period of 1949.

A report from Comptroller J. Millard Tawes showed sales tax collections from June 30 to Sept. 30, 1950, of $7,973,548.34. During the first three months of the last fiscal year, $6,582,288.78 was collected.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26—(INS)—There are not many prettier girls in Hollywood than Arlene Dahl, whose white-and-pink complexion and red hair always gets admiring glances from the male sex. I thought this when I saw Arlene and Lex Barker going into the Westwood Theater for a preview.

Arlene Dahl

As we stopped to chat, I asked, "What next at MGM for you, Arlene?"

Well, it seems my friend, Miss Dahl, who is sure to marry Mr. Tarzan before many moons, despite denials, co-stars with Barry Sullivan in "No Questions Asked." That's the MGM movie based on the insurance racket, which also has Jean Hagen and George Murphy in the cast. It's slated as a Nicky Nayfack production.

I certainly hope Monty Woolley, who has been approached for one of the leading roles in "Will You Love Me In December?" says yes. I miss Monty around town and on the screen too. I love his sense of humor and even the way he sometimes makes fun of me to my face. I can take it from him.

I also hope Myrna Loy says yes. She's wanted for the same picture. She's been away too long.

Lamar Trotti, who wrote the screenplay on "Will You Love Me In December?" will also produce the picture. It's based on a story called, "The Great American Hoax."

Composer Harry Akst, with Jolson, both in Korea and when they went to the Holy Land and Africa during World War II, reminisced today about Al's meeting with Gen. MacArthur.

"We spent two and a half hours with him," said Harry, "and, as Al wisecracked, it was more time than he gave President Truman. Finally, Mrs. MacArthur reminded the General that he had appointments. To which MacArthur replied, 'This is the first time I've had a chance to relax'."

Harry spoke about the wonderful Japanese teakwood tables in the MacArthur living room at the supreme command headquarters. He was also given an autographed picture of the General, but he said it doesn't have the same inscription as Al's on which is written, "With warm regards and appreciation."

Chit-Chat: Elizabeth Taylor turned all colors of the rainbow when the newly-arrived Italian actor, Gianna Canale, congratulated her on expected motherhood.

"Oh, it's not true," Elizabeth said. "I'm just wearing this maternity dress for some scenes in my picture 'Father's Little Dividend'."

Liz had met Gianna during the filming of "Quo Vadis," and when the Italian actor saw her in the commissary, it was like seeing someone from home.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hazel Scott's husband, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, of Harlem, is in Hollywood. He's hiding because he doesn't want to get mixed up in local politics.

Well, what do you know about this! Marlene Dietrich has been signed to sing in the Persian Room of the Plaza. Shades of Hildegarde who was there for years and years!

Preview cards after the sneak of "The Magnificent Yankee" indicated fans doubt the veracity of the scene where Justice Holmes left $250,000 to the U. S. government on his death in 1935. Well, it's all true and the money is still in the custody of the Supreme Court. The government hasn't decided what do with the unorthodox request.

Wendell Corey is much sicker than anyone has suspected.

Hedy Lamarr, the solemn one, has been seen driving around with Peter Brook, the writer, having fun, laughing and gay.

Susan Hayward's drive for Christmas gifts for GIs in Korea so impressed Spyros Skouras that he, personally, ordered a newsreel clip made to plug it.

In Hollywood, we are worried about our beloved Jimmy Durante. He's been so depressed since Lou Clayton's death. He's postponed his first TV show for one month and Jack Carson will pinch-hit for him.

Errol Flynn and his bride have decided to sail home on his 120-foot yacht, Zaca. I'd rather it was him than me this time of the year. That is a 3,000-mile voyage which will take five or six weeks to make. They plan to sail from Nice to Jamaica. What do you bet at the last minute it's called off?

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Sales Tax Receipts Climb 21.14 Per Cent

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26 (AP)—Maryland's sales tax brought in almost $8,000,000 in the first quarter of the current fiscal year, 21.14 per cent more than receipts from the levy in the same period of 1949.

A report from Comptroller J. Millard Tawes showed sales tax collections from June 30 to Sept. 30, 1950, of $7,973,548.34. During the first three months of the last fiscal year, $6,582,288.78 was collected.

He Was Too Good A Man To Be Sick

I FIRST learned of the death of Al Jolson in an afternoon paper, which carried the news in the left-hand column of page one. In the adjoining column were the late scratches from horse parks all over the country and I couldn't help thinking that Al would have glanced over the late scratches before he got to his own obituary.

He was an incurable horseplayer and a very good one. The last time I saw him he skipped up to me—Al never walked. He trotted, as if incessantly impatient to be somewhere else—and moaned in that odd speech of his wherein he managed to eliminate consonants almost entirely: "Nine'ee nine tuh one an' ah oney had twenney dollahs on dat hoss. Ah had dat hoss two mon's now but ah couldn' believe it. Nine'ee nine tuh one. Ah said 'Ah no. Nine'ee nine tuh one.' " The horse came in and paid $212 for $2 and Al couldn't forgive himself for winning only $2,120 when he could have made a killing.

John Crosby

I'll never forget the day Jolson took me to the races at Santa Anita. From his box, he held court to a throng that can only decently be described as motley. Movie executives, directors, movie stars, touts, racetrack attendants—they all stopped by from time to time and Al told jokes and passed out endless free advice on how to be a movie executive, director, movie star, tout or race track attendant—all in that booming voice that could be heard in the middle of the infield. You've never heard a horse rooted home unless you've heard Jolson bellow: "Come awn Bootstrap!" Of the 70,000 people booting home their horses in the stretch drive at Santa Anita, Jolson's, I'm convinced, was the only voice the horse could actually hear.

Jolson entered a horsepark or a room or a stage or his own home with a skipping strut which automatically made heards turn. Even if you've never heard Jolson or never seen him, you would know that this was a person of importance. He was the most vibrant personality I've ever met on or offstage and he endowed every move, every utterance, with importance. It was fortunate that he could do this because, in his vivid stage career, he survived and even made hits out of some awfully cheesy musicals.

The moment Jolson walked on a stage, you got the impression that something terribly important was going to happen. Frequently nothing important did happen but you kept feeling somehow that, in a minute or two, it would. Practically no one, except Ethel Merman, has that sort of vital stage presence in the theater any more.

Jolson belonged to a vanishing type in many ways. For one thing, he felt obligated to entertain all of the time—whether he was on a stage in front of 1,200 people or in a living room with three. Every time he walked out on the NBC parking lot in Hollywood, it was a production number. The parking lot attendants drove up to Jolson's car with a flourish that was missing on, say, Jack Benny's car. And while he was waiting, Al told stories and anecdotes for the benefit of the gas station attendants and out on the sidewalk a hundred or so people who apparently sprang out of the cement would press their noses to the wire and listen. It was quite a show.

"Who're you kidding?" declared Jolson when the end was drawing close and they were trying to tell him everything would be all right. "I've got no pulse." He was trying to get a laugh, even then, because a stage wait was unpardonable under any circumstances including death. It wasn't the first time he'd joked about death. Once, he was driving down from Boston with Mitch Rawson and they passed a cemetery. "Some day," observed Jolson. "We ain' gonna pass." This time he didn't.

The newspapers said Al was 64 but I don't know about that. He was palming himself off as 64 two years ago and there were grounds for suspicion even then that he was shaving off a year or so. I don't think anyone will ever know how old he was because I doubt whether Al knew. A couple of years back, in St. Louis, I remember a teen age girl—she was about 16—raving about this new singer, popularized by "The Jolson Story," called Al Jolson whose albums were all the rage among her set. And I remember wistfully that when I was 16 I owned a Model-T Ford I called Jolson in honor of an actor who had just thrust talking moving pictures on the world by virtue of a movie called "The Jazz Singer." And twenty-six years before "The Jazz Singer," he was nationally renowned as a stage comedien at the Winter Garden. And ten years before that, there was Jolson in Dockstader's Minstrels.

The end of his half century career came without warning and the words used by Director John Huston about the death of his father, Walter Huston, could very well be applied to Al: "He was too good a man to get sick. When the time came, he just died."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN

THAT OLD railroad-crossing admonition is a good one for contract bridge players to know, and to use. Many a situation which arises during the bidding or the play looks one way at first glance, but entirely different when it is scrutinized carefully. That is enough reason to beware when it seems as if the other side is offering you a chance for a trick which you had not expected to take. Don't pounce on it at once, but figure out first whether that trick is one you can't afford to take.

The contract chosen by South would have been 7-Spades or 7-No Trumps if North had shown two kings in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps. But with only one in the North hand the contract seemed hopeless after West led the diamond Q. There were three losers in sight in the red suits unless South could get into the dummy. That problem could be managed if the trumps of the defenders were evenly divided, but South had been getting bad breaks all evening and decided not to stake all on the split.

Finally he found a different way to seek success. After winning the first trick with the diamond K, he led the spade 9, putting on the dummy's 4. East gobbled that up hungrily with his J and returned the diamond 10. South's contract was now assured. He won with the diamond A, laid down the spade A, scored the club A, then led the spade 2 to the 10. That not only cleared the defense of trumps but found South in dummy ready to use the clubs for discarding his losers in hearts and diamonds to assure the contract.

If you had been East, would you have snapped up the bait of that spade trick with the J? Or would you have scented a plot like that of the Greeks offering the Trojans the famous horse?

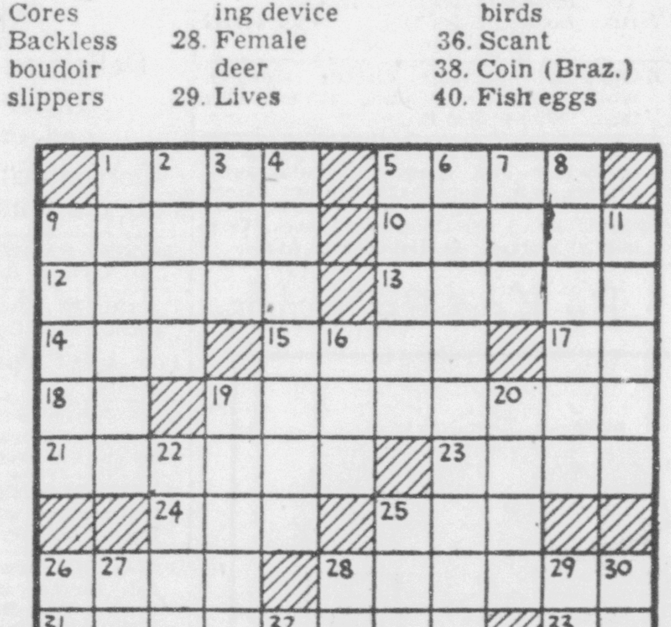
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

H T J Q C F T M A J B H M F S A S P T B V F N M V S C P I V H T J M V S C P I V — C W J V H N.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: PRAISE CANNOT WOUND HIS GENEROUS SPIRIT NOW—ROGERS.

By JOHN CROSBY

He Was Too Good A Man To Be Sick

I FIRST learned of the death of Al Jolson in an afternoon paper, which carried the news in the left-hand column of page one. In the adjoining column were the late scratches from horse parks all over the country and I couldn't help thinking that Al would have glanced over the late scratches before he got to his own obituary.

He was an incurable horseplayer and a very good one. The last time I saw him he skipped up to me—Al never walked. He trotted, as if incessantly impatient to be somewhere else—and moaned in that odd speech of his wherein he managed to eliminate consonants almost entirely: "Nine'ee nine tuh one an' ah oney had twenney dollahs on dat hoss. Ah had dat hoss two mon's now but ah couldn' believe it. Nine'ee nine tuh one. Ah said 'Ah no. Nine'ee nine tuh one.'" The horse came in and paid $212 for $2 and Al couldn't forgive himself for winning only $2,120 when he could have made a killing.

• — • — •

I'll never forget the day Jolson took me to the races at Santa Anita. From his box, he held court to a throng that can only decently be described as motley. Movie executives, directors, movie stars, touts, racetrack attendants—they all stopped by from time to time and Al told jokes and passed out endless free advice on how to be a movie executive, director, movie star, tout or race track attendant—all in that booming voice that could be heard in the middle of the infield. You've never heard a horse rooted home unless you've heard Jolson bellow: "Come awn Bootstrap!" Of the 70,000 people booting home their horses in the stretch drive at Santa Anita, Jolson's, I'm convinced, was the only voice the horse could actually hear.

Jolson entered a horsepark or a room or a stage or his own home with a skipping strut which automatically made heards turn. Even if you've never heard Jolson or never seen him, you would know that this was a person of importance. He was the most vibrant personality I've ever met on or offstage and he endowed every move, every utterance, with importance. It was fortunate that he could do this because, in his vivid stage career, he survived and even made hits out of some awfully cheesy musicals.

• — • — •

The moment Jolson walked on a stage, you got the impression that something terribly important was going to happen. Frequently nothing important did happen but you kept feeling somehow that, in a minute or two, it would. Practically no one, except Ethel Merman, has that sort of vital stage presence in the theater any more.

Jolson belonged to a vanishing type in many ways. For one thing, he felt obligated to entertain all of the time—whether he was on a stage in front of 1,200 people or in a living room with three. Every time he walked out on the NBC parking lot in Hollywood, it was a production number. The parking lot attendants drove up to Jolson's car with a flourish that was missing on, say, Jack Benny's car. And while he was waiting, Al told stories and anecdotes for the benefit of the gas station attendants and out on the sidewalk a hundred or so people who apparently sprang out of the cement would press their noses to the wire and listen. It was quite a show.

"Who're you kidding?" declared Jolson when the end was drawing close and they were trying to tell him everything would be all right. "I've got no pulse." He was trying to get a laugh, even then, because a stage wait was unpardonable under any circumstances including death. It wasn't the first time he'd joked about death. Once, he was driving down from Boston with Mitch Rawson and they passed a cemetery. "Some day," observed Jolson. "We ain' gonna pass." This time he didn't.

• — • — •

The newspapers said Al was 64 but I don't know about that. He was palming himself off as 64 two years ago and there were grounds for suspicion even then that he was shaving off a year or so. I don't think anyone will ever know how old he was because I doubt whether Al knew. A couple of years back, in St. Louis, I remember a teen age girl—she was about 16—raving about this new singer, popularized by "The Jolson Story," called Al Jolson whose albums were all the rage among her set. And I remember wistfully that when I was 16 I owned a Model-T Ford I called Jolson in honor of an actor who had just thrust talking moving pictures on the world by virtue of a movie called "The Jazz Singer." And twenty-six years before "The Jazz Singer," he was nationally renowned as a stage comedien at the Winter Garden. And ten years before that, there was Jolson in Dockstader's Minstrels.

The end of his half century career came without warning and the words used by Director John Huston about the death of his father, Walter Huston, could very well be applied to Al: "He was too good a man to get sick. When the time came, he just died."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN

THAT OLD railroad-crossing admonition is a good one for contract bridge players to know, and to use. Many a situation which arises during the bidding or the play looks one way at first glance, but entirely different when it is scrutinized carefully. That is enough reason to beware when it seems as if the other side is offering you a chance for a trick which you had not expected to take. Don't pounce on it at once, but figure out first whether that trick is one you can't afford to take.

The contract chosen by South would have been 7-Spades or 7-No Trumps if North had shown two kings in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps. But with only one in the North hand the contract seemed hopeless after West led the diamond Q. There were three losers in sight in the red suits unless South could get into the dummy. That problem could be managed if the trumps of the defenders were evenly divided, but South had been getting bad breaks all evening and decided not to stake all on the split.

Finally he found a different way to seek success. After winning the first trick with the diamond K, he led the spade 9, putting on the dummy's 4. East gobbled that up hungrily with his J and returned the diamond 10. South's contract was now assured. He won with the diamond A, laid down the spade A, scored the club A, then led the spade 2 to the 10. That not only cleared the defense of trumps but found South in dummy ready to use the clubs for discarding his losers in hearts and diamonds to assure the contract.

If you had been East, would you have snapped up the bait of that spade trick with the J? Or would you have scented a plot like that of the Greeks offering the Trojans the famous horse?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

H T J Q C F T M A J B H M F S A S P T B V F N
M V S C P I V H T J M V S C P I V — C W J V H N.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: PRAISE CANNOT WOUND HIS GENEROUS SPIRIT NOW—ROGERS.

Phyllis L. Staub, vs. Wilmer F. Staub, Jr., No. 21951 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Plaintiff A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant.

The bill states that they were married on the 13th day of November, 1944, and that the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff on or about the 16th day of April, 1949, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past prior to the bringing of this suit and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. The Plaintiff asks that the permanent custody of the minor child born unto this marriage; namely, Jean Lorraine, be awarded to her, and the bill states that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year prior to the bringing of this action, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and that his present address is unknown, and the Plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the Defendant and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 19th day of October, 1950, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, sitting in equity, ordered that the Plaintiff, by giving a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks on or before the 20th day of November, 1950, giving notice to said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to appear in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 7th day of December, 1950, to show cause, if any he might have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Selling Wave Hits Market; Prices Fall $1-$3 Share

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Three million shares of stock were tossed on the market for sale today and prices tumbled $1 to more than $3 a share.

The paper value of all stocks listed on the exchange shrunk by roughly $2,000,000,000.

Not since the end of June, when prices crumpled under the panicky selling which followed outbreak of the Korean war, has the market dropped so far.

Many brokers termed the selling emotional — there was no major news to account for it.

Sales piled up to 3,000,000 shares from 1,930,000 Wednesday and were the largest since July 20.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks plunged $1.90 a share to $82.70. In one stroke the gains of the past month were wiped out.

At the worst the tape dropped behind eight minutes and the exchange took the usual step of flashing prices of key stocks directly to the ticker tape.

Chrysler lost $4.12 at $77.25 at one time and closed $3.87 lower at $77.50.

General Motors, the most active issue, finished $1.62 lower at $50.12 and U. S. Steel, in second place, down $1.87 at $40.12.

Bethlehem Steel was chopped down $2.25 at $45.37 and Jones & Laughlin $2.87 at $41.50.

In the higher price bracket Superior Oil of California lost $9 at $300 a share and volatile Nickel Plate Railway $7 at $165.

Also lower were N. Y. Central, Socony - Vacuum, Graham-Paige, Radio Corp., Budd Co., Republic Steel, Murray Corp., Sunray Oil, International Telephone, Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, Schenley, Zenith, American Telephone, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Santa Fe, and Standard Oil (NJ).

How To Grease Your Own Car!

Presented by Your Favorite Service Station

1 Put on your dirtiest clothes and an old cap so you can crawl under your car.

2 Jack your car up with four jacks or dig a hole in your driveway so you can get under the car.

3 Buy a supply of the proper transmission, differential, universal joint, water pump and chassis grease, five grease guns, a spring spray gun and some spring penetrating oil.

4 Equip yourself with lots of good strong words such as "Darn," "Oh Hang," and the like to use on the joints where the grease doesn't want to come through. Keep using these words until the grease comes out on the other side.

5 Buy yourself a complete set of wrenches to use on the cases that must be opened to inspect the lubricating supply inside. Also some new skin to graft on your knuckles when the wrench slips.

6 Fill your spray gun with penetrating oil and spray on the springs. Get your neighbors to help you rock the car vigorously back and forth to help work the oil into the springs. Be sure not to breathe for about 10 minutes while spraying the springs or you may oil the inside of your lungs, which is bad.

7 Be sure not to miss any place that should be lubricated as it may cost you the price of 20 grease jobs for repairs.

8 Don't forget little places like the door catches and hinges, also generator, distributor, hood hinges and control rods under the hood.

9 Promote some distilled water somewhere and a battery hydrometer so that you can test and refill your battery.

10 Assemble the family vacuum cleaner and clean the upholstery and wash all the windows with a soft chamois.

11 Finish the job by driving to the nearest service station where the attendant will gladly test the air pressure in your tires and fill same if needed.

Or why not take it to one of the Service Stations listed below!

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Plaintiff A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant.

The bill states that they were married on the 13th day of November, 1944, and that the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff on or about the 16th day of April, 1949, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past prior to the bringing of this suit and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. The Plaintiff asks that the permanent custody of the minor child born unto this marriage; namely, Jean Lorraine, be awarded to her, and the bill states that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year prior to the bringing of this action, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and that his present address is unknown, and the Plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the Defendant and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 19th day of October, 1950, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, sitting in equity, ordered that the Plaintiff, by giving a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks on or before the 20th day of November, 1950, giving notice to said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to appear in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 7th day of December, 1950, to show cause, if any he might have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Selling Wave Hits Market; Prices Fall $1-$3 Share

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Three million shares of stock were tossed on the market for sale today and prices tumbled $1 to more than $3 a share.

The paper value of all stocks listed on the exchange shrunk by roughly $2,000,000,000.

Not since the end of June, when prices crumpled under the panicky selling which followed outbreak of the Korean war, has the market dropped so far.

Many brokers termed the selling emotional — there was no major news to account for it.

Sales piled up to 3,000,000 shares from 1,930,000 Wednesday and were the largest since July 20.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks plunged $1.90 a share to $82.70. In one stroke the gains of the past month were wiped out.

At the worst the tape dropped behind eight minutes and the exchange took the usual step of flashing prices of key stocks directly to the ticker tape.

Chrysler lost $4.12 at $77.25 at one time and closed $3.87 lower at $77.50.

General Motors, the most active issue, finished $1.62 lower at $50.12 and U. S. Steel, in second place, down $1.87 at $40.12.

Bethlehem Steel was chopped down $2.25 at $45.37 and Jones & Laughlin $2.87 at $41.50.

In the higher price bracket Superior Oil of California lost $9 at $300 a share and volatile Nickel Plate Railway $7 at $165.

Also lower were N. Y. Central, Socony - Vacuum, Graham-Paige, Radio Corp., Budd Co., Republic Steel, Murray Corp., Sunray Oil, International Telephone, Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, Schenley, Zenith, American Telephone, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Santa Fe, and Standard Oil (NJ).

How To Grease Your Own Car!

Presented by Your Favorite Service Station

1 Put on your dirtiest clothes and an old cap so you can crawl under your car.

2 Jack your car up with four jacks or dig a hole in your driveway so you can get under the car.

3 Buy a supply of the proper transmission, differential, universal joint, water pump and chassis grease, five grease guns, a spring spray gun and some spring penetrating oil.

4 Equip yourself with lots of good strong words such as "Darn," "Oh Hang," and the like to use on the joints where the grease doesn't want to come through. Keep using these words until the grease comes out on the other side.

5 Buy yourself a complete set of wrenches to use on the cases that must be opened to inspect the lubricating supply inside. Also some new skin to graft on your knuckles when the wrench slips.

6 Fill your spray gun with penetrating oil and spray on the springs. Get your neighbors to help you rock the car vigorously back and forth to help work the oil into the springs. Be sure not to breathe for about 10 minutes while spraying the springs or you may oil the inside of your lungs, which is bad.

7 Be sure not to miss any place that should be lubricated as it may cost you the price of 20 grease jobs for repairs.

8 Don't forget little places like the door catches and hinges, also generator, distributor, hood hinges and control rods under the hood.

9 Promote some distilled water somewhere and a battery hydrometer so that you can test and refill your battery.

10 Assemble the family vacuum cleaner and clean the upholstery and wash all the windows with a soft chamois.

11 Finish the job by driving to the nearest service station where the attendant will gladly test the air pressure in your tires and fill same if needed.

Grantsville Man Dies After Auto Accident

Trial Magistrate's Son Is Fatality

Charles E. Stanton, 41-year old son of Grantsville Trial Magistrate J. U. Stanton, was killed ,apparently almost instantly, when his automobile rammed into the rear of a loaded lumber truck about one-quarter mile east of Grantsville on U. S. Route 40, according to State Police.

Stanton, who also lived in Grantsville, died of a crushed chest in the accident, which occurred about 8:15 last night, police said.

The automobile which Stanton was driving and the lumber truck, driven by Herbert Clifford Layman, 45, also of Grantsville, both were traveling west on Route 40 when the tragedy happened.

State Police had not completed their investigation of the crash last night and were unable to report the cause of the accident.

Stanton's automobile was virtually demolished when it hit the heavily-laden truck. Ironically, a passenger in Stanton's car, Harry R. Hanson, Wheeling, W. Va., sustained only lacerations of the face and head. He was treated by a Grantsville physician and released.

State Trooper Charles H. DeWitt investigated the crash.

The body was taken to the Winterberg Funeral Home in Grantsville.

State Police reported that no charge had been placed against Layman as a result of the traffic death.

West Side Civic Group To Name Five Committees

Smoke Clean-Up Plan Is Taking Shape

The West Side Civic Improvement Association, recently organized to combat smoke, dirt and other nuisances in the city, is getting its program underway, according to Fred Y. Borden, president.

Last night, Borden said several important committees provided for in the constitution and by-laws of the association are being formulated.

These committees include public relations, of which F. Allan Weatherholt has been named chairman; medical advisory, finance and budget, legal, and engineering and technical. The other chairmen and committee members will be announced as soon as the names are all cleared with the individuals involved, Borden said.

Two of the most important groups will be the medical advisory and the engineering and technical committees, Borden said. These two will work out and compile data as to impurities, smoke, dirt and fly ash in the air and will show the affects on human life and property. This information is to be placed in the hands of the legal committee for proper action, and also will be called to the attention of proper authorities with emphasis on a definite program of action.

Borden said, "The people of the West Side along with many from other sections of the city are determined to make the local smoke program work and to get some definite and speedy action, after two years of delay, talk and reports."

GOP "Agents" Visit Here

Shown above are two attractive sisters from Montgomery county, who are serving as "advance agents" for the state-wide Republican party candidates now touring various sections of Maryland. The girls, Miss Louise Gore and her sister, Miss Mary Gore (right) are shown as they prepared to leave yesterday in their station wagon for a visit to Garrett county. Seeing them off are William A. Wilson, (left) manager of Republican headquarters here, and Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee.

McKeldin Adds Another Name To "Boss" List

Charges E. B. Lee Dictates To Lane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Theodore R. McKeldin tonight added E. Brook Lee to the list of political bosses to whom, he said, Governor Lane owes allegiance.

In a radio address prepared for delivery over a Washington station, McKeldin said that Lee, a Montgomery County Democratic leader, uses the "State House as his office" and sleeps in the Governor's mansion.

McKeldin, the Republican candidate for governor, told Montgomery County voters that recent political maneuvering among Democrats in Baltimore was "mere shadow boxing."

"Mr. Lane," said McKeldin, "did not attempt to free himself from the shackles of the city bosses any more than he has attempted to free himself from the clutches of Brooke Lee. All he did in Baltimore City was attempt to line up a 100 per cent city boss support in a desperate effort to save his bid for favor as a minority candidate of his party."

McKeldin continued:

"Mr. Lane is and will be completely boss-dominated and primarily interested in the making of political deals at the expense of the public interest."

"Remember," he added, "that on November 7th you can get rid of Brooke Lee by eliminating Mr. Lane, who is the political Charlie McCarthy of Brooke Lee and of every other boss whose support he can obtain."

McKeldin made another bid for the votes of "independent" voters who are registered Democratic, and reiterated earlier statements that, by sound budget controls and increased efficiency, he could bring about a tax reduction without cutting any necessary state services."

Tydings Termed "Don Quixote"

SILVER SPRING, Md., Oct. 26 (AP) — John Marshall Butler today described Senator Tydings (D-Md) as a "Don Quixote battling the windmills of isolationism."

Butler is the Republican nominee for Tydings' senatorial seat.

Tydings in campaign speeches has asked the voters to "show the world that the United States is not going

Five Winners Named In Speed Skating Derby

Awards Will Be Given Tomorrow

Several hundred persons witnessed the finals in the Fireball Roller Skating contest held last night at the lower end of Holland Street.

Winners in the various classes were as follows:

Durwood Graham, representing North End, won the Class E contest for boys and girls between the ages of six and eight. Durwood, who is eight years old, lives at Route 3, Valley Road.

Sandra White, representing South End, won the Class D contest for boys and girls nine and 10 years old. She is nine and lives at 910 Maryland Avenue.

Ten-year-old Robert Judy, representing North End, was named winner of the Class C contest for boys 9 and 10. He lives at 309 Pulaski Street.

Winner of the Class B contest for girls 11 and 12 years old was Sheila Fram, 11, of 613 Frederick Street, the only East Side representative to win in the finals.

Twelve-year-old Terry Weltman of 104 Potomac Street, another South End representative, won the Class A contest for boys 11 and 12 years of age.

West Side was not represented because of lack of entries. Eighteen youngsters took part in the finals over the 100-yard course.

City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey served as starter and Ralph J. Thuss, also of the Recreation Department, judged the winners. Monroe Kaplon was the announcer.

Winners will receive medals engraved with their names, as well as certificates and passes to the Liberty Theatre, which sponsored the contest, and to the Crystal Park Skating Rink.

Awards will be presented by Mayor Thomas S. Post on Saturday night at 9 o'clock on the stage of the Liberty Theatre.

Hoey said he plans to ask permission from the Police Department and Cumberland Voiture No. 164, Forty and Eight Society, to hold a novelty skating race on Baltimore Street immediately after Tuesday night's Halloween parade. The contest winners would compete.

"Advance Agents" For GOP Complete Visit To County

Sisters Precede Party Caravan

Two charming young misses left Cumberland last night after spending two days here to spread the word in behalf of Republican candidates in the November 7 election.

The young women, the Misses Mary and Louise Gore from Potmac, Md., a small community in Montgomery County, have been serving as advance agents for the statewide GOP candidates ever since the Republican campaign moved into high gear.

What do they do? Traveling in a somewhat battered station wagon, they proceed a day ahead of the caravan to the county where the state candidates—Theodore R. McKeldin for governor, John Marshall Butler for senator, and William A. Gunter for attorney general—are to appear next. They also act in support of the GOP congressional candidate in whose district they are present.

While the Republican caravan isn't due in Allegany County for several days yet, the young women came here Wednesday and left last night for Garrett County, a few days ahead of time, because they believe Western Maryland is very important to a state-wide GOP victory on November 7.

There is scarcely room in the station wagon for the Gore sisters because of the Republican literature with which it is loaded.

Once the young women arrive in a county, their first mission is to visit the members of the Republican State Central Committee. Then they call on leading citizens, Democrats and Republicans alike.

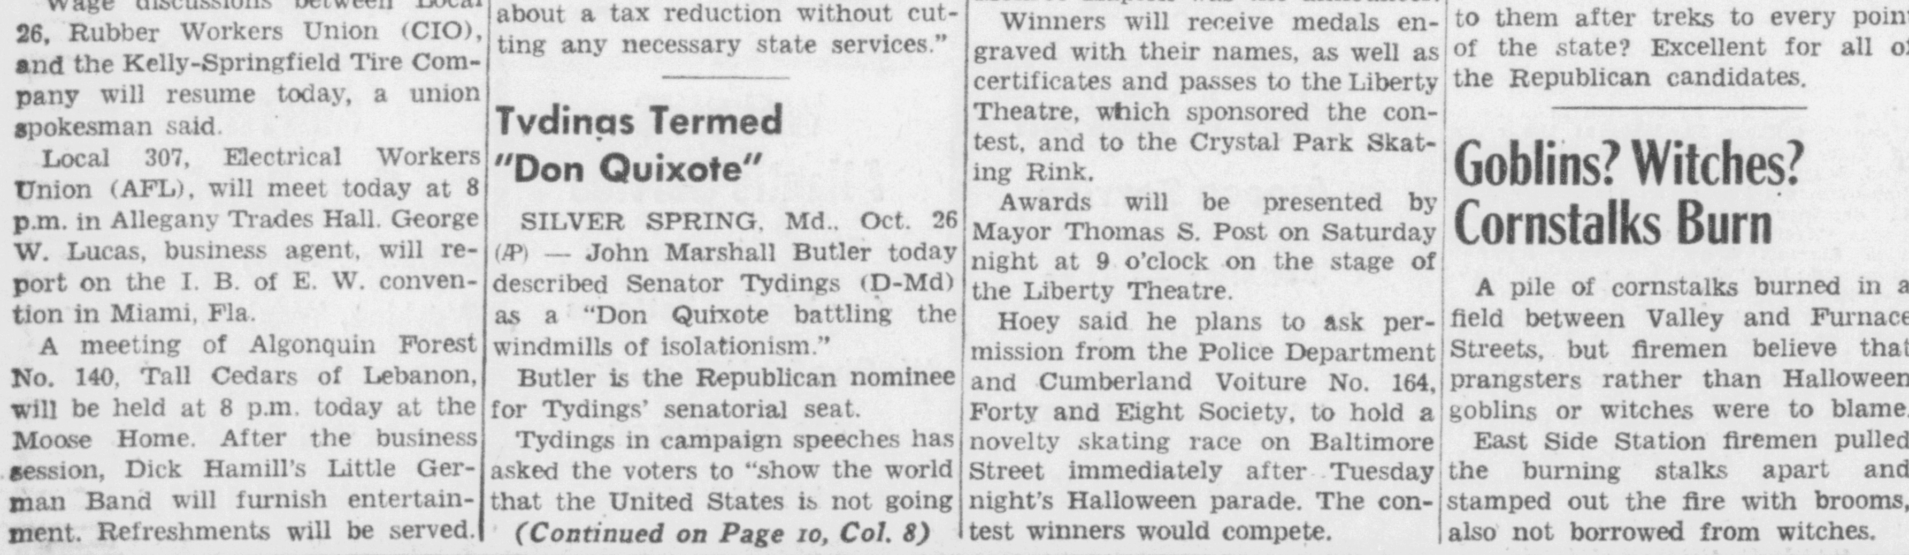
When they complete their mission in Garrett County, the young women will stop over again in Allegany County on their way to Washington, Kent and Carroll Counties. Next Wednesday they will be in Chevy Chase, Montgomery County, for a big "Elect Butler" rally.

What does the election look like to them after treks to every point of the state? Excellent for all of the Republican candidates.

Goblins? Witches? Cornstalks Burn

A pile of cornstalks burned in a field between Valley and Furnace Streets, but firemen believe that prangsters rather than Halloween goblins or witches were to blame.

East Side Station firemen pulled the burning stalks apart and stamped out the fire with brooms, also not borrowed from witches.



Church Women Revive Old Apple Butter Making

Women of the Evangelical United Brethren Church are seen here at Potomac Park making apple butter which is being sold for the benefit of the church fund. The women made 55 gallons Wednesday and about the same amount yesterday. Left to right in the photo, taken in front of the church, are Mrs. Marshall Layman, Mrs. Russell Robeson, Mrs. Margaret Symons; Mrs. John Layton, Mrs. Harold Turner, Mrs. Ivan DeWitt, Mrs. Charles Pfeiffer, Miss Nancy Jean Paxton, Miss Helen Sheaffer and Miss Mary Yoder.

This accident happened about 2 p. m. yesterday on George Thompson's farm in Canaan Valley. McCumber was carried to the Thompson farm house and from there was taken in an ambulance of the Stiggle Funeral Home to Davis Memorial Hospital in Elkins. McCumber, who was attended by Dr. Samuel J. School Census Complete Except For Mopping Up

Final Work Should Be Completed Today

Allegany County teachers yesterday put all but the finishing touches on the biennial school enumeration.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel, said the huge project was virtually completed Wednesday and yesterday afternoon by an army of over 500 instructors of the county.

He said necessary "mopping up" of the few houses missed in the two-day survey will be completed this afternoon.

The house-to-house census, most complete of its kind to be held in this county, went off like clockwork, according to reports.

Much of the success of the undertaking was attributed to detailed plans prepared by principals of schools, including maps of rural areas.

Proof of the value of the survey is already apparent in the number of pre and post school children listed in the survey.

Higgins said there was only one report of a refusal to supply the information needed for the school records.

Most of the teachers, he added, visited from 20 to 50 families each afternoon, depending upon the area covered.

The data on the county's population, between the ages of birth and 21 years, is vital if the schools are to anticipate building and teacher needs.

Higgins said school authorities will be grateful if any family which has been missed in the survey, yet has a pre or post school age child, will supply details to the Board of Education office here.

Building Permit Valuations Rise

Building permit valuations for the first 10 months of this year amounted to $1,027,750 over double the total for the same period last year, the city engineer's office reported yesterday.

From January through October of 1949, totals amounted to only $486,890.

Twenty-four permits were granted during the past month for a total of $103,850, the largest since August, when 25 permits were issued for construction estimated to cost $107,585.

Last October, 19 permits were issued but valuations amounted to only $35,825.

During the past month, 14 of the 24 permits were granted for new construction totaling $95,025. One of the major items in that category was the new office building of the Monumental Life Insurance Company to be constructed on South Centre Street at a cost of $56,850.

Also included were four new homes estimated to cost $26,900.

The remaining 10 permits were issued for additions or improvements valued at $8,825.

Applications were made during the month of six occupancy permits. Five were granted outright and one was referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals, where a decision is pending.

Lyndon M. Gump, 607 Greene Street, obtained a permit to build a $12,600 stone residence on Lot 1, 2 and 3, Block 50 Cartmell Avenue. Quentin L. Griffey is the contractor.

2,000 Costumed Children March In North End

Gala Halloween Party Held At Playground

Despite a 20-degree drop in temperature between 4:30 p. m. and 8 o'clock last night, over 2,000 youngsters and almost as many oldsters braved the near freezing weather to participate in the most colorful Halloween parade and mardi gras yet staged by the North End Playground Association.

Led by Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Drum Corps, the Junior Band of Allegany High School, Fulton Myers American Legion Drum Corps and the Moose Toonerville Band, four divisions of youthful merry-makers in every type of imaginable costume and dress passed a reviewing stand on Holland Street.

Later at the North End Playground, judges awarded prizes to a score or more of the best characterizations. The judges included Mrs. Lucile Roeder and William H. Buchholtz, city commissioners; William V. Keegan, Raymond Whitehair and James Orr.

Because of the extreme cold and the great crowd, judges did not attempt to keep an accurate record of all prize winners, however, Uncle Russ Reynolds announced each over a microphone and loud speaking system.

At the playground, a package treat was given to each child who marched in the parade, and two miniature rides, a ferris wheel and a train, "Little Toot", were on hand and busy all evening.

Among the members of the North End Playground Association who worked on the affair were Mrs. Joseph E. Mackert, Joseph Richards, Ralph Knieriem, J. L. Bauer, Robert Herboldsheimer, Erich Roeder, Vincent Gaffney, Joseph Richards, E. Edward Diehl, John Cook, Frank L. Twigg, John Blough, Leo Fike, Charles P. Burkey, Frank Kaplon, Paul F. Local 1874 To Support Beall And McKeldin

Hits Tax Policies Of Governor Lane

Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), yesterday threw its support to Theodore R. McKeldin in Maryland's gubernatorial contest and called for the re-election of Rep. J. Glenn Beall in Maryland's Sixth Congressional race.

The endorsements were included in a list of candidates endorsed by the Political Activities Committee of the 4,500-member local largest labor union of Western Maryland.

Earl L. Snyder, president, who announced the union action, said the local's Executive Board also recommended the action taken by the PAC committee of the local.

The endorsements are:

Governor, Theodore R. McKeldin.

United States Senator, Millard E. Tydings.

Congress, Sixth District, J. Glenn Beall.

State Senator, Robert B. Kimble.

Congress, 2nd W. Va., District, Harley O. Staggers.

House of Delegates, Mineral County, George Barger.

House of Delegates, Allegany County, Alexander Nicol, Lester B. Reed, Charles M. See, Leslie J. Clark, Fred B. Driscoll and Stephen Cesnick.

John L. Estes, PAC chairman of the local, said the local cannot support Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., for re-election.

Local 1874, he said, feels the state's mental hospitals are a disgrace, that the Governor has shown indifference and even hostility toward veterans and was unfair in attacks on George P. Mahoney in the primary.

Governor Lane, he added, refuses to answer mail, the telephone or make appointments to see the publice and has failed to return to the public excess taxes collected above the need of the state.

Estes said the committee has examined McKeldin's record, including how he rose from a poor boy to become mayor of Baltimore.

McKeldin, he added, proved his executive ability while mayor of that city and has an excellent record from labor's point of view.

The substitute supervisors will meet at Annapolis on the evening of November 7, election day, at 7 o'clock to pick up the ballots.

Manges said he has nominated the following county residents for the Republican substitute supervisor:

George W. Furstenberg, 113 Fifth Street; Mayor Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg; and Matthew Martin, Rockville street, Lonaconing.

More than a score of prizes were distributed for the best floats, costumes and characters in the parade, and each of the 2,000 marchers received a Halloween treat.

Grantsville Man Dies After Auto Accident

Trial Magistrate's Son Is Fatality

Charles E. Stanton, 41-year old son of Grantsville Trial Magistrate J. U. Stanton, was killed ,apparently almost instantly, when his automobile rammed into the rear of a loaded lumber truck about one-quarter mile east of Grantsville on U. S. Route 40, according to State Police.

Stanton, who also lived in Grantsville, died of a crushed chest in the accident, which occurred about 8:15 last night, police said.

The automobile which Stanton was driving and the lumber truck, driven by Herbert Clifford Layman, 45, also of Grantsville, both were traveling west on Route 40 when the tragedy happened.

State Police had not completed their investigation of the crash last night and were unable to report the cause of the accident.

Stanton's automobile was virtually demolished when it hit the heavily-laden truck. Ironically, a passenger in Stanton's car, Harry R. Hanson, Wheeling, W. Va., sustained only lacerations of the face and head. He was treated by a Grantsville physician and released.

State Trooper Charles H. DeWitt investigated the crash.

The body was taken to the Winterberg Funeral Home in Grantsville.

State Police reported that no charge had been placed against Layman as a result of the traffic death.

West Side Civic Group To Name Five Committees

Smoke Clean-Up Plan Is Taking Shape

The West Side Civic Improvement Association, recently organized to combat smoke, dirt and other nuisances in the city, is getting its program underway, according to Fred Y. Borden, president.

Last night, Borden said several important committees provided for in the constitution and by-laws of the association are being formulated.

These committees include public relations, of which F. Allan Weatherholt has been named chairman; medical advisory, finance and budget, legal, and engineering and technical. The other chairmen and committee members will be announced as soon as the names are all cleared with the individuals involved, Borden said.

Two of the most important groups will be the medical advisory and the engineering and technical committees, Borden said. These two will work out and compile data as to impurities, smoke, dirt and fly ash in the air and will show the affects on human life and property. This information is to be placed in the hands of the legal committee for proper action, and also will be called to the attention of proper authorities with emphasis on a definite program of action.

Borden said, "The people of the West Side along with many from other sections of the city are determined to make the local smoke program work and to get some definite and speedy action, after two years of delay, talk and reports."

GOP "Agents" Visit Here

The girls, Miss Louise Gore and her sister, Miss Mary Gore (right) are shown as they prepared to leave yesterday in their station wagon for a visit to Garrett county. Seeing them off are William A. McKeldin Adds Another Name To "Boss" List

Charges E. B. Lee Dictates To Lane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Theodore R. McKeldin tonight added E. Brook Lee to the list of political bosses to whom, he said, Governor Lane owes allegiance.

In a radio address prepared for delivery over a Washington station, McKeldin said that Lee, a Montgomery County Democratic leader, uses the "State House as his office" and sleeps in the Governor's mansion.

McKeldin, the Republican candidate for governor, told Montgomery County voters that recent political maneuvering among Democrats in Baltimore was "mere shadow boxing."

"Mr. Lane," said McKeldin, "did not attempt to free himself from the shackles of the city bosses any more than he has attempted to free himself from the clutches of Brooke Lee. All he did in Baltimore City was attempt to line up a 100 per cent city boss support in a desperate effort to save his bid for favor as a minority candidate of his party."

McKeldin continued:

"Mr. Lane is and will be completely boss-dominated and primarily interested in the making of political deals at the expense of the public interest."

"Remember," he added, "that on November 7th you can get rid of Brooke Lee by eliminating Mr. Lane, who is the political Charlie McCarthy of Brooke Lee and of every other boss whose support he can obtain."

McKeldin made another bid for the votes of "independent" voters who are registered Democratic, and reiterated earlier statements that, by sound budget controls and increased efficiency, he could bring about a tax reduction without cutting any necessary state services."

"Advance Agents" For GOP Complete Visit To County

Sisters Precede Party Caravan

Two charming young misses left Cumberland last night after spending two days here to spread the word in behalf of Republican candidates in the November 7 election.

The young women, the Misses Mary and Louise Gore from Potmac, Md., a small community in Montgomery County, have been serving as advance agents for the state-wide GOP candidates ever since the Republican campaign moved into high gear.

What do they do? Traveling in a somewhat battered station wagon, they proceed a day ahead of the caravan to the county where the state candidates—Theodore R. McKeldin for governor, John Marshall Butler for senator, and William A. Gunter for attorney general—are to appear next. They also act in support of the GOP congressional candidate in whose district they are present.

While the Republican caravan isn't due in Allegany County for several days yet, the young women came here Wednesday and left last night for Garrett County, a few days ahead of time, because they believe Western Maryland is very important to a state-wide GOP victory on November 7.

There is scarcely room in the station wagon for the Gore sisters because of the Republican literature with which it is loaded.

Once the young women arrive in a county, their first mission is to visit the members of the Republican State Central Committee. Then they call on leading citizens, Democrats and Republicans alike.

When they complete their mission in Garrett County, the young women will stop over again in Allegany County on their way to Washington, Kent and Carroll Counties. Next Wednesday they will be in Chevy Chase, Montgomery County, for a big "Elect Butler" rally.

What does the election look like to them after treks to every point of the state? Excellent for all of the Republican candidates.

Goblins? Witches? Cornstalks Burn

A pile of cornstalks burned in a field between Valley and Furnace Streets, but firemen believe that prangsters rather than Halloween goblins or witches were to blame.

East Side Station firemen pulled the burning stalks apart and stamped out the fire with brooms, also not borrowed from witches.

John L. Estes, PAC chairman of the local, said the local cannot support Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., for re-election.

Local 1874, he said, feels the state's mental hospitals are a disgrace, that the Governor has shown indifference and even hostility toward veterans and was unfair in attacks on George P. Mahoney in the primary.

Governor Lane, he added, refuses to answer mail, the telephone or make appointments to see the publice and has failed to return to the public excess taxes collected above the need of the state.

Estes said the committee has examined McKeldin's record, including how he rose from a poor boy to become mayor of Baltimore.

McKeldin, he added, proved his executive ability while mayor of that city and has an excellent record from labor's point of view.
